POLITICS IN MONROE.

Leaders of the Farmers' Movement Are on a Still Hunt.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Stroudsburg, Nov. 1.-The present rampaign is one of the most exciting in the history of either of the old political parties. The division in the Democratic ranks makes the outcome uncertain and no one can safely predict with any degree of certainty the result. The farmers' ticket, which was nominated by dissatisfied Democrats, is giv-ing all the trouble. The leaders of the farmers' movement thus far have conducted rather a still hunt campaign and are not giving out any figures nor estimate of their vote. Strange to say, the regular Democrats have not, as was expected, put forth any extra effort to get out the Democratic vote. The Democratic leaders profess to believe that the independent movement is not going to amount to much, and that when the vote is counted few surprises will be seen. The dissatisfaction in the Democratic ranks exist mostly in the western townships, where the farmer's vote is the strongest. The independents will support the Republican candidate for register and recorder in the hope that many Republicans will "vote the farmers' ticket. There appears to be no indication whatever that the Republicans will do this, and the chances are that the Republican ticket will receive a good vote The last few days of the campaign will show few surprises, and from present indications a large vote will be polled The Prohibitionists have a ticket in the field but little work has been done by the cold water leaders, and their vote will show a falling off from last year.

Honesdale, Nov. 1.-The political contest is moving along quietly. No pub-lic meetings are being held. A personal canvass is being made by the candidates, which has proven to them that the entire Republican ticket will be elected. This is an important elecn, as associate judge, sheriff prothonotary, recorder, district attorney, auditors and county commissioners are to be elected. The county affairs have been so well managed by the Republicans during the last term that there is no need of a change at this time.

The Republican ticket is made up of men who have the ability to continue the management successfully and still further reduce the county debt. Voters will do well to consider this. A large vote will be polled.
