

Why Should You

not use the piano that stands idle in your house. No one is too old to learn to play the Angelus. You can understand this wonderful instrument in five minutes, if you give us a chance to show it. It will play any piano.

The Angelus

is endorsed by the world's greatest musicians, Rosenthal, Scharwenka, Damrosch, Bauer and scores of others. Pianos, Organs and all Musical Merchandise at rare prices this week at

PERRY BROTHERS

205 Wyoming Ave. SCRANTON

Ice Cream.

BEST IN TOWN. 25c Per Quart.

LACKAWANNA DAIRY CO

Telephone Orders Promptly Delivered 272-27 Adams Avenue.

DR. A. A. LINDABURY.

Office Hours—11:15 to 12:30 p. m. 2 to 4 p. m. At Residence—7:15 to 9 p. m. Office 210 Canal Building, Residences—210 South Main Avenue.

Scranton Transfer Co.,

HUGH J. KEENAN, Manager. Specials Engage direct from residences to any part of the United States. Office 109 Lacka. Ave. Phone 525

HUNTINGTON'S BAKERY.

CREAM, ICES AND FROZEN FRUITS 420 Spruce Street. Masonic Temple.

DR. PARKE,

Has reopened his office at 308 Washington Avenue. Special attention given to Diseases of Women. Office hours, 10 to 12; 2 to 4; 7 to 8.

C. S. SNYDER,

The Only Dentist In the City Who Is a Graduate in Medicine. 420-422 SPRUCE STREET.

DR. H. B. WARE,

SPECIALIST. Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. Office Hours—9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.; 2 to 4. Williams Building, Opp. Postoffice.

CITY NOTES

PRINTERS' BALL.—This evening the Printers' union will hold its annual ball at Music hall.

SHOULD BE REMEMBERED.—Donation days at St. Joseph's Foundling Home will be today and tomorrow.

SOCIAL AMONG FRIENDS.—The devotional social, announced to be at E. H. H. H., 22 Madison avenue, this evening, is adjourned. Notice will be given later.

MORE DONATIONS.—The managers of the Home for the Friendless acknowledge with thanks a donation of $50 from T. H. Dale, and another of $25 from Mrs. Elizabeth Watkins.

DINNER AND SUPPER.—Thursday, Oct. 26, a dinner will be served from 12 to 1:30 o'clock and a supper from 4 to 7 o'clock, by the ladies of the Penn Avenue Baptist church, in the church parlors.

VERY SUCCESSFUL.—County Commissioner John Demuth and Clerk Fred Kirchoff were at Lake Ariel yesterday fishing. They returned with a nice string and report bass and pickerel both plenty and cheap.

ASSIGNED TO NANTICOKE.—Rev. James A. Martin, who has been assigned priest at St. Paul's church, Green Ridge, was yesterday assigned to the pastorate of St. Francis' church, at Nanticoke, to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of Rev. John Judge to Sugar Notch.

APPLICATIONS CLOSED.—The application list for the civil service examinations for the government positions of letter carriers and postoffice clerks closed on Monday. There are thirty-five who desire

 "THE MODEL," VIENNA CAFE AND RESTAURANT, E. MOSES, PROP., 221-223 WASHINGTON AVENUE, OPP. COURT HOUSE.

Dinner Table d'Hote. Breakfast, Luncheon and Supper a la carte. Oysters served in any style. All table delicacies of the season served in cafe or delivered to families in any quantity desired. Fine Catering a specialty. Fresh invoice of fancy groceries and smoked goods, Salmon, Sturgeon, White Fish.

DIED.

BOULTON.—In Boulder, Colorado, Oct. 23, 1899, Edwin D. Boulton, only brother of F. M. Boulton, formerly of this city.

JONES.—In Seattle, Wash., Oct. 22, 1899, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, wife of Thomas Jones, formerly of this city.

RICHARDS.—In West Scranton, Oct. 21, 1899, Ulna, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Richards, of 115 South Everett avenue, aged 13 years. Funeral private.

DOINGS OF A DAY

IN ARGUMENT COURT

INTERESTING CASE GROWING OUT OF CITY BANK FAILURE.

