The enormous traffic of the Great Lakes is well brought out in an article in the magazine by Arthur J. Stringer, who writes:

"The Great Lakes have become a great artery of our richest commercial goods, one-third of the population of the United States is dependent on these lakes for their export and import trade.

The total traffic through the locks of this 'Soo' canal, for less than eight months, is five times as great in number of vessels and slightly less in tonnage as much in actual tonnage as passes through the Suez canal during an entire year.

Through this same canal, which boasts at certain times the commerce of the world, there passed, during last year, 8,500,000 tons, while there floated through the locks of 'Susan Mary' a tonnage of 16,500,000.

The stupendous proportions of the traffic on our Great Lakes may also be realized from the fact that more than six million tons of goods are either the port of London or Liverpool. A greater number of passengers, on the other hand, pass through this same river than do in and out of the port of New York, the great gateway of the New World.

In fact, the total number of passengers carried annually by the lake fleet, falls very slightly short of 200,000,000. The city of Buffalo, which claims the largest grain elevator in the world, does a business in the trans-shipment of grain and flour which exceeds that done by any other city in existence.

With the exception of the Clyde is the most extensive ship-building center of the present day. The netter shores of the lower lakes have been necked with a collection of the busiest and most prosperous manufacturing centers in the United States, and so much so that today our country's commercial center of gravity will be found annually by the lake fleet to river that portion of Ohio, Mill and foundry and factory in all these cities depend on the great iron freighters that steam north with coal and bring southward their cargoes of timber and grain and iron, and it is in the possibility of such economic exchange that links the secret of Uncle Sam's mercantile greatness.

"It is an unappreciated but indisputable fact that the Great Lakes lie at the root of America's present supremacy in the iron and steel market of the world. It has been actually the reduction of freight rates on these two essentials of life and commerce, brought about by improved facilities for loading and discharging vessels, the increased tonnage of lake vessels, and the improvement of rivers and harbors, that has allowed the American ship worker to triumphantly to invade the English markets."

"But as the increase in population of the United States demands new fields for labor, as the West fills up and de-

Used by British Soldiers in Africa. Captain C. G. Dennison is well known all over Africa as commander of the forces that captured the famous rebel Galshe. Under date of November 4, 1897, from Vryburg, Bechuanaland, he writes: "Before starting on the last campaign I bought a quantity of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I found very useful when troubled with bowel complaint, and have given to my men, and in every case it proved most beneficial."

She Knew. Squidrig-Yankee Doodle is an absurd song. Who on earth was Macaroni anyway?

Marjorie. Light as the feather on thy hat, Thy airy smiles beguile me. The sweetest stream from nectar's vat Could touch but to delude thee.

For love is sparkling in thine orb Like starry passions gleaming In skies that every hue absorb That in that orb lies dreaming.

Must faint with rapture in the drought, And wet with blissful longing, Would hide his blush in subtle craft From cupid round these thronging!

Heaven's own guardian that thy charms Hold lightly still above us; 'Tis love indeed could hope to storm These heights that madly move us! —John Irving Pearce, Jr.
