

EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

REVIVAL SERVICES AT THE SIMPSON M. E. CHURCH.

Being Conducted by Rev. P. J. Kain, Philadelphia, Who Preached Yesterday to Two of the Largest Audiences That Ever Gathered in the Church—Sisters of Bethany Entertainment and Social—Funeral Announcements and Other Notes.

The revival meetings at the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church which have been in progress for the past week continue to attract hundreds of people and at both services yesterday the capacity of the spacious edifice was taxed to its utmost.

The services at the church yesterday began at 7 o'clock in the morning and were continued at intervals during the day and evening. At 9 o'clock Rev. Kain preached a masterly sermon on "Behold the Feast," and at 7:30 p. m. he chose for his topic, "Salvation by the Only Name," taking his text from John 1:12-13, "If any man will, let him come and be baptized, and he shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit, and we shall never die."

Rev. Kain gave a vivid and stirring word picture of the execution of Christ, how He was nailed to the cross, and how the sight of His body hanging there incited men to become insane and savage, causing mothers to abandon their children, fathers to kill their sons, and others to escape the vengeance of the living God, whose Son had been slain by the hands of men.

The speaker's illustrations were cleverly wrought out and he said the way to heaven is a narrow, for every one who would gain a great name, it is narrow until we enter the highway of eternity and the way of holiness is the broad way to heaven. In order to enter this sphere we must use common sense in our religious views.

Rev. Kain made a touching reference to the recent death of Will J. McConnell, the temperance lecturer, whom he had known for many years, and also told how he lost his mother in the tenement district of New York.

Rev. Albert H. Smith delivered three very able sermons yesterday in the Green Ridge Baptist church. His subject in the morning was "If Christ Preached in Green Ridge." In the afternoon he talked to young men on "The Message of Christ to the Young Man Who Would Succeed in Life Without Neglecting His Conscience," and at the evening service he spoke of "The Greatest Problem of the Century." The special meetings held during the past week will be continued each evening of the present week.

How He Got Well.

A Portland invalid called on a local physician for an examination, says the doctor: "I have been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 4c as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 25c each package. Try it. Ask for GRAIN-O."

Who are injured by the use of coffee. Recently there has been placed in all the grocery stores a new preparation called GRAIN-O, made of pure grains, that takes the place of coffee. The most delicate stomach receives it without distress, and but few can tell it from coffee. It does not cost over 4c as much. Children may drink it with great benefit. 25c each package. Try it. DAY'S DOINGS IN DUNMORE BOROUGH

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES FOR BOROUGH OFFICES.

They Were Named at a Primary Election Held on Saturday Evening—Ticket Is Headed by James R. Wilson, the Candidate for Burgess—Democratic Standing Committee Will Meet Wednesday Evening to Fix a Time for the Convention—Other Notes.

The Republican primaries for the nominating of candidates for the different borough offices were held in the eleven districts of the six wards, Saturday night. The counting of the votes was very slow, it being nearly 2 o'clock before the returns were anything like complete. The following are the nominees:

For Burgess—James R. Wilson. For School Directors—Janson Cole, George J. Kuntz. For Council—Charles H. Webber, Max W. Chapman. For Treasurer—Louis Engle. For Street Commissioner—Eber Brenning. For Tax Collector—Mark C. Simpson. For Auditor—Thomas L. Samsenbaugh.

The return judges of the different districts will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows' hall, when the counting of the votes and the completing of the official returns will be made. James S. Quick will be chairman and will call the meeting to order.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEES.

The following standing committees, recently appointed by the leaders of the Democratic party, will meet on Wednesday evening, Jan. 24, for the purpose of fixing a date for the holding of the primary election and convention of their party in this borough:

First ward—First district, J. L. Murphy, Adolph Pittack; Second district, William McAllister. Second ward—First district, B. Sweeney, P. P. O'Hara; Second district, H. B. Gilligan, T. Duggan. Third ward—First district, T. E. Boland, Victor Burschell; Second district, John J. May, John Flinnerty; Third district, Jacob Bullerman, James McDonnell. Fourth ward—Patrick Boland. Fifth ward—Michael Flinnerty, Patrick Hopkins. Sixth ward—First district, T. Melvin, Arthur Keller; Second district, Michael Murray, Martin Ferguson. A. T. Irvin, Secretary.

A PLEASING SUCCESS.

A large and intelligent audience, numbering two hundred, filled the Independent Order of Odd Fellows' hall Saturday night to hear Lu B. Cake and Ella June Meade-Calko, of New York city, in a varied program of original readings, impersonations and musical numbers. Each and every number on the programme was thoroughly appreciated and endorsed to the echo by the audience.

The two features which stood out so prominently were the wonderful volume and control of Ella Meade-Calko in her vocal work and reading and the excellent impersonations of Lu Cake as "Bill Nye" and the "Old Man" in the "Old Man on the Farm." The entertainment was under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church, which will realize a neat sum from the sale of tickets.

LECTURE ON MORMONISM.

