New York, Dec. 14.-Expectations of a further stress of liquidation in the stock market were not disappointed this morning. Heavy offerings were thrown on the market from the outset and the bears were very bold and determined in offering prices down. But it was obvious that there was not so an acute a pressure of necessity on the market to realize as was the case yesterday and several developments over night helped to encourage a support of

The market, therefore, did not at any time take on the extreme demoralization of yesterday, as was feared, and about midway of the session the bears had relinquished their position. The conflict of speculative interests was a flerce one before the issue was decided, and prices moved both ways at once in the opening market and never long in one direction. The determined support in Sugar was a notice to the bears from the outset that they were not to have things all their own way, and though they wiped out Sugar's opening rise in short order and made heavy inroads at other points in the industrial list, and even forced St. Paul a half point be low yesterday's low level for the year the absorptive power of the steady buying demand proved too much for the reactionists. Subsequent attacks were made upon the Iron and Steel stocks, the New York city specialties and, in fact, every stock where any information could be had of a heavy account on the long side with the hope of wiping out margins and forcing liquidations. It was noticeable, on the other hand, that the buying demand died away at the higher level of prices achieved. This encouraged renewed inroads by the bears in the period on the last reaction, when they refrained from attacking the market, and the closing was firm, near the top level, at substantial net gains all through the list.