Only Witness Who Can Establish Existence of an Alleged Bond Is Kept from Taking the Stand by Reason of the Fact That Other Parties to the Action Are Dead. Case in Which the Regularity of Many Lackawanna Deeds Depends. Other Court Matters.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Italian Independent Political club of Old Forge, was just organized for the purpose of promoting and encouraging Republican principles, and to be ready to do battle along that line during this year and the national contest of next year. They will meet again on the 30th of this month, and on the 2d and 4th of November. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Sabbatino Spigorelle, president; Jack Nazzorino, vice president; Luigi Perugini, secretary; Augusto Branzoni, treasurer; Con Morosini, sponsor.

Mass meetings will be conducted throughout the county next week by the Republican county committee, at which local speakers will make the addresses. Chairman Vosburg will be at headquarters each day from 4 o'clock until the company is ended.

The Democrats of West Scranton will organize a Democratic club next Thursday evening at Co-operative hall, North Main avenue. Every Democrat is invited to be present and become a member.

The W. S. Millar association will open its club rooms at 119 Raymond court this evening.

INQUEST IN BUSSARD CASE.

Cause of Death Is Still a Matter of Supposition.

Coroner Roberts held an inquest last night to probe into the cause of the death of Edward Bussard of Minooka avenue, Meoic. The inquest was held in Manner's drug store, Meoic, and was begun at 8 o'clock.

Bussard's body was examined by Coroner Roberts last Saturday morning, and the latter then discovered that though there were no external marks or bruises, several ribs had been broken, the breast-bone was fractured and the man's liver was badly lacerated.

Bussard, who is a teamster, was heading of the water company, and during a halt in his work Friday afternoon stopped at Butler's hotel where he took a few drinks and remained about two hours.

The next heard of him was when he was seen near Thomas Walsh's hotel Friday evening, about 6:30 by W. E. Barnes, a Pittston salesman. The latter's attention was first attracted by a straw wagon seat lying in the road and then he noticed the team ahead, and heard a faint groan. The wagon tongue had been caught in a pile of lumber for the water company, and during a halt in his work Friday afternoon stopped at Butler's hotel where he took a few drinks and remained about two hours.

The next heard of him was when he was seen near Thomas Walsh's hotel Friday evening, about 6:30 by W. E. Barnes, a Pittston salesman. The latter's attention was first attracted by a straw wagon seat lying in the road and then he noticed the team ahead, and heard a faint groan. The wagon tongue had been caught in a pile of lumber for the water company, and during a halt in his work Friday afternoon stopped at Butler's hotel where he took a few drinks and remained about two hours.

When near Manner's drug store, Bussard fainted away and was carried to his home on Minooka avenue near by, where he died fifteen minutes later.

The only supposition can be that the unfortunate man fell under the wagon and it went over him, but how he regained his seat, and why no bruises or injuries were evident, is the mystery.

Bussard made no statement before his death or any explanation whatsoever. He is survived by a wife, three daughters and a son. He has always borne a good name, and was not known to have an enemy in the world. Therefore any evidence of foul play is lacking.

The following witnesses were subpoenaed for the inquest: James Butler, C. E. Courtright, Wm. Stemmetz, Geo. Stemmetz, Thos. Walsh, Michael Dodd, Thos. Thomas, Mrs. Graham and W. E. Barnes.

The jury was made up of the following: Milton Gutz, Jas. T. Brown, Charles Millard, John Robling, H. S. Copp, and John S. Metz.

The jury finally brought in a verdict that the deceased was squeezed to death in some unaccountable manner.

PRISONERS OFF TO THE PEN.

Eight Were Taken Thither by Sheriff Pryor Yesterday.

Yesterday morning Sheriff Pryor and Warden Simpson, with a squad of deputies, left this city for Philadelphia with a batch of convicted prisoners, eight of whom were taken to the Eastern penitentiary and one to the House of Refuge. Robert Selme is the latter.

The other prisoners were E. R. Dunne, convicted of aggravated assault and battery; Andrew Adamsick, robbery; Daniel O'Leary, who created such havoc on the city by his burglaries; A. Steinbaugh, the chicken-thief; Charles H. Moon, the bicycle thief; Frank Monash and James McHugh, highway robbers; and Joseph Coleman, the colored man who robbed Mrs. Huntington.

O'Leary was sentenced for twelve years, Coleman for five, Dunne for one, Adamsick for five, Monash for five, Steinbaugh for three, Moon for two, and McHugh for one and a half.

Reduced Rates to Philadelphia on Account of the National Export Exposition, November 1, 1899.

The Lehigh Valley railroad will sell tickets to Philadelphia and return November 1st, at one fare for the round trip, plus 20 cents for admission coupon to the exposition. Tickets will be honored on any train except the Black Diamond Express, and good for return passage to November 24th, 1899, inclusive.

