One of his comrades dared him to climb a ladder standing against the hotel and Murtaugh tried to ascend it. When he was about twenty feet from the ground he lost his balance and fell. It was thought at the time that his left was broken and word was sent to the Lackawanna hospital.

The ambulance went for the man and he was taken to the hospital, where his injuries were examined and given the proper attention. It was ascertained that his left ankle was fractured and that he was suffering from a dislocation of the knee. At the hospital he said he worked in the Von Storch shaft, and that he lived on Oak street,

The Delaware and Hudson company has quickly taken advantage of the injunction granted them by court on Wednesday and has re-erected the much talked about and much-torndown Poplar street fence. The crossing lately laid by the city across the tracks has also been torn up and conditions at this place are just as they were a few weeks ago.

Mr. Zehnder, of the bolt and nut works, stated yesterday that the work of that plant was necessarily handicapped to a great extent by the erection of the fence, but that teams were enable by a very circuitous route to reach the works. The city, of course, can take no forcible measure again and all parties concerned hope that an early settlement of the difficulty may be

MEETING OF THE POOR BOARD. New Members Have Taken the Oath

At yesterday's regular meeting of the poor board Messrs. Paine, Fuller, Dickert and Shotton, the directors lately re-appointed by Judge Archbald, took the oath of office, which was administered by Secretary Fellows, of the board of control.

An average number of cases of outside relief were disposed of, the applicants in all but one or two instances being found to be worthy of assistance. The monthly report of Superintendent Beemer, of the Hillside Home, was read and ordered placed on the The report showed 439 inmates at the home now, which is considered a very large number.

The report was as follows: Number of inmates in home on Oct. 31, 430; insane males admitted during November, sane males admitted, 11; insane females admited, 2; sane females admitted, 4; insane males discharge 1, 2; females discharged, 4; sans males discharged, 5; sane females discharged, 4; insane males died, 2; total now at home, 439; classified as follows: Insane males, 131; sane males, 115; insane females, 135; sane females, 58.

ELKS LODGE OF SORROW

Memorial Exercises Will Be Held in the Lyceum on Sunday Night. Programme for the Event.

The arrangement committee on memorial services for the Scranton Lodge of Elks met Thursday night and yesterday afternoon and made final arrangements for the Lodge of Sorrow to be held at the Lyceum tomorrow evening. The services are in commemoration of the departed members of the lodge. During this year four prominent Elks of this city have passed away. They are: P. S. Page, A. M. Mervine, T. J. Jordan and T. J. McTigue. The programme has now been definitely arranged and will be a very fine one. T. J. Jennings will make the memorial address and another prominent feature will be a poem, "The Ministry of Sorrow," which was written by A. J. Colborn and will be recited by Miss Bessie Slote. The committee in charge of the arrangements is as follows: Chairman, J. G. Reese; George Gunster, John Mc-Eachan, H. J. Schubert, Alfred Rice, E. M. Strong, W. S. Gould and T. Reeve Jones. The services will be conducted as follows:

COL. H. M. BOIES MAKES HIS REPLY

EMPHASIZES HIS STATEMENT TO BOARD OF TRADE.

Declares It Costs Four Times More Per Gallon for Water Than It Costs for Culm to Convert It Into Steam-Explains How the Reduc-Wheel Works Was Brought About. Asks Mr. Scranton to Pay Over $1,000 to a Charity.

Editor of The Tribune:

Sir: Mr. W. W. Scranton's rather "comments" upon the report published of the part taken by me in the recent discussion by the Board of Trade, of the water rates charged man-ufacturers by his company, require, in the interests of the public and of truth some correction, for which I crave the courtesy of your columns briefly:

The condensed report of my remarks which was published, was incorrect in stating that I said, "but after a short time the company put in a meter, and from that time on the water at the Wheel Works cost more than the fuel;" what I actually said, as I think those that heard me will agree, was in illus-tration by some experiences of mine at the Wheel works of the argument I was making, that the water rates here were excessive and injudicious, neu-tralizing to a certain extent the advantages of cheap fuel as an induce-ment for the establishment of manu-annual expenses are, or how much facturers here. It was in substance revenue it derives from water rates, or that after the meter was introduced it what becomes of its profits. Its capital that after the meter was introduced it seemed to be impossible to make much reduction in the monthly bills by de- in reservoirs, which should last forcreasing the quantity used as the rate per thousand gallons seemed to in-crease as the quantity used decreased, and the tax of the Water company re-mained about the same whatever economies were accomplished; that the cost of water was about as great as that of fuel to evaporate it.

AN ILLUSTRATION.

A statement which I believe to be sufficiently accurate as an illustra-tion, for I find upon reference to my books that there was a month when the hard coal bills were only about $15 more than the water bill. and there were no "leaks" that month either. Hard coal is used there for other purposes than making steam, and it is not a fair or reasonable assumption either from the published reports or what I said, to include the cost of soft coal used for generating gas in the Concerning the aggregate of $4,948.23 given by Mr. Scranton as the total cost of water at the Wheel works between July 1st, 1888, and March 1st, 1897, it should be remembered that these eight and two-thirds years included five of the most severe business prostration this country has experienced; during which the works were partially or wholly idle much of the time, therefore, the division of this sum by the 104 months to fix upon $47.58 as the monthly cost of water for the works is utter-ly fallacious and false. The amount of water bills actually paid in 1895 was $810.01, and in 1896, $799.14.

