Prisoners Will Be Put to Work Making Carpet and Rough Cloth—Report of Special Committee.

After the consideration of the report of the special committee appointed to investigate the systems for employing prisoners in county jails in various counties of the state, the local prison board has decided to proceed at once to install a weaving establishment at the Lackawanna county jail. Two looms for the manufacture of rag carpet and for weaving rough cloth will be set up at first as an experiment.

County Commissioners S. W. and C. H. Roberts were directed to investigate and report upon the best looms for the purpose. The board will meet again December 15.

The report of the special committee was as follows:

To the chairman and members of the prison board:

The committee appointed by the chairman to visit neighboring counties and study the methods of employing male prisoners, respectfully submit the following report:

We first visited the prison at Pottsville, Schuylkill county, and there we found that they employed their prisoners inside of the jail only, making rag and ingrain carpet, socks and clothing for the inmates of the prison.

We found all the work done by hand-power machinery, of which the cost is $200,000, the three knitting machines cost about $500 each, and first class machine cost about $60 each. They employ ten per cent. of the number in the prison.

A day's work for each prisoner making socks is worth about 10 cents, for which he receives a profit of seven cents per dozen after paying for all material used.

For the rag carpet they receive forty-five cents, and for the ingrain carpet, which leaves them a net profit of five cents per yard. They employ a weaver at an expense of $50 per month, who is called superintendent of the industrial department. Finding nothing further of interest, we went to Reading, Berks county, where we found about the same method used for employing prisoners as at Pottsville.

Then we went to Allentown, Lehigh county, finding nothing new, only the management.

In the year 1898 they had an average of seventy-four prisoners. The products of the industrial department were 1,000 yds. of rag carpet and 1,000 dozen socks, which was sold to the home market at a profit above all expenses, including superintending of the work and the cost of machinery, etc., of $621.18. Having concluded our visit here, we went to Sunbury, Northumberland county. Here we found about the same work done as in the other county prisons.

We found nothing of interest in these counties in regard to rag work, and no one seemed to know of any counties that are working their prisoners on the roads. Signed by S. W. Roberts, C. H. Roberts, William T. Simpson.

They have also purchased over 1,500 acres of land, upon which they have built a railway system which will connect every factory door with all trunk lines and docks. They have already constructed a portion of their docks, which, when completed, will be among the best upon the great lakes.

They have contracted with many manufacturers for power, and have numerous other applications on file for power to be used here, four large factories having located here within the past fifty days.

NEW TRIAL IN THE SHURTLEFF CASE

JUDGE SAYS VERDICT SHOULD HAVE BEEN SPECIFIC.

In the Suit for Fees for Professional Services in the Celebrated Russell Ejection Suit, Judge Purdy Sets Aside the Verdict and Awards a New Trial—Will of Joseph Chase Admitted to Probate. Another Case Growing Out of the Oliphant Sewer.

Judge George S. Purdy, of Honesdale, yesterday transmitted an opinion containing a decree awarding a new trial in the case of E. H. Shurtleff against Thomas Davis, which was tried before him the week before in a common pleas court.

It is a suit brought by Mr. Shurtleff to recover $2,000 for professional services performed for the defendant in the Russell ejection suit, covering a period of six years. The defendant alleges that the fee was exorbitant and besides a contingent one and that, although he won the case, he has not yet realized on the judgment. The jury accepted this view of the case and awarded the defendant a verdict.

In granting a new trial Judge Purdy says:

"It is true that the defendant admitted that the plaintiff's claim of $2,000 for services was asserted by him, and, in the charge to the jury the full question as to the fee being established was eliminated from the case, as any amount being shown as far as we could do so. And had the jury returned a special verdict, stating the ground of their finding, there would seem to be no cause for a retrial. This we should have instructed the jury to do. But the verdict being a general one, for the defendant, we are not certain that a judgment on it would not be conclusive against the plaintiff in a subsequent action.

Will of Joseph Chase. The will of Joseph Chase, late of Benton township, was yesterday admitted to probate and letters testamentary granted to his son, Aaron Augustus Chase, of this city.

The document was signed April 13, 1897, and witnessed by Laurion W. Sweet and DeWitt Sweet. The decedent directs that his daughter, Clara E. Briggs, shall have a home at the homestead, the use of her present apartments there and the privilege of maintaining on the premises her horse and carriage during the remainder of her natural life. She is also to receive out of the estate $50 annually for twenty years or during her natural life.

The remainder of the estate is left in trust with the decedent's daughter-in-law, Elizabeth C. Chase, for his son, Aaron Augustus Chase, and heirs. The estate is not to be liable, however, for any debts the devise may contract. The successorship in trust is to be fixed by the orphan's court.

That Oliphant Sewer Again. Attorney James J. O'Malley, for Caleb Jones, brought a suit in trespass yesterday against the borough of Oliphant and Contractors Flanagan & O'Hara, to recover $1,500 for damage done his property, through which the First district sewer was extended.

He says that by reason of the negligent manner in which the sewer was built his trees and shrubbery were destroyed, fences broken down, cellar walls cracked, house thrown out of plumb and cellar flooded with water. He further avers that it was not necessary at all to construct the sewer through his lot, another route being readily available.

Six New Citizens. Judge Edwards yesterday granted naturalization papers to six probationers. Their names, present address and date of birth follow:

David Reed, of Mosley, England; Cuthbert Rippon, of Rendham, England; Pasquale Partolio, of Hawthorne street, Scranton, Italy; Samuel Lewis, of 321 South Lincoln avenue, Scranton, Wales; Martin Odendahl, of 1111 Diamond avenue, Scranton, Luxembourg; John Klug, of 925 Prescott avenue, Scranton, Germany.
