CYCLE CLUB BURNED OUT.

Destructive Blaze at the Rooms Early Sunday Morning.

Shortly after I o'clock Sunday morning fire was discovered in the Cycle club house, on Lincoln avenue. Both companies responded to the alarm and after a half hour's work the blaze was extinguished. The fire originated at the furnace. The house is an old one and was for-merly heated by stoves. A furnace was put in a small, shallow cellar and almost touched the joist. The janitor put on a good supply of coal at 19 o'clock and went home. At 12 o'clock the members who left last remarked that the furnace was producing an unusual volume of heat, but never thought of its unsafe condition. The floor must have been about ready to burst into flames at that time.

The fire followed a terra cotta pipe to the top story and went out a closet The damage would have been inconsiderable save for the water.

Last spring the building was handmely furnished throughout and the club's loss will be at least $1,000, with only $500 insurance. Everything is water-soaked and the beautiful carpets are ground full of plaster. The plano is a total wreck and several guitars and mandelins will not be particularly improved by the gallons of water they contained.

EVANGELIST DUNNETT.

The services of Evangelist Dunett at the Methodist church are being attended by increasing numbers and he has stood in the front rank of upthe authority of experience. He has no hesitancy in preaching the old-time viction that if there isn't such a place there ought to be. He has set forth with remarkable power the fact that conscience is wholly inadequate to the task of punishing justly the ungodly. since the seared sinner is invulnerable to its pricks, while the sensitively constitued suffer disproportionate tortures for minor transgressions.

MISS FRANK'S SUCCESS.

Miss Mina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Frank, of Washington street, has secured a position as soprano soloist in a Susquehanna church. The engagement holds until Easter. This pays a high compliment to the talent of one so young. She is a pupil of Miss Freeman, of Scranton, and has for some time been considered a very promising vocalist. Her engagement abroad, however, does not reflect credit on the sagacity of the local choristers who have allowed such a meritorious singer to be attracted from the city.

DEATH OF HARGLD HERMES ..

Harold, the 7-year-old son of Mr. and Saturday moraing of spinal meningitis. The little fellow's suffering was intense and shortly before the end he told his father that death was near and he was glad of it. Harold was a bright boy and will be missed by many friends outside the family. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. F. Chaffee will officlate. Interment will be made in Brookside cemetery.

PECKVILLE.

It would only take a few dollars to repair the bridge at the foot of the hill leading to Prospect cemetery so that it would be safe, but the cemetery association claims it is the duty of the borough to repair the same, and the orough officials contend that the road leading from Hickory street to the cemetery has never been accepted, so they are powerless in the matter. Funeral of Leona Phillips-Mrs. Hosmer Fowler Surprised-Branch 62, C. M. B. A., Elect Officers-Personal

The funeral of the late Leona Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Phillips, of Third street, took place on Saturday afternoon. The deceased was a general favorité among her companions and school-fellows and their esteem was shown both by their attendance at the sad obsequies and by their floral gifts. After a short service at the house, the remains were taken to the Methodist Episcopal church, where service was held by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Cook. The floral gifts were numerous and beautiful, among them being a harp from Principal Rogers and the members of her class in the High school; a pillow from the Sunday school class, "Gates Ajar" and several bouquets, The pall-bearers were Merton Wheeler, Robert Hall, Fred Stevers. Walter Baker, Arthur Fowler and Harry Griffiths, The flower-bearers were Gertie Baker, Mary Spettigue, W. W. Watt owns the building and Lettle Jenkins, Nellie Blakeslee, Alice licious to take. It consists of a delicate table wine in which has been dissolved the active curative principles that are found in the liver of the live cod, and to which cod-liver oil owes its reputation as a remedy for coughs, colds and all wasting diseases.