"The leak in the inch pipe," to which

Mr. Scranton refers, made itself known immediately by an increased flow through the meter, but, although con-stant efforts were made for a considerable time, it was not located in an underground pipe until the works were shut down preparatory to turning the management over to a new superinten-dent. It was detected by my engineer from the noise made by the escaping water which could be heard when the work were quiet. I suppose it had ex-isted in an increasing quantity two months subsequent to March, 1897.

USED RESERVOIR TANKS. at the head of the Steel Tired Wheel company were so impressed with the importance of reducing the costs for water at their works, that they immediately instituted reservoirs, tanks and a plant for economizing its consumption, at a cost of over $3,200, which they consider saves them money above the annual 10 per cent. charges for interest, taxes and repairs of $220, which saving and charge formerly went to the Water company and is the reason the average amount paid by them is diminished, although "he understands the work done in the plant is greatly in-creased." Thus when the "false work" upon which it was built up is removed, Mr. Scranton's whole superstructure of attempted sarcasm and personality falls into-well, "innocuous desuetude." It is quite common for those who recognize the weakness of their po-sition to try to hide it, like the Squid, in a cloud of ink, or kick up a dust of some kind to distract attention from

The real question before the public is too grave and important to be be-fogged in this manner. It rises above ersons and personalities.

Is the cost of water for industrial and manufacturing purposes in Scran-ton injuriously high, and if so can it be reduced? That is the point at issue in this discussion. Now I have been a manufacturer all my life. I was the first one, "to the best of my knowledge and belief," to begin the use of culm in this anthracite region for generating steam under boilers, some twenty-five years ago at the Moosic Powder works. For many years we have used nothing else there for generating steam.

COST OF FUEL.

I am well informed on the subject of making steam with coal and culm.
While I have never made any accurate or scientific tests of the evaporative efficiency of culm there in our practice, we have found that we use about the same number of wagon loads of culm a day for making steam at Moosic as we do of coal when it has been used. With the best burning facilities, the evaporative efficiency of culm is but a little inferior to sifted coal. When we bought this culm by the load, we paid ten cents a load; since we bought the whole culm pile, it doubtless costs us less.

It was generally understood when Mr. Scranton was running the South steel mill, that he got the culm that he used under his boilers for ten cents a ton. The Board of Trade have long used this cheap steam producer as an inducement to manufacturers to locate here. I do not know that culm can be had now for ten cents a ton in the general market, but this price long used by the Board of Trade and others as one great advantage of this locality, and this cheapness of our steam production is still, and justly. tion of Water Rents at the Car at the Board of Trade meeting were wheel Works Was Brought About. limits of what the facts sustain.

The general assumption of engineers is that a pound of coal will evaporate a gallon of water. 'he Dickson Manu-facturing company have built boilers, which, under careful tests extending for a week at a time, developed an evaporative efficiency of 35 per cent.

The Scranton Gas and Water company charges 20 cents a 1,000 gallons to supply a boiler which evaporates 10,000 gallons of water per day, making a daily charge of $2 for water. The 10,000 pounds of culm required to evaporate this 10,000 gallons of water—being five tons-would cost, at 10 cents a ton, just fifty cents. FOUR TIMES AS MUCH. Therefore, Mr. Scranton charges just four times as much for his 10,000 gallons of water as the coal costs here to make it into steam. Q. E. D. Now, Mr. Scranton has secured most of the stock of one of the most valuable water companies in the country. It is altogether the closest corporation I know about. No one but ever, and which there is a sure prom-ise that the rain which falleth alike on the just and the unjust, will keep full, and the natural force of gravity will distribute through the pipes to the homes of 100,000 people. Probably Mr. Scranton supplies 20,000 families from his water works. If 25 per cent, of those families in the suburbs get their water at the single tap rate of $6 they pay him $30,000 per annum. If the other 15,000 pay the usual $20 house-holder's rate, it will be $300,000 per annum, a total for domestic use of $330,-000, averaging $5.50 per family. It may be fairly assumed that the profits of the gas and electric light business will at least pay the running expenses of the company. Mr. Scranton has a grand property, certainly, whether these figures are about right or not. He has managed it with ability and is entitled to what his acumen has gained him. He gives the city an abundance of excellent water, which is a necessity to it. Neither I nor the board of trade have the slightest inclination to disturb his good fortune. There is no complaint made of his domestic house rates to my knowledge, but all public spirited citizens of Scranton are di-rectly or indirectly interested to in-crease the growth of our city. This can be most efficiently done by fostering the establishment of manufacturers A GREAT OBSTACLE.

