ACCUSED OF ILLEGAL PRACTICE Mary Mish is Given a Hearing Before Alderman Millar. Mary Mish, of 1825 Cross street, a midwife accused by Joseph J. Martin, 961 Cross street of unlawful practice of medicine and surgery without being a graduate of any medical college was arraigned last night before Alderman Millar. Attorneys Charles E. Daniels and W. M. Hunnell appeared for the prosecution while Attorney Clarence Balentine conducted Mrs. Mish's side of the case. The prosecution attempted to prove that Mrs. Mish in sending for certain pills, on one occasion had exceeded her prerogatives as a midwife. The defense presented Mr. Beck, deputy prothonotary, who presented the medical register of Lackawanna county showing that Mrs. Mish was duly registered. This, the prosecution contended, was not a necessary precaution as such practitioners are no longer expected to register. Dr. Roos, of Adams avenue, testified that although he had never had any professional dealings with the woman he had always known of her as competent and painstaking. Mr. Balentine asked that the case be discharged as the law does not require that a midwife should go through any examination, or be a graduate of any college, before practicing, and that no midwife had ever been convicted of any such charge, citing the case of Lena Gable, now in quarter sessions. Attorney Daniels made a response in which he claimed that Mrs. Mish had been guilty of the charge preferred and therefore should be duly punished. He made a strong argument and the alderman then closed the case by ordering the defendant in her attorney's charge, until he should deliberate over the matter.

THE DIXIE ENTERTAINMENT. Promises to be an Unusually Interesting Event. The demand for tickets for the benefit to be given Mr. and Mrs. Dixie at the parish house of St. Luke's a week from Tuesday goes steadily on. Indications point to a crowded house and a performance worthy of the cause. The committee of arrangements hopes to achieve one more triumph in Mr. Sanderson's sketch for Scranton's local talent as well as to present Mr. and Mrs. Dixie with a more substantial token of their thanks for their capable and engaging the ministrations and the good will. The constitution of Atlanta, Georgia, where Mr. and Mrs. Dixie played while on the road for the Star Lyceum Bureau of New York, has this much to say regarding one of the comedies they will present. "The entertainment given in the Y. M. C. A. course was simply perfect. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dixie who gave their sketch 'Sweethearts' were first class in ever particular and worthy of the frequent and hearty applause they received." The sale of seats commences on November 1st, at L. B. Powell & Co.'s music store.

PRISON BOARD HAS BEEN ORGANIZED COUNTY JAIL PRISONERS WILL BE PUT TO WORK.

Act Passed by the Last Legislature Empowering Counties to Put Male Prisoners at Manual Labor Is to Be Applied Here—Squad Will Be Put to Work at Once Grading the County Lot in the Rear of the Jail—Suburban Roads Will Later Be Improved. Pursuant to the act passed by the last legislature authorizing county governments to exact eight hours manual labor from male prisoners confined in jails or workhouses, a prison board was yesterday organized by the presiding judge, sheriff and county commissioners, the officials presented by a board to comprise the board. Judge Archibald was elected president, and E. E. Robotham was made clerk. H. F. Forber and Robert Allen were named as overseers, whose duty it will be to direct the work of the prisoners and guard against their escape. By invitation of Judge Archibald, there were present at the meeting in an advisory capacity, Colonel H. M. Boies, ex-justice Alfred Hand, Mayor James Molt, City Engineer Joseph P. Phillips, Civil Engineer A. B. Dunnington and Warden W. T. Simpson. After the board had organized an informal discussion of the practicability and expediency of applying the act in this county ensued and the conclusion was reached that it should be given a trial. MAKE AN EXPERIMENT. Accordingly a squad of prisoners will be put at work in the course of a day or so grading and fencing the vacant lot in the rear of the jail owned by the county. Should this mild test of the law prove successful the scheme will be undertaken on a larger scale. The making and repairing of the main roads in the city suburbs are among the things contemplated. The first experiment will probably be made with the Newton turnpike between the Keyser Valley branch of the Lackawanna road and the summit of the West mountain, which thoroughfare is at present in an almost impassable condition and which must remain that way for some time to come if the city is depended upon to make the repairs, there being no appropriation or available money that could be applied to such an improvement. It is proposed to borrow the city road miller to help in the work, and the patrol wagon is to be brought into use in conveying the prisoners to and from their work. The prisoners, Warden Simpson says, will be perfectly willing to do the work in Potter county where the plan is in operation, and which has proved a way from a prisoner who was confined for selling liquor without a license and who was directed to work out his $500 fine at the rate of a dollar a day. The court, however, was overstepping its authority and the sentence was not carried out in Lackawanna county a position on the work-gang of a punishment, no doubt, and prisoners such as liquor dealers, editors and others not accustomed to manual labor will be permitted to stay in doors if they so choose.