If there is any one who has a cough, a tendency to take cold easily, or a dread of consumption, we would like to have them call and permit us to explain what we know about Vinol and why we believe it will cure all such troubles more surely and quickly than any other remedy ever given to the Following is a letter which has just come to hand and which shows how beneficially Vinol acted in one instance:

"I had a severe cough of long standing. I was advised by friends to give your Vinol a trial, which I did. Before taking it I had tried many other remedies for coughs without obtaining any relief. With Vinol it was different. I have now used four bottles of it, and am pleased to say my cough has almost entirely left me. I have been decidedly benefited by its use in every way. Very truly yours."-H. E. SMALL, Boston, Mass.

Vinol acts beneficially upon the digestive organs, enabling them to obtain for themselves the elements from which are made firm healthy flesh tissue, sound muscle, strong bone structure and pure blood.

The impression gained from witness ing representations of nine-tenths of Irish characters, so-called, now seen upon the stage, is that the Irish are a nation of physical curios, mental absurdities and social incompetents. They are libel upon the natural in-telligence, light-heartedness and quick wit of a race which has fairly, as a race, won an equal place with that occupied by any people on the earth.

Thus it is that it is an easy and a pleasant duty to differentiate briefly between the values of the actors alreferred to and the value of Joseph Murphy's creations in the beautiful Irish plays named "Kerry Gow" and "Shaun Rhue." AUSTRALIAN BIRDS. A Great Variety of Species of Curious Habits.

From the Birmingham Post. Although Australia has no native song birds like the nightingale, lark, thrush or linnet, it possesses (writes a Sydney correspondent) a great variety of feathered species, several of great and many possessing feature Mrs. Ira Kresge is visiting relatives of interest. Among those found in New South Wales the parrot is, perhaps, the most common. Several of tion of a new house on his lot along these are peculiar to Australia, there being over sixty species found in no other country. Among thes are the cockutoo parrot, long-beaked white cockatoo, black cockatoo, forest parrot and roselia. There are also a grass parrot, Blue mountain parrot, love bird and ground parrot, are all equality distinguished by the beauty and variety of their plumage, the splendor of several species being unrivaled. Among the latter is the crimson or blood-stained cockatoo. The honey-eater is numerous, many of the genera being peculiar to Australia, if not to New South Wales. In a few places the bower bird invites attention by reason of its building in addition to its nest, a bower on the ground, adorned with shells and odds and ends picked up in the bush. No certain use has ever been assigned to this strange structure, save that it is used as a kind of a playground, which is all that is known. Apart from its bower, the bird is remarkable for the extraordinary beauty of its plumage. There are several other birds which possess this strange habit of constructing bowers. There are two varieties or mound-making birds-leipoacellata and megapodius-which lay their eggs in a few leaves and twigs, surrounded by large mounds o. sand scraped together by the birds, the eggs being left to hatch themselves by the heat of the compost heap in which they are imbedded. The eggs of leipon are so thin that they could not be sat on by tne bird without being broken. The mounds are generally found in desert shrubs, the eggs being of large size and much used as articles of food by bush-The beautiful lyre bird is occasionally met with in the dense forests of the colonoy, but being extremely shy, has to be sought with caution. Many birds known in Europe are plentiful in New South Wales. Among these are eagles, hawks, owls, swifts, swallows, martins, fly-catchers, pelicans, sandpipers, ployers, ducks, grebes, petrels, gulls, terns, penguins and albatrosses. the number of ducks on the inland rivers and lagoons is at times surprising. The Rev. J. E. Tenison Woods, the eminent naturalist, says that he has traveled in winter along the river Murray and the long estuary of the Coorong, and for upwards of 120 miles was never out of sight of large flocks, which literally darkened the air and water.

The swallow and the cuckoo come and go at certain periods as regularly as in Europe. There are other birds which do the same, but the extent of their migrations has not been ascertained. They arrive as the sun moves southward, and return with it, but do not go north of the equator. are multitudes of pigeons in the colony, many being remarkable for size and beauty of plumage. terior districts the birds find their way in immense numbers to places where