Consult Lehigh Valley ticket agent for further particulars.

Try a "Joy Maker" 5c. cigar. **

CLARENCY WRITES

ON THE CONVENTION

"FIREMEN'S FRIEND" TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

In an Article in the Evening Star the Well Known Legislator-Fireman Gives an Interesting Review of His Visit to Scranton During the State Firemen's Convention and Makes Some Comments on Firemen and Their Conventions in General. One of Their Franks.

The following contributed to the Philadelphia Evening Star by Hon. James Clarency. "The Fireman's Friend," will be read with interest here, especially by the firemen:

"It has been said that all work and no play makes a very dull existence, and I am no exception to the general rule. I must have 'my day off.' The fact is, instead of having one day off, I have taken several of them, and have enjoyed them, too. I always do when I am invited to an expedition such as I have enjoyed this season. I have written up several descriptions, that is I have attempted to write up several of these affairs, but have never done justice to the occasion. No man can. To fully appreciate the situation one must be present and take part in it. I refer to the annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of Pennsylvania, which has just closed its twentieth session at Scranton.

"It was a hoisting success. Delegates to the number of 600 were present from every city, town and hamlet throughout the state, and nineteen-twentieths of the '600' were, like myself, having a 'day off.'"

"Few of our younger generation can appreciate what a fireman's convention means to the fire department west of the Allegheny. Previous to that year, conventions for various fire purposes were quite common in Philadelphia, and the now almost forgotten Northern Liberty hose monument, which stands in the old Odd Fellows' cemetery on Diamond street, was the mecca of all visiting firemen. No meeting nor convention was completed without a visit to that statue, which, with its fine model of a fireman in the old-fashioned uniform of the early '50's, forms a striking contrast to the latter-day equipments.

"With the departure of the volunteer fire system, conventions practically ceased in Philadelphia. The same may be said of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. They (the conventions) are now held annually in some one of the larger towns where a volunteer fire department still exists, and where the people of the town, men, women and children, are in entire sympathy with the occasion. It is this unanimity of feeling which makes these gatherings so complete a success.

"The 600 delegates are but a small portion of the visiting firemen. They are the people who legislate on the matter, but the visiting fire departments from the surrounding country are the real attraction.

"These visiting firemen prepare for the occasion months in advance of the convention. They wear dress uniforms kept specially for these occasions, and their marching would do credit to an army of regulars.

"Some idea of the intense interest manifested on these occasions may be gathered from the fact that I counted eighty-six visiting fire companies in the line of parade, which, with the sixteen home companies of Scranton bringing up the rear, made a procession of one hundred and two companies. Many companies paraded without their apparatus. They came from such a distance that transportation of engines and horses was out of the question.

"Aside from the convention and parade, the innocent pranks and practical jokes played by the firemen upon each other, forms an endless variety of amusement.

"There is no length to which a fireman, company or department will not go to get the best of another. I remember, at the Wilkes-Barre convention in 1897, where a prize of $50 was offered for the finest visiting company's apparatus in the line of parade. A visiting company who had attended the convention without any apparatus, borrowed a pair of magnificent horses from a local breeding company and a steam fire engine which bore the same name as their own, from a friendly company in a neighboring town. With this team they boldly appeared in the line of parade, and actually won the prize. To their credit be it said, that they immediately made the joke public and donated the $50 to the Wilkes-Barre Firemen's Relief Association.

The convention of 1899 will be held in the far-off western city of New Castle, on the Erie railroad, half way between Pittsburg and Erie, but it matters little how far off the city may be, the "boys" will be on hand. It will be their "day off." James Clarency.

GEORGE IS MUCH ACCUSED.

Nicholas George, of Providence, Arrested by A. B. Ruddy.

Nicholas George, of Providence, was arrested and taken before Alderman Millar yesterday on the oath and information of A. B. Ruddy, likewise of Providence.

George was accused of assault and battery, threats to kill and carrying concealed weapons. He waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $500. Pennsylvania Postmasters.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Wilson Mills was today appointed postmaster at Brink Hill, Bradford county.

CLARENCY WRITES

ON THE CONVENTION

"FIREMEN'S FRIEND" TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

In an Article in the Evening Star the Well Known Legislator-Fireman Gives an Interesting Review of His Visit to Scranton During the State Firemen's Convention and Makes Some Comments on Firemen and Their Conventions in General. One of Their Franks.

