and more cars are now being handled

"The recent Improvements made there enable the men to handle trains with remarkable ease and rapidity. At the north end of the yard the tracks have been so arranged that two en-gines, one on the east bound track and the other on the west bound track, may constantly switch cars without interfering with each other. Heretofore this work was done by one engine and five men. Now the work is done with two engines and thirteen men.

"The most important change made, however, is in preparing trains. Un-der the old system when trains arrived n the yard the local cars-that is, cars for the Wyoming or Northern division -were taken from the train and the rain was then sent to the next yard, where local cars were also taken out, as in Coxton. But now all this work is concentrated in Coxton. Trains from the east and west containing cars for miscellaneous points are sent to Coxton and there trains are made up for all important points. Trains are now made up there and sent di-

"At present there are about 300 men employed in the yard. This does not include the crews that run out of there over the Wyoming and Northern divisions, nearly all of whom live in Pittston and vicinity. Including the latter there are about 600."

LIVE NEWS OF THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD

PROBABLE LOCATION OF THE TIN PLATE PLANT.

Statement Made by President W. V. S. Thorne with Reference to the Proposed Delaware Valley and Kingston Railway-Never in the History of the Coxton Yards Were They as Busy as at Present-Arrangements of the D., L. & W. Board for Today.

Hon, John R. Farr held an extended consultation yesterday afternoon in the board of trade rooms with Secretary Dolph B. Atherton and L. K. Torbet, the promoter of the tin plate industry. Mr. Farr is the owner of one of the West Scranton sites on which Mr. Torbet has an option and is also one of the prominent members of the West Side board of trade. The entire question was placed be-fore him and the great opportunity now offered West Scranton for the location of a large factory was pointed out, Mr. Farr stated that the sentiment in favor of the plant was daily increasing in that section of the city and that a special meeting of the board of trade would be called in a few days to consider the question. There is a strong effort being made by central city parties, in the event of the stock being raised and of this there is now hardly any doubt, to locate the plant near the new Bolt and Nut works, In case great interest in the project is manifested in West Scranton, there is a prospect of a lively fight for the factory.

The subscription books of the company were not regularly opened yesterday on account of the absence from the city of a gentleman whom it is expected will head the list of subscribers. Mr. Torbet says that the outlook is growing even more favorable every day.

President Thorne's Statement.

W. V. S. Thorne, president of the Delaware Valley and Kingston railway, the new coal road to be built from Lackawaxen, Pa., to Kingston, N. Y., along the old Delaware and Hudson canal, has made the following statement with reference to his road:

"The construction of the railway is simply a business proposition based on its own merits and is not for the purpose of antagonizing any of the other

"A number of the individual operators of the anthracite coal region, together with parties interested in the Pennsylvania Coal company, who feel that they have heretofore been unfairly treated on account of the high rates of freight charged on their product, now have an opportunity to secure most satisfactory facilities for Reading, via Hudson river and routes connecting therewith, a large eastern market. When completed, the road, in conjunction with the Erle and Wyoming Valley railroad which it will join at Lackawaxen, Pa., will have a lower summit and very much lighter grades than any other railroad extending from the anthracite coal field.

"The question of how much coal the individual operators and Pennsylvania Coal company will ship over lines other than the Delaware Valley and Kingston railroad is another business proposition and will depend only on which rallway is willing to sell cheapest the necessary transportation."

Busy Coxton Yards.

"Comparatively few persons in Pittston know that the Coxton yards re-cently have grown to be the largest on the Lehigh Valley and among the largest in the east," says the Wilkes Barre Record. "Trains are now made up there and sent direct to all important towns on the Valley roul and the facilities for shifting cars and sending out trains surpass those of any other yard on the system and are equal to any in the country. At present traffic is so heavy that the capacity of the yard is taxed to its utmost and