THE LAW IN THE CASE. It was thought the court was empowered by an old law to reduce imprisonment terms in county jails for good behavior, but Judge Archibald looked up the matter yesterday and found that this law is not now in operation. It was intended to apply this law in rewarding prisoners for faithful work. Be it enacted, etc. that from and after the passage of this act, it shall be lawful to require every male prisoner now or hereafter confined within any jail or workhouse in this commonwealth to do and perform a certain amount of labor each day of such imprisonment, except on Sunday or such legal holidays as are now or may hereafter be established by law; no steam, electricity or other motive power shall be used in the conduct of the said labor or employment, or on any part thereof. The prison board so constituted and each of them, within their respective counties, and subject to the rules and regulations to be established under the provisions of section two of this act, and under such control and management as shall be therein and thereby provided, shall have full power and authority to require and compel to said male prisoners to work on public highways outside of the limits of the jails and workhouses, but within their respective counties. The preference to be given to public roads leading to and from county seats—all roads to be made to conform to grade and width to the extent and laws of the state—and, in order that the work done may be equitably distributed, no more than five miles shall be completed on any road until a like mileage has been completed on each and all main roads connecting with county seats, and thereafter work shall be done in like sections of five miles, until all said roads are improved in grade, width and quality. The board will meet again Saturday, Nov. 11, to consider rules.

JEALOUSY CAUSED PELOZI TO SHOOT MURDERED MAN TRIED TO ALIENATE WIFE'S AFFECTION.

Spinnello Wanted to Elope With Mrs. Pelozzi, and When She Refused He Attempted to Criminally Assault Her and Threatened to Kill Her. Husband Became Angered and Killed the Boarder—Murderer Still at Large—Description of Pelozzi. Coroner Held an Autopsy. Investigation yesterday revealed the fact that jealousy was the cause of the murder in Old Forge Sunday evening, when Antonio Spinnello was shot dead by his boarding boss, Angelo Pelozzi. The murdered man had been living with the Pelozzi family for a long time, and became enamored of Mrs. Pelozzi. She resented his advances, and threatened to acquaint her husband with the facts if Spinnello persisted in his attentions. Three months ago Spinnello wanted Pelozzi's wife to elope with him, but she refused, saying that she would rather be shot dead than be unfaithful to her husband. Spinnello persisted in his endeavors to separate the couple, but without success, and was again warned by Mrs. Pelozzi that unless he refrained from annoying her, she would inform her husband. About three weeks ago, while the woman was engaged in her household duties, Spinnello attempted to criminally assault her, and threatened to kill her if she told any one of what happened. Janero Passero, who was in the house at the time, learned of Spinnello's intention, and also threatened to inform Pelozzi of what occurred. A few days ago, Mrs. Pelozzi heard that her husband was in Old Forge, and when they had reached a point near where the shooting occurred they met Pelozzi. The former was engaged in conversation about Pelozzi's wife, when Spinnello remarked that if the woman did not accede to his wishes, he (Spinnello) would kill her, and also, her husband, if necessary. Pelozzi was nearby and overheard the conversation. Approaching the two men, he asked them what they were talking about. Both replied that they were talking about themselves, but Pelozzi would not believe their story, and drew a revolver from his pocket and fired four shots, two of which took effect in Spinnello's body. Passero grappled with the murderer, and Pelozzi threatened to shoot him if he did not let him go. Passero hung on, however, and Pelozzi pointed the revolver square at his face and pulled the trigger. Fortunately the cartridge failed to explode, and Passero took to his heels, running as fast as he could to the house of Ober James Bell, whom he informed of the murder. Meantime, Pelozzi, it is supposed, took a roundabout course back to his brother-in-law's house, where it is believed he was secreted during the night. Detective Leyshon searched the premises but failed to find the murderer. The occupants swore that the man had not been there, but their statement is not believed. Pelozzi's wife said that she was with her husband at 9 o'clock p. m. in the house where the wedding occurred, and that he left there to go to his brother-in-law's house. According to her statement, the murderer was 20 years of age and wore a dark suit of clothes and slouch hat. He has black hair and slight black moustache, and speaks fairly good English. He also wore a heavy silver watch chain.