The following contributed to the Philadelphia Evening Star by Hon. James Clarency. "The Fireman's Friend," will be read with interest here, especially by the firemen:

"It has been said that all work and no play makes a very dull existence, and I am no exception to the general rule. I must have 'my day off.' The fact is, instead of having one day off, I have taken several of them, and have enjoyed them, too. I always do when I am invited to an expedition such as I have enjoyed this season. I have written up several descriptions, that is I have attempted to write up several of these affairs, but have never done justice to the occasion. No man can. To fully appreciate the situation one must be present and take part in it. I refer to the annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of Pennsylvania, which has just closed its twentieth session at Scranton.

"It was a hoisting success. Delegates to the number of 600 were present from every city, town and hamlet throughout the state, and nineteen-twentieths of the '600' were, like myself, having a 'day off.'"

"Few of our younger generation can appreciate what a fireman's convention means to the fire department west of the Allegheny. Previous to that year, conventions for various fire purposes were quite common in Philadelphia, and the now almost forgotten Northern Liberty hose monument, which stands in the old Odd Fellows' cemetery on Diamond street, was the mecca of all visiting firemen. No meeting nor convention was completed without a visit to that statue, which, with its fine model of a fireman in the old-fashioned uniform of the early '50's, forms a striking contrast to the latter-day equipments.

"With the departure of the volunteer fire system, conventions practically ceased in Philadelphia. The same may be said of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. They (the conventions) are now held annually in some one of the larger towns where a volunteer fire department still exists, and where the people of the town, men, women and children, are in entire sympathy with the occasion. It is this unanimity of feeling which makes these gatherings so complete a success.

"The 600 delegates are but a small portion of the visiting firemen. They are the people who legislate on the matter, but the visiting fire departments from the surrounding country are the real attraction.

"These visiting firemen prepare for the occasion months in advance of the convention. They wear dress uniforms kept specially for these occasions, and their marching would do credit to an army of regulars.

"Some idea of the intense interest manifested on these occasions may be gathered from the fact that I counted eighty-six visiting fire companies in the line of parade, which, with the sixteen home companies of Scranton bringing up the rear, made a procession of one hundred and two companies. Many companies paraded without their apparatus. They came from such a distance that transportation of engines and horses was out of the question.

"Aside from the convention and parade, the innocent pranks and practical jokes played by the firemen upon each other, forms an endless variety of amusement.

"There is no length to which a fireman, company or department will not go to get the best of another. I remember, at the Wilkes-Barre convention in 1897, where a prize of $50 was offered for the finest visiting company's apparatus in the line of parade. A visiting company who had attended the convention without any apparatus, borrowed a pair of magnificent horses from a local breeding company and a steam fire engine which bore the same name as their own, from a friendly company in a neighboring town. With this team they boldly appeared in the line of parade, and actually won the prize. To their credit be it said, that they immediately made the joke public and donated the $50 to the Wilkes-Barre Firemen's Relief Association.

The convention of 1899 will be held in the far-off western city of New Castle, on the Erie railroad, half way between Pittsburg and Erie, but it matters little how far off the city may be, the "boys" will be on hand. It will be their "day off." James Clarency.

GEORGE IS MUCH ACCUSED.

Nicholas George, of Providence, Arrested by A. B. Ruddy.

Nicholas George, of Providence, was arrested and taken before Alderman Millar yesterday on the oath and information of A. B. Ruddy, likewise of Providence.

George was accused of assault and battery, threats to kill and carrying concealed weapons. He waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $500. Pennsylvania Postmasters.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Wilson Mills was today appointed postmaster at Brink Hill, Bradford county.

CLARENCY WRITES

ON THE CONVENTION

"FIREMEN'S FRIEND" TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

In an Article in the Evening Star the Well Known Legislator-Fireman Gives an Interesting Review of His Visit to Scranton During the State Firemen's Convention and Makes Some Comments on Firemen and Their Conventions in General. One of Their Franks.

The following contributed to the Philadelphia Evening Star by Hon. James Clarency. "The Fireman's Friend," will be read with interest here, especially by the firemen:

"It has been said that all work and no play makes a very dull existence, and I am no exception to the general rule. I must have 'my day off.' The fact is, instead of having one day off, I have taken several of them, and have enjoyed them, too. I always do when I am invited to an expedition such as I have enjoyed this season. I have written up several descriptions, that is I have attempted to write up several of these affairs, but have never done justice to the occasion. No man can. To fully appreciate the situation one must be present and take part in it. I refer to the annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of Pennsylvania, which has just closed its twentieth session at Scranton.

