In this booth there are many other curios and articles too numerous to mention. On each evening a grand entertainment is given. The Klondike booth, presided over by two Klondike adventurers, Messrs. Purday and Rook, comes in for its share of attention. Here is found a complete outfit used by them in their recent trip to the gold fields of Alaska. A prospector's tent has been erected and camp life is depicted in all its wild and woolly state. Messrs. Purday and Rook serve Aunt Jemima griddle cakes, and they are well patronized. Tomorrow evening an exceptionally entertaining programme has been prepared and those who have not already had the pleasure of a visit to the loan exhibit should not miss the opportunity, for a very interesting evening may be spent at the exhibit.

In the exposition of 1900 the French authorities have made careful and adequate provision for a thoroughly well lassified series of congresses. A magnificent building has been erected to receive these assemblies and several congresses may meet in it at the same time. The building has an area of 100 David Belasco's dramatic triumph. "Zaza," will be presented by Charles netres above the level of the Seine. The ground floor of the building is deoted to the various exhibits of Social Economy, but the numerous halls will he appropriated by the congresses assigned. The Physicians' congress, which is usually the most largely attended and which expects an assemblage of $,000 must necessarily meet in some larger auditorium, but the building designed will accommodate nearly which have made the play remarkable | all of the congresses.

At the present writing 105 congresse have been officially authorized by the Paris exposition authorities. Some of these congresses are merely the meetings of long established and wellknown international scientific societies such, for example, as the congresses on medicine, mathematics, mines and mining, engineering, education, labor problems, charities, etc. These congresses have their regular organization and committees, and simply meet under the general supervision and authority of the Paris exposition. The congresses which are new, or which have been in existence but a short time, are more strictly supervised by the exposition officials and must conform to the rules and regulations prescribed by them.

It is interesting to know, simply as a curlosity, the list of congreases which the energy of the French Exposition officials have arranged for up to date Accidents during Employment and Industrial Insurance: Actuarial Congress; Aeronautic; Agriculture; the