The great obstacle which the board of trade meets in its efforts to this end, is the high water rates to manufacturers. We want him to aid the board and to contribute his share to the prosperity and growth of the city by a large reduction in these rates, We believe he can make this reduction and very greatly increase his income, from the profits he will derive from the use of his water, gas and electricity by the increased population. Suppose, for instance, he had given water to the two cotton mills which the two cotton mills, which Mr. Henshaw cited in the board of trade meeting which were frightened away by the water rates, and the population of the city had been increased 5,000, or say 1,000 families, he would have increased his revenue some $16,500 for water, and at least $10,000 for lights frame structure, purchased with the per annum. Mr. Scranton, you have intention of tearing it down, and yet billions of gallons of water for sale During a large portion of constantly. the year it is running to waste over your dams, would it not be for your interest and profit to catch and sell it. even for 2 cents a thousand, and stop the digging of wells and erection of reservoirs now constantly going on at factories to economize in the use of your water? Although your corpora-tion is the closest kind of a corporation, it is nevertheless one in which the people you serve have the greatest interest after all, and nothing can deprive them of this interest or of their power to secure such a management of

as will be for their best interests.
If this discussion enables you to that your interests and those of the rates to industrial establishments, it will not have been useless to you or them. It has apparently gone so far now that the conditions must be allevi-ated either by you or the public. H. M. Boies, Scranton, Pa., Nov. 30, 1899. ANSWER TO THE SECOND.

P. S.-Since sending an uncorrected opy of the above to the evening papers I have read in the Times of Dec. 1, Mr. Scranton's second very remarkable effusion, but it does not appear to me to require any further notice, except to suggest that he now send the $1,000 to the Home. Dec. 1, 1899.

URGENT NEED OF A CONTAGIOUS WARD

NO SUCH INSTITUTION AT ANY OF THE HOSPITALS.

Every Day, Almost, Brings Forth a Practical Argument of Its Necessity-Erysipelas Patient at the Lackawanna Hospital Had to Be Isolated in a Tumble-Down Building in Raymond Court-Better Quarters Secured for the Nurses. Another Resident Physician.

There is pressing and urgent need at the Lackawanna hospital for a contaglous ward, an even greater need than for a children's ward and almost every day brings forth a practical argument in favor of the building of such an addition. There is no hospital, public or private, in the city at the present time in which a patient suffering from any infectious disease will be received for treatment. All the cases of transmissable disease arising in the city are, therefore, necessarily obliged to receive home treatment.

Home treatment is very satisfactory provided that the services of a nurse. which are so necessary in the majority of cases, can be secured. But to the class of persons a trained poorer nurse is out of the question and they are the ones who would be most benefitted.

The physicians at the hospital are daily obliged to turn away persons who desire to have relatives who are suffering from infectious diseases re-This has been especially noticeable during the past six or eight weeks, or since diphtheria has become so prevalent. In some cases the parents who desire to have their sick children receive the care which they are willing but through force of circumstances unable to give them often plead earnestly and pitifully with the

ONE SAD INSTANCE.

A man came to the hospital only yesterday whose little daughter, he said, was suffering from scarlet fever in its most malignant form. His wife is also sick and he is in danger of losing his position by staying at home to nurse them. He stated he was entirely without funds, not even enough to buy medicine and went away with tears streaming down his face when told that his child could not be received at the hospital. This is only a single case out of the dozens which have come to the attention of the hospital staff. Besides the great need of a contagious ward for the benefit of the public generally and the poor especially, there is another and perhaps as important a one. This is nothing more or less than the breaking out of a contagious disease in the hospital itself and the ne-cessity for the immediate isolation of the afflicted person. Perhaps the most peculiarly and subtly contagious of all diseases, and one which breaks out without warning in hospitals especially. is erysipelas. Hospital surgeons have a great dread for this disease, and when it appears it must be isolated immediately,

There is at present in the Lackawanna a patient suffering from this disease and it has been necessary to remove him to one of the buildings lately acquired by the hospital on Raymond court. This is a tumble-down It has to be used as a contagious ward in order that the disease might not spread.

The hospital doctors have not enough funds in hand to even fit up this building in anything like a habitable manner, let alone build a new one for the purpose. A effort will be made in the near future to interest the charitable throughout the city in the crying need of this improvement, and it is hoped that money will be received sufficient for all purposes.

NURSES' NEW QUARTERS. The sixteen nurses at the hospital are now quartered in the dwelling adjoining the hospital and fronting on Franklin avenue, which was purchased for this purpose. The building has been thoroughly fitted up at an expense of about $1,000 and the nurses removed thither last week, with sighs of satisfaction, from their old quarters in the Delaware and Hudson building, a few doors away, which did not, to say the least, possess all the comforts of a The new one does, however. The coms are neatly and tastefully furnished and the crowding of three or four into one room necessitated by the size of the old building is done raway A lecture room has also been fitted up and provided with the requis-ite furniture. The regular course of winter lectures began the early part of this week, Dr. Gunster delivering the initiatory one. After the beginning of the new year there will be three resident surgeons at the hospital instead of two as at present. This decision has been arrived at by President J. P. Dickson,
