EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

POLITICAL STATUS IN THE WARDS ON THIS SIDE.

Practically Unchanged, but Becoming Very Interesting-The Tin Plate Industry-New Cemetery in Lincoln Heights-Choir Concert This Evening-St. Leo's Annual Social-Last Night's Fire Due to a Defective Flue-Mrs. George Thomas Entertains.

The political situation is becoming very interesting in the different West Scranton wards where councilmen and school controllers are to be elected at the coming February elections. The two most important contests will be waged for select councilman in the Fifteenth ward and school controller in the Fourth ward. In the former three Republican candidates are already in the field in the persons of ex-Common Councilman Joseph Oliver, the present incumbent, Horatio T. Fellows, and Druggist David M. Jones, All three have a large following, and either will make a creditable representative. The aldermanic fight in the Fifteenth is between ex-Alderman Thomas T. Morgan and the present magistrate, Daniel Moses. Edward Williams, of Hampton street, has also registered for both offices. The candidates for the various ward offices are expected to register with Secretary Daniel Harris, of the vigilance committee, before tomorrow night to insure them a place on the flag ticket which will be printed. It is expected that the caucus will be held on Saturday, Dec. 16.

The fight for school controller in the Fourth ward is waxing warm,and from present indications will be a very close fight. Five candidates are in the field, namely, Thomas E. Price, A. B. Eynon, Benjamin Williams, David Evans and David Jenkins, It is rumored, but without any positive credence, that Messrs. Williams and Jenkins will not enter the caucus. A fact which is not generally known is that all voters will be allowed to vote at the Republican caucus, as there are no Democratic candidates in the field. This will insure an exceptionally large vote in the four districts. All the candidates are working energetically and each has a large following of hustling friends. The councilman'e contest between Messes Griffiths and Parry is rather one-sided, the former having the advantage of a term In the lower branch, where he demonstrated his ability to represent the ward in a capable manner.

In the Fifth ward no opposition has as yet developed to Select Councilman ness on the church building. Richard H. Williams, but in the Fourteenth ward William Larkin's name is

THE TIN PLATE INDUSTRY. An earnest effort is being made by the manufactures committee of the West Side board of trade to interest the local capitalists in the proposed tin plate plant and they are meeting with some sucess, but it will require a large sum to insure its location in West Scranton. Mr. Torbet, of Chicago, the promoter of the industry, has opened the subscription books in the Scranton board of trade pooms and, judging from the responses already received, the plant will be located in this city. Mr. Torbet is desirous of locating in West Scranton and is giving the people here the preference. In order to do that the books will be kept open during the balance of the month and shares can be procured at a nominal figure. It is to be hoped that the moneyed men of this side will become sufficiently interested to invest something in the proposed tin plate in-

NEW CEMETERY PROPOSED. A new cemetery association has been organized in Lincoln Heights and a charter applied for. The new company is capitalized at $20,000 and fifteen acres of land have been purchased, adjoining the present residence site. The work of improving the plot will be commenced at opee and an iron fence will be erected around the grounds. A cottage will be crected for the sexton and a driveway made around the premises and sidepaths will be laid out. The company expects to spend $5,000 on the improvements and the price of lots will be within the reach of people of moderate means. The subscription books will be open at the office in Lincoln Heights in a few days. Stratford cemetery has been suggested

VISITORS ENTERTAINED.

A pleasant bouse party was held last evening at the home of Mrs. George Thomas in Stack's court, in honor of her guest, Mrs. John Baer, of Wilkes-Barre. The evening was enjoyably spent in diversions incidental to such occasions, and refreshments were served. Those present were: Mrs. B. I. Evans, Mrs. William Perry, Mrs. George Thomas, Mrs. John Hopkins,

Is close upon us, and as usual we've made elaborate preparations to celebrate its advent in fitting style, while at the same time we have left no stone unturned to make its approach a pleasant and profitable season for all our friends.

On Friday Morning Next

We open our grand annual display of holiday gift goods, suitable for all ages and conditions of mankind. As is well known, ours is a cosmopolitan store, catering for all the people, and at no time is that more fully emphasized than during the Christmas Holiday Season, when all the people want something to remember their friends with, and as much depends on the amount of cash available to go round.

This Year's Display Shows

Abundance of scrupulous care on our part to meet the requirements of all our friends. For those whose money must go a long ways, we show an abundance of pretty and popular and useful gifts for little money, for people who are not so particular about a few cents one way or the other, there is enough and to spare, under the most critical inspection, while for those who seek novelties or high qualities our stock offers pretty nearly all that heart can wish for.

Of Course You Want to Learn

A hint or two about the things that await your inspection. 'Tis a hard task with such a multitudinous assortment before us, and so we relinquish the task right here. A few things may be gleaned, however. and a fragmentary Idea gathered here and there. For instance, there's a doll stock that covers the entire realm of Dolldom, from the stately dressed model beauty down to the humblest specimen of the race that's worth taking into any respectable home. There's dolla' furniture, too, of all kinds, dolls' trunks and everything else that can make a good little home loving girl happy. Then there are toy books, old favorites and new comers in abundance, and so many other things that young folks like that they're bound to be suited

For Grown

There's no end to the variety and value of things shown. Bric-a-Brac is a handy phrase covering a multitude of pretty and often times useful odds and ends. Use it in its most comprehensive sense, and you'll find more than covered here.

ST. LEO'S ANNUAL SOCIAL.

The thirteenth annual social of the St. Leo's battalion will be held in St. David's hall this evening. Arrangements have been perfected for a large attendance, and already a sufficient number of tickets have been disposed of to insure the success of the event. In view of this fact the committee of arrangements have engaged Bauer's orchestra to furnish the music, which will also insure a larger attendance than usual at affairs of this kind. The tickets are 50 cents.

LAST EVENING'S FIRE.

The alarm from box 34, corner of West Lackawanna and North Main avenues, at 6.10 o'clock last evening, was occasioned by a defective flue in the chimney on the house adjoining McCann's store. The flames were extinguished with a garden hose.

The building is occupied by the familles of Mrs. Straub and Mrs. Johnson. The Franklins, Columbias, Hook and Ladder and Eagle companies responded, but their services were not re-

M'CAWLEY FROZE TO DEATH.

His Body Found on the Boulevard at Throop.

James McCawley, a resident of Throop, was found dead early yesterday morning on the boulevard between Throop and Dickson City. Several workmen were passing along the road when they discovered the body and, thinking the man was either asleep or intoxicated, attempted to arouse him.

Their efforts were in vain, as the man had been dead for some time. The remains were identified and removed to McCawley's home. It is not known how he met his death, but it is the general impression that he had been drinking and fell in the road on his way home and, being unable to get up, froze to death. Coroner Roberts was notified of the man's death and will make an investigation this morning. McCawley was a widower, 40 years of age, and had been in poor health for a long time.