"It was a hoisting success. Delegates to the number of 600 were present from every city, town and hamlet throughout the state, and nineteen-twentieths of the '600' were, like myself, having a 'day off.'"

"Few of our younger generation can appreciate what a fireman's convention means to the fire department west of the Allegheny. Previous to that year, conventions for various fire purposes were quite common in Philadelphia, and the now almost forgotten Northern Liberty hose monument, which stands in the old Odd Fellows' cemetery on Diamond street, was the mecca of all visiting firemen. No meeting nor convention was completed without a visit to that statue, which, with its fine model of a fireman in the old-fashioned uniform of the early '50's, forms a striking contrast to the latter-day equipments.

"With the departure of the volunteer fire system, conventions practically ceased in Philadelphia. The same may be said of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. They (the conventions) are now held annually in some one of the larger towns where a volunteer fire department still exists, and where the people of the town, men, women and children, are in entire sympathy with the occasion. It is this unanimity of feeling which makes these gatherings so complete a success.

"The 600 delegates are but a small portion of the visiting firemen. They are the people who legislate on the matter, but the visiting fire departments from the surrounding country are the real attraction.

"These visiting firemen prepare for the occasion months in advance of the convention. They wear dress uniforms kept specially for these occasions, and their marching would do credit to an army of regulars.

"Some idea of the intense interest manifested on these occasions may be gathered from the fact that I counted eighty-six visiting fire companies in the line of parade, which, with the sixteen home companies of Scranton bringing up the rear, made a procession of one hundred and two companies. Many companies paraded without their apparatus. They came from such a distance that transportation of engines and horses was out of the question.

"Aside from the convention and parade, the innocent pranks and practical jokes played by the firemen upon each other, forms an endless variety of amusement.

"There is no length to which a fireman, company or department will not go to get the best of another. I remember, at the Wilkes-Barre convention in 1897, where a prize of $50 was offered for the finest visiting company's apparatus in the line of parade. A visiting company who had attended the convention without any apparatus, borrowed a pair of magnificent horses from a local breeding company and a steam fire engine which bore the same name as their own, from a friendly company in a neighboring town. With this team they boldly appeared in the line of parade, and actually won the prize. To their credit be it said, that they immediately made the joke public and donated the $50 to the Wilkes-Barre Firemen's Relief Association.

The convention of 1899 will be held in the far-off western city of New Castle, on the Erie railroad, half way between Pittsburg and Erie, but it matters little how far off the city may be, the "boys" will be on hand. It will be their "day off." James Clarency.

GEORGE IS MUCH ACCUSED.

Nicholas George, of Providence, Arrested by A. B. Ruddy.

Nicholas George, of Providence, was arrested and taken before Alderman Millar yesterday on the oath and information of A. B. Ruddy, likewise of Providence.

George was accused of assault and battery, threats to kill and carrying concealed weapons. He waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $500. Pennsylvania Postmasters.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Wilson Mills was today appointed postmaster at Brink Hill, Bradford county.

CLARENCY WRITES

ON THE CONVENTION

"FIREMEN'S FRIEND" TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

In an Article in the Evening Star the Well Known Legislator-Fireman Gives an Interesting Review of His Visit to Scranton During the State Firemen's Convention and Makes Some Comments on Firemen and Their Conventions in General. One of Their Franks.

The following contributed to the Philadelphia Evening Star by Hon. James Clarency. "The Fireman's Friend," will be read with interest here, especially by the firemen:

"It has been said that all work and no play makes a very dull existence, and I am no exception to the general rule. I must have 'my day off.' The fact is, instead of having one day off, I have taken several of them, and have enjoyed them, too. I always do when I am invited to an expedition such as I have enjoyed this season. I have written up several descriptions, that is I have attempted to write up several of these affairs, but have never done justice to the occasion. No man can. To fully appreciate the situation one must be present and take part in it. I refer to the annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of Pennsylvania, which has just closed its twentieth session at Scranton.

"It was a hoisting success. Delegates to the number of 600 were present from every city, town and hamlet throughout the state, and nineteen-twentieths of the '600' were, like myself, having a 'day off.'"

