The work of arranging such an eleven this year is very difficult, not from paucity of material, but rather on account of the over abundance of excelof "Christ before Calaphas" lent players, whose names appear on the year's football roster. First let us consider just about where the teams stand. We have to choose

Lackawanna trounced the Indians who both defeated and were defeated by St. Thomas. The latter eleven was also conquered by High School. Dunmore has no claims to the championship, the High School defeating the borough's representatives by a score of 22-0, and thoroughly quashing all aspirations for the leadership.

A NEGATIVE RECORD. Lackawanna had what might well be called a negative record. She only played five or six games, and two of them against Wyoming Seminary were ties. The High School game, at best, might have resulted as a tie, but that game can never be settled, as the Lackawanna men left the field and so forfeited the contest. Therefore, High School deserves the championship. Now, as to picking the representative team. In beginning at center, we have Eynon of High School, McDonnell of Lackawanna and Cosgrove of each subscription list, in which data St. Thomas to choose from. We do not concerning the proposed factory is think that any one of these men is as able to take the place as Jack Malla, who played left guard for High School last year. Probably one of the best individual games played in the end position was seen in the Wyoming game, in which Lackawanna played her strongest game of the season and succeeded in

In this contest Walters displayed great speed, especially in getting down the field under klcks, and succeeded in dropping his man nearly every time Forbes, of Lackawanna and St. Thomas, only played one game as end but in this game put up such a fine exhibition of football that it entities him to the other end position. RIGHT AND LEFT TACKLE. For the tackle positions there is considerable difficulty in choosing. However, Kelliher of St. Thomas is entitled to a place by reason of his clever and aggressive work during the season, and so would be the man to occupy the one position. For the other tackle the choice lies between Shuitz of the High School and Vall of Lackawanna. Both men are industrious, hard-working players, and it is a difficult task to decide which to assign to the position, The great difficulty with all the Lackawanna players, however, is that they were not often enough upon a Scranton field for a fair estimate to be made of their playing. They were only seen here when they played High School and Wyoming Seminary, and from these two games a fair estimate can hardly be made. Vall certainly played a good game, but still Shultz proved himself an exceedingly wiry and spirited player and his aggressiveness throughout the season gives him a place upon the team. For the end positions plenty of available material is in the field, in the shape of Vaughan, of the High School; Manley, of St. Thomas: Forbes, of Lackawanna and St. Thomas; Walters, of Lackawanna, and Mc-

Hugh, of the High School. Of this number McHugh is probably tha swiftest, and when given the ball nearly always made long runs with it. but a sore arm impaired his defensive tactics, and in this respect he was not nearly a match for his mate, Harry Vaugnan, who invariably nailed his man, tackled low and hard, and broke up interference in fine style. He also runs well with the ball, and his long sprint for a touchdown in the Lackawanna game will always be recalled by High School students. He is the player for right end on this team. Manley of St. Thomas was only seen offee