In the Methodist Episcopal church last evening, Lu B. Cake, of New York city, occupied the pulpit and gave his justly celebrated lecture on "Mormonism." Mr. Cake spoke at great length on his subject, and as he has made the Mormons and their habits a study and research and has spent some time in Salt Lake City and other parts of Utah, his words were followed with the greatest interest by the immense audience present, who had gathered long before the opening time.

At the close of the address many hastened to grasp the hand of the distinguished traveler and impersonator and congratulate him on their pleasure in listening to the interesting and scholarly address given.

SHORTER NEWS ITEMS.

John J. Brogan, of Chestnut street, announces himself as a candidate for the office of councilman, subject to the decision of the voters of the Democratic party of the borough.

Tonight the Dramatic society of the Young Men's Association, Literary and Beneficial society, will go to South Scranton, where they will repeat the drama given last month in this borough, "The Heart of Erin," for the benefit of the Total Abstinence and Beneficial society of that place.

Every member is requested to place a handsome team of white horses on the road.

Frank E. Blikenes, of Chestnut street, visited in Jermyn and Mayfield Saturday.

Miss Mamie Cosgrove, of Wilkes-Barre, is the guest of Miss Mary McHale of Elm street.

Mr. Thomas McDonald, of Drinker street, is in New York city on business. M. J. Horan spent yesterday at Lake Ariel.

NORTH SCRANTON.

The funeral of the late John Maxwell, whose death was due to a mine accident at Butte, Mont., over a week ago, was held yesterday afternoon from his late residence on Mary street. The body was conveyed to Holy Rosary church where funeral services were conducted by Rev. Father Moylan, after which the procession moved to Cathedral cemetery where interment was made. The funeral was largely attended, the deceased being well and favorably known in this section. The casket was borne to the procession and played dirges on the way from the house to the graveyard.

Rev. William Edgar, at the Providence Methodist Episcopal church, last evening, preached an impressive sermon on the text, "It is appointed man unto death." The sermon was suggested by the number of recent sad and sudden deaths in this section, and the reverend speaker vividly impressed all who heard him.

Druggist George W. Davis has placed a tin box, properly secured, in his Providence Square drug store in which items intended for publication in The Tribune can be placed. The box is labeled, stands upon one of the show cases, and those leaving proper items can be assured that they will reach the editorial staff and get the attention they deserve. It will be best for

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Anthony, of Avenue C, Bellevue, died yesterday, and will be interred in Washburn street cemetery at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

CHARGED WITH DYNAMITE. How a Mule Turned a Mine Into a Geyser. From the Chicago Record.

The pack mule is quite as much an institution as the team mule, and is absolutely indispensable in the mountains. Mule packing is a fine art, and with a well trained animal and a skillful packer you can safely transport anything from a piano to a bag of oats. When the packer has finished his job in an artistic manner the animal may buck or back, kick or rear, or roll, but he cannot rid himself of his burden, and he finally gives it up in despair. After two or three experiences he will submit to his destiny and fall into line with the rest of the train every morning to receive his load from the packer. A well broken pack mule is always proud of his load, and if by any means it gets loose he will step quietly out of line and wait until the packmaster comes along to tighten it.

The most serious objection to the mule, which you sometimes find in human beings also, is the delusion that he can sing. One who has never heard of a mule solo cannot appreciate the ex-tent of his mistake; but like every-thing else about a mule, his song is strictly original. It belongs to no other animal. No one can describe and no one can imitate it.

"Speakin' o' mules," said an old Santa Fe teamster, as he tipped back in his chair, "reminds me of a storrinary experience I had once with a critter. Me and Mexican Mose—mebbe so because he was minkin' in Mexico for quite a spell—me and Mexican Mose was prospectin' up in the Bill Williams mountains one winter when our mule up all our dynamite ca'tridges. There was 100 miles of gettin' m'x' nowhere, and no way of gettin' m'x'. "I reckon I know how ye got the inter-ruption, 'fer neither of us—neither me nor Mose. But Mose he was the most ingenious cuss that ever handled a pick. He was avers inventin' some sort o' labor-savin' contraption, but was terrible unlucky. Mose set a thinking for awhile over the situation, and then he looked up on me kind o' pleased with himself an' observed as solemn as a preacher: "Jako, do you happen to know anythin' o' dynamite?" "No," says I, "not a darn thing." "Wal," says he, "it's the science of explodin', and 'low 'll I work here? That miserable critter has had the fun o' eatin' them ca'tridges, and 'ow he's got to do the blastin'!" So he tied up a passle o' stones in the oats a'nd fed 'em into the mule. His idea was that when the digestin' machinery got to workin' it would feed the stones into contact with the fulminatin' end of the ca'tridges, and they'd be a-hoistin' o' dirt. So we backed the mule down into the shaft and crept behin' a big rock to wait for things to begin to commence. Well, I swear! In about fifteen minutes there was the biggest kind of a Fourth of July celebration you ever heerd tell on. It was 'bout noon when the proceedin' opened, and when the first ca'tridge went off the air was full of dirt and mule meat fer miles 'round, and me and Mose had all we could 'tend to dodgin' the big bowlders that come out o' the shaft. In fifteen minutes the shaft war 200 feet deep, and the dirt scattered all over the country. In ten minutes more that darned mule had struck one o' them mysterious underground streams