Frick Has Retired.

The startling information has been given out at the offices of the Carnegie Steel company in Pittsburg that Henry Clay Frick, prominent for a quarter of a century as a coke and steel baron, has retired from the chairmanship of the board of managers and would hereafter remain merely as an advisory partner in the concern, occupying r position similar to Mr. Carnegie, At the same time Henry M. Curry, for years a director in the company, presented his resignation.

The development occurred at a meeting of the company's board of directors held Monday.

George Lauder and A. M. Moreland. partners in the concern, were elected to take the places made vacant by the retirement of Messrs. Frick and Curry. Following is the statement given out for publication by the company: "At a meeting of the Carnegie Steel Mr. Frick informed his partners of his desire to give up the duties of chairman of the board of managers, and asked to be relieved in order to join Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Phipps and Mr. Singer as consulting partners of the company. Mr. Frick's partners assented to his request. A successor to Mr. Frick was not chosen, as it is intended to abolish the office of chairman since Mr. Frick leaves it.

"Mr. Curry, who has been long confined by illness, sent his resignation as a member of the board, which his partners were forced to accept, with great reluctance.

"Mr. George Lauder and Mr. A. M. Moreland were unanimously elected to fill the vacancies."

Reading between the lines this statereorganization plan to go through, the latter gentleman has decided to quit directed by himself in the capacity of chairman of the board of directors. The abolition of that position with

Mr. Frick's official retirement, leaves Charles M. Schwab, president of the company, as chief executive head of

The blacksmiths have been ordered to thoe the mules and the miners are gathering their tools from other places to resume operations.

It is nearly two years since the collieries were shut down, but the men have not been idle during that time. Many of them found employment in other workings, which have been run to their fullest capacity for some time, to meet the demands for coal. With the resumption of work at the vance of Ten Cents a Ton. Philipsburg, Pa., Dec. 6.-The bituminous coal miners of central and northern Pennsylvania have asked for an advance of ten cents a ton for pick mining, twelve and a half cents for loading after machine and twenty per cent, advance for all other labor, the same to go into effect Jan. 1.

To consider the question a convention of miners will be held at Clearfield next Tuesday, and on the same day a joint conference of operators and miners will be held. A strike is certain should the operators not agree to advance effective Jan. 1, or not later than April 1.
