ANNIVERSARY SERMON.

Delivered in Penn Avenue Baptist Church to P. O. S. of A. by Rev. R. F. Y. Pierce.

Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, D. D., delivered an excellent sermon last night at the religious services commemorating the fifty-second anniversary of the Patriotic Order Sons of America. The entire program was impressive. The ceremony was conducted in the Penn Avenue Baptist church, which was handsomely decorated in honor of the occasion. The walls were covered with large American flags and large streamers of the national emblem were tastefully arranged from the ceiling. Hand-some banners were above the pulpit and prettily surrounded a large picture of Columbia.

At 7:30 o'clock the entire church was filled, with the exception of a certain number of pews set aside for the members of the order, who filed in, two by two, over one hundred strong and took the allotted places.

The services were opened by an organ prelude, and then after a chant by the choir, the pastor read a reading which was given through by the pastor and congregation. The usual services were conducted until the singing of the hymn was reached, when "God Bless Our Native Land" was substituted.

The Dedication of American Methodism was the title of Rev. Mr. Pierce's sermon, and he took as his theme the verse, "Hold fast that thou hast, that no man take thy crown."

He welcomed the grand old order that was the congregation's guest for the evening and spoke in glowing terms of its object, achievements and reputation. His address was of a patriotic nature and calculated to stir up the latent fire of slumbering love for country in every lagard American's breast. He told how in days of old for a citizen of Rome to say "I am a Roman" was to command the respect of the entire known world. In the same way, all nations have but recently learned to respect any one who can proudly make the assertion, "I am an American."

Rev. Mr. Pierce analyzed the objects of the association which are as follows: First, to inculcate pure American principles; second, to teach loyalty to American institutions; third, to cultivate fraternal affection; fourth, to oppose foreign interference in state or national affairs; fifth, to oppose all appropriations of public moneys for sectarian purposes; sixth, to preserve the Constitution of the United States; seventh, to defend and maintain the American system of public schools.

These are simple and true, and if everyone lived up to them an ideal country, a perfect Utopia, would be the result. Rev. Mr. Pierce closed his address with a fervent prayer that the order would ever be true to its traditions and in the future, as in the past, stand by the country.

The audience next gave vent to its patriotic feeling by singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The evening's services were brought to a close by the benediction pronounced by the pastor.

ARRESTED IN THE LYCEUM.

Fisher Lee Creates a Disturbance and Is Taken in Custody.

While witnessing the "Sorrows of Satan" at the Lyceum Saturday night, Fisher Lee, a man about 35 years old, and a laborer by occupation, created such a disturbance that Special Officer Knight put him out of the house.

Lee at this became abusive and finally the officer took him to the center street police station. He had his hearing before Mayor Moir yesterday morning and was discharged.

Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power and Manufacturing Company.
This company has no connection with the Niagara Falls Power company.

The water supply from the old Day canal, which is being enlarged to furnish a supply of water which is practically unlimited. They are also largely increasing their capacity, and will, by the close of the present season, be able to furnish 25,000 horsepower to consumers.

The Niagara Falls Hydraulic Power and Manufacturing company own seventy acres of land on the bank of the Niagara gorge, and the Niagara Falls Power company 1,800 acres. In the southern part of the city, which is being leased to parties contracting for power, though it is not the policy of either of these companies to confine their patrons to their own lands. The power is conducted by wire to any point in or around the city. This will serve to distribute these industries, thus allowing each one to select the location best suited to its purpose. Where drainage is not a prime requisite it is often more desirable to locate where the best trackage and shipping facilities are offered. For this reason the river frontage will not necessarily build up at the expense of outlying lands. The electric railway system of Niagara Falls is admirably adapted to the accommodation of all parts of the city.

CELEBRATION OF SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

SPECIAL SERVICES AT ELM PARK CHURCH YESTERDAY.

Two Sermons Delivered by Rev. Dr. D. Dorchester, of Pittsburgh—In the Evening He Delivered an Eloquent and Forceful Plea for the Universal Brotherhood of Man—He Said Each Man Lived in a Separate World of His Own, Which Was Large or Small, as He Made It.

The sixth anniversary of the dedication of Elm Park church was celebrated yesterday by the congregation. Special musical programmes were rendered by the choir and in keeping with the usual custom of having some especially prominent and eloquent speaker officiate, both the morning and evening sermons were delivered by Rev. Dr. D. Dorchester, Jr., pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal church of Pittsburgh.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Giffin, the pastor, spoke briefly on both occasions of the great progress made by the church since its inception; expressed the hope that the coming year would be the greatest in the history of the church and urged the members of the congregation to use every effort to make it so. The musical features of both services were particularly elaborate and included two grand organ solos, which were rendered in Organist Pennington's usual masterly style.

Rev. Dr. Dorchester is tall, erect and athletic in appearance and possessed of a singularly clear and powerful voice, which, coupled with a simplicity of gesture and an easy and forcible delivery, will undoubtedly make his eloquent words live long in the memory of those who were fortunate enough to hear him. In the morning he spoke on "Spiritual Illumination" and in the evening he took as his text I Corinthians, 6, 15 and 19.

HIS EVENING TEXT.

"Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? Shall I then take the members of Christ and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. What? Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you, which ye have of God and ye are not your own?" He spoke in part as follows:

"Everything in this universe depends on something else. This established fact can be proved in many ways. Society is not a mere aggregation of beings, it is not simply an incomplete mass of people. Without reciprocal action of the parts of society it could not exist.

"Fifty years ago Tompkinson sang of the glorious Millennium day, when the world would be silent, the noise of battle forever furled and the celebration of the world an accomplished fact. Every decade since then we are coming nearer the realization of this blessed vision. Sometimes we are inclined to think of this as a visionary thing, something far away in time and distant future, but I say to you again, we are coming nearer that time.

"And this country of ours is working individually toward a realization of that dream. The victory at Manila, on the outermost rim of the world, was nevertheless heard of in its very center, and the triumph of American democracy must have caused the monarchs of the old world to tremble. This American spirit is now knocking at the gates of the far east and proclaiming to the whole world the principle of social, civil and religious liberty.

GREAT ISSUES OF LIFE.

"Man is the most interesting object in the world. He explains the universe and makes everything in it. The great issues of life lie in his hands. We determine our own destinies. It is true we do not make our own circumstances, but we can and do decide what we shall do in these circumstances. You must be yourself before anybody. God intended you when he made you in His image to become a person, to become a cause.

"We should first of all learn to respect our own selfhood. Each individual has his own struggles, each lives in a different world of his own. And that world is just such an one as each individual makes it. If we broaden our views our world becomes larger and just as surely as we narrow our views our world becomes smaller.

"Some persons contend that each man counts only for one. This, however, is the arithmetic of materialism, the arithmetic which the life class of society studies by. There is a tendency of this sort prevalent in American society today, a tendency to make life center in material supremacy, to raise the lower appetites above the higher attributes.

"This is a growing tendency in that class of society which would find its outlet smooth until not a vestige of individuality remained. But this is not Christian society, however. Jesus Christ takes the lowest man and makes him not only a true man but a son of God, clothed in the mantle of the Lord, on which none dare tread with impunity.

NOT A PARING DOWN.

"Giving ourselves for others is not parting with our individuality. Self sacrifice is not a paring down, but rather a pruning which makes us more fruitful. Let us take the words spoken by old Dr. Cotton Mather into our hearts. The capacity to do good not only gives title to do it, but makes the doing of it a duty.

en by old Dr. Cotton Mather into our hearts. The capacity to do good not only gives title to do it, but makes the doing of it a duty.

"Our national life in this country was getting perhaps a little too self centered before our late war, but that struggle roused the sympathies of the whole nation and cemented north, south, east and west together in such a manner that our national life has been greatly enriched and raised above the miserable pettiness of local and other politics.

"Let us each strive to spread the sense of one Saviour, one life and one destiny. Let us strive not to be great or rich or happy, but to seek to serve humanity by the old but ever new gospel of contact. Let each one seek to reach the one next him and there will come to us all a truer realization of one great brotherhood with Jesus Christ at its head; the strength and sanctifier of every brotherhood, the Saviour of mankind."

VISIT OF BISHOP TALBOT.

Confirmed Two Classes and Delivered Two Sermons Yesterday.

Bishop Talbot, of the Central Pennsylvania Episcopal diocese, confirmed a class of twenty yesterday morning in St. Luke's church.

He delivered a very scholarly sermon during the services on the present relation of the word of God to Biblical scientific criticism. He brought out the fact that the Bible is the product of the church and not the church of the Bible. He said that if the book were entirely destroyed today the church of God would still remain.

In the evening the bishop visited the Church of the Good Shepherd and administered the rite of confirmation to two persons and also delivered a sermon.

ACCUSED REPRESENT THREE GENERATIONS

CARBONDALE MURDER CASE HAS AN UNUSUAL FEATURE.

The Defendants Are Two Youths, Their Mother and Grandmother. Case of Thomas and Joseph Gallagher, Mrs. Annie Gallagher and Mrs. Mary Dempsey, Charged with Killing James Quinn, Sr., Heads This Week's Trial List—Story of the Crime.

Heading the list for the second week of the criminal court, which begins today, is the case of Thomas Gallagher, Joseph Gallagher, Annie Gallagher and Bridget Dempsey, charged with the murder of James Quinn, in which C. J. Quinn, a son of the deceased, is prosecutor.

The crime was committed in Carbondale, Sunday, Aug. 12, of this year. Mrs. Dempsey is the mother of Mrs. Gallagher, and the latter is the mother of the other two defendants. Their next door neighbor was James Quinn, Jr., a son of the deceased, and next to Quinn the old man lived.

A well, located between the Gallagher and Quinn houses, engendered a dispute out of which grew some prosecutions. The bad blood which existed between the two families resulted in a general fight on the day in question, and in the fight the elder Quinn was killed, the younger Quinn badly injured and the two Gallagher boys more or less cut and bruised.

The Gallagher boys, it appears, met the younger Quinn on the road near their homes and a quarrel ensued. Old man Quinn, who was standing nearby on the railroad track, ran to his son's assistance and the aged Mrs. Dempsey and Mrs. Gallagher hastened from their house to help the Gallagher boys.

Among the other cases set down on the list are the five libel cases against Little and O'Toole, but these were postponed on Saturday till the next term of court.
