

CARBONDALE.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM OWENS

William Owens, of Welsh Settlement, was buried yesterday. He was 82 years old. Old residents of this place will remember well when there was a prominent figure here forty-five years ago.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Miss Slocum and Miss Eggleston spent yesterday in Scranton. Mr. H. Carpenter has returned to Uniondale.

Friends in this city have received invitations to a reception to be given by Miss Edith Rymer, of Jersey, this afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock.

Hert Wickwire and Z. C. Bell have returned from a hunting expedition with twenty rabbits.

Miss Carrie Price, of Belmont street, is visiting Philadelphia friends.

Frank Hollenbeck is visiting in Thompson.

The funeral of M. J. Healey will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from No. 14 North Main street.

Miss Furler is able to take charge of the Delaware and Hudson store again.

Mrs. G. W. Norris is confined to her home by illness.

Undertaker E. J. McHale was in Scranton on business yesterday.

Miss Frances Maxwell, of Jersey, called on Carbondale friends yesterday.

Frank Sparks, of Belmont street, has accepted a situation in the Review office, vice R. W. Munn, resigned.

Miss May Manville returned home last night from her extended visit.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

A Horse Afflicted with Rabies Shot.

Mayfield School Board Meeting.

Red Men Move to Odd Fellows Hall

A horse belonging to Proprietor Pedrick of the Sweeney house, which was bitten by a mad dog several months ago, began acting strangely yesterday.

The monthly meeting of the Odd Fellows was held at the Odd Fellows hall last night.

Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy, of Schick-shire, are visiting at the home of the daughter, Mrs. W. H. Dodson, of Second street, who has been critically ill for several days past.

Mr. and Mrs. Polly Solomon were among a number of young people of the borough who attended the interesting session at the Epworth league convention at Carbondale Wednesday evening.

A child of Mr. and Mrs. William Jesup, of Fourth street, is ill of cholera infantum.

Mrs. Thomas Bruce, of Scranton, was a visitor here yesterday.

Monday night of Red Men, who have for several great successes in Gardner's hall, will hereafter have their wigwag in Odd Fellows' hall.

Mine Inspector Roderick made an official visit to some of the local collieries yesterday.

Oscar C. Smith, camp, Sons of Veterans, held his annual inspection on Wednesday evening at the local hall.

Burglars entered the branch office of the Prudential Insurance company in this town yesterday morning.

David Gardner, of Scranton, was a caller here yesterday.

No information can be gleaned from the committee negotiating for the location of the new silk mill. We were, however, informed last evening from a reliable source that there is but little doubt the mill will be located here.

The Crystal Broom attended the Mitchell company's fair at Carbondale last evening.

The William Walker Hose company, of Mayfield, attended the Artesians' fair in Enterprise hall last evening.

The hall was well filled and a great deal of money was taken in. It was without doubt the banner night so far.

OLYPHANT.

The services in connection with the formal re-opening of the Susquehanna Street Baptist church commenced yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The service was held in the presence of the congregation by Rev. John D. Edwards, Wilkes-Barre; John Thomas, Pittston; Hopkins, Hyde Park; John Hague, Plymouth, and W. E. Davis, Providence.

The evening dress was delivered by Mrs. John Hague of Plymouth and W. E. Davis of Providence. A mortgage, which has been on the church for eight years, was cancelled this week and last night the mortgage was burned in the presence of the congregation by Mrs. Rebecca Williams, its oldest member, who has been a communicant of the church since 1859, a period of forty years.

Mrs. Williams became a member of the Welsh Baptist church at Carbondale fifty-seven years ago.

Services will be held in the church this afternoon and evening, when discourses will be delivered in Welsh and English by the visiting clergymen. All are welcome.

a dance of the Royal Madrid Opera company, appear and sing and the broken down tenor, while teaching his familiar serenade to the tailor, is overheard by the Duke, mistaken for Alvarado, and incarcerated in the tower.

The action then shifts to the grounds of the monastery and an adjoining convent. Dolores, who has been placed in the convent by the Duke, effects her escape from the grounds by means of an exchange of clothes, who, seeking her secret lover, Alvarado, has followed him to the monastery.