"Few of our younger generation can appreciate what a fireman's convention means to the fire department west of the Allegheny. Previous to that year, conventions for various fire purposes were quite common in Philadelphia, and the now almost forgotten Northern Liberty hose monument, which stands in the old Odd Fellows' cemetery on Diamond street, was the mecca of all visiting firemen. No meeting nor convention was completed without a visit to that statue, which, with its fine model of a fireman in the old-fashioned uniform of the early '50's, forms a striking contrast to the latter-day equipments.

"With the departure of the volunteer fire system, conventions practically ceased in Philadelphia. The same may be said of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. They (the conventions) are now held annually in some one of the larger towns where a volunteer fire department still exists, and where the people of the town, men, women and children, are in entire sympathy with the occasion. It is this unanimity of feeling which makes these gatherings so complete a success.

"The 600 delegates are but a small portion of the visiting firemen. They are the people who legislate on the matter, but the visiting fire departments from the surrounding country are the real attraction.

"These visiting firemen prepare for the occasion months in advance of the convention. They wear dress uniforms kept specially for these occasions, and their marching would do credit to an army of regulars.

"Some idea of the intense interest manifested on these occasions may be gathered from the fact that I counted eighty-six visiting fire companies in the line of parade, which, with the sixteen home companies of Scranton bringing up the rear, made a procession of one hundred and two companies. Many companies paraded without their apparatus. They came from such a distance that transportation of engines and horses was out of the question.

"Aside from the convention and parade, the innocent pranks and practical jokes played by the firemen upon each other, forms an endless variety of amusement.

"There is no length to which a fireman, company or department will not go to get the best of another. I remember, at the Wilkes-Barre convention in 1897, where a prize of $50 was offered for the finest visiting company's apparatus in the line of parade. A visiting company who had attended the convention without any apparatus, borrowed a pair of magnificent horses from a local breeding company and a steam fire engine which bore the same name as their own, from a friendly company in a neighboring town. With this team they boldly appeared in the line of parade, and actually won the prize. To their credit be it said, that they immediately made the joke public and donated the $50 to the Wilkes-Barre Firemen's Relief Association.

The convention of 1899 will be held in the far-off western city of New Castle, on the Erie railroad, half way between Pittsburg and Erie, but it matters little how far off the city may be, the "boys" will be on hand. It will be their "day off." James Clarency.

GEORGE IS MUCH ACCUSED.

Nicholas George, of Providence, Arrested by A. B. Ruddy.

Nicholas George, of Providence, was arrested and taken before Alderman Millar yesterday on the oath and information of A. B. Ruddy, likewise of Providence.

George was accused of assault and battery, threats to kill and carrying concealed weapons. He waived a hearing and entered bail in the sum of $500. Pennsylvania Postmasters.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Wilson Mills was today appointed postmaster at Brink Hill, Bradford county.

CLARENCY WRITES

ON THE CONVENTION

"FIREMEN'S FRIEND" TELLS OF HIS IMPRESSIONS.

In an Article in the Evening Star the Well Known Legislator-Fireman Gives an Interesting Review of His Visit to Scranton During the State Firemen's Convention and Makes Some Comments on Firemen and Their Conventions in General. One of Their Franks.

The following contributed to the Philadelphia Evening Star by Hon. James Clarency. "The Fireman's Friend," will be read with interest here, especially by the firemen:

"It has been said that all work and no play makes a very dull existence, and I am no exception to the general rule. I must have 'my day off.' The fact is, instead of having one day off, I have taken several of them, and have enjoyed them, too. I always do when I am invited to an expedition such as I have enjoyed this season. I have written up several descriptions, that is I have attempted to write up several of these affairs, but have never done justice to the occasion. No man can. To fully appreciate the situation one must be present and take part in it. I refer to the annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of Pennsylvania, which has just closed its twentieth session at Scranton.

"It was a hoisting success. Delegates to the number of 600 were present from every city, town and hamlet throughout the state, and nineteen-twentieths of the '600' were, like myself, having a 'day off.'"

"Few of our younger generation can appreciate what a fireman's convention means to the fire department west of the Allegheny. Previous to that year, conventions for various fire purposes were quite common in Philadelphia, and the now almost forgotten Northern Liberty hose monument, which stands in the old Odd Fellows' cemetery on Diamond street, was the mecca of all visiting firemen. No meeting nor convention was completed without a visit to that statue, which, with its fine model of a fireman in the old-fashioned uniform of the early '50's, forms a striking contrast to the latter-day equipments.

"With the departure of the volunteer fire system, conventions practically ceased in Philadelphia. The same may be said of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. They (the conventions) are now held annually in some one