The subsequent appearance of Romeo, the bandit (John Dunsmuir), in disguise, and the arrival of the stage struck tailor into the monastery, brings about the recital of the serenade, and the chorus of this song swayed over the garden wall and reaching the ears of the Duke, who has returned to the convent and learned of Dolores' disappearance, rounds out several amusing situations.

In the last act all ends happily in true operatic style. Most of the music of the opera is bright and catchy, the kind the audience hums on the way home, and therefore the kind that pleases most the great majority of theatergoers.

During the last year several familiar faces have disappeared from the Bostonians and they were missed last night. The company at present traveling with Messrs. Burnside and Macdonald is a very capable one, as its rendition of the opera last night demonstrated.

The chorus was not up to the Bostonian standard. The opera is nicely staged and the company carries its own orchestra.

"Kidnapped in New York." "Kidnapped in New York" a play founded on the sensational story of the stealing of Baby Marion Clark, began a three day engagement at the Academy of Music last evening.

Barney Gilmore, who has been seen here with Irish comedies, takes the principal role, that of Mr. Dooley, a newspaper correspondent and detective, and meets with a rather unfortunate fate.

Lillian Shirley, as "Cruller," the Frida of Mulberry Bend, does a capable piece of acting, and C. W. Goodrich, as "Sig Mazzetti, King of Kidnappers," succeeds admirably and deservedly in getting himself almost continually hauled.

The part of "Baby Marion" is taken by a clever lot, Baby Bessie Burt. A dancing specialty by C. W. Goodrich and Lillian Shirley introduced in the third act is a leading feature of the performance.

The story, thrilling as it actually was, and more thrilling as the yellow journals made it, was still too unthrilling to suit the dramatic ideas of a Mr. Howard Hale, but he is still, however, that it is thrilling enough to suit the tastes of the average audience.

No one need hesitate to attend the performance on the score of its being dull.

"A Night in Chinatown." "A Night in Chinatown" was presented in a realistic way at the Gaiety theater yesterday afternoon.

The production was introduced by the Victoria Burlesquers. Opium smoking, Keno, fan tan and the various amusements of the Chinese den were vividly shown in the first sketch presented by Lin 'Ching Poo and company.

In the second sketch Miss Aggie Behler, the subtitle, introduced a comedy character comedians, and Le Roy and Morris, the acrobats, were excellent.

Red and Gilbert, Irish travesty artists, and Camille Stafford, the illustrated ballad singer, gave pleasing numbers.

The Victoria Burlesquers will be at the Gaiety for the balance of the week with matinees daily.

"Jack and the Beanstalk." "Jack and the Beanstalk" that brilliant production of extravaganza which comes to the Lyceum Saturday afternoon and evening, is repeating the triumph of the past seasons and has thus far played to an unbroken series of immense audiences.

The attraction which this production has for the theatergoing public is not difficult of explanation.

This season's "Jack" rejoices in a new dress and has never before possessed such beauty of scene and costume adornment. The estate is said to be the best, also that the piece has ever had.

"Laura Hulbert." When the Burrill Comedy company open their week of engagements at the Academy of Music next Monday night, they will present to the theatergoers of this city an actress of extraordinary ability in the person of Miss Laura Hulbert.

Her clever work in the large cities of the past seasons and from the press and public, has been reported by an unusually strong company, and her success here is assured.

During the engagement of the Burrill Comedy company a number of well known scenic artists will be presented, with a cast of special scenes.

Included in the repertoire is William Haworth's great natural drama, "The Englishman," "A Flag of Truce," by the same author, and William Calder's famous success, "Saved from the Sea."

The usual matinees will be given commencing Tuesday.

Godovsky and Paderewski. The most significant comment upon the playing of Leopold Godovsky, the great Russian pianist, who visits Scranton next Thursday evening, is the fact that in comparing him with other eminent pianists now living, all the prominent critics with one consent make the same remark: "Equal to Rosenthal and Paderewski, unsurpassed by none."

A rare and liquid touch only equaled by Paderewski's is only when a Rubinstein, a Paderewski or a Godovsky plays that Chopin, Liszt or Schubert is interested.

Of this trio of incomparable artists, Rosenthal visited Scranton last spring under the management of the Conservatory. The second, Godovsky, will play at St. Luke's parish house auditorium next Thursday evening, under the same management.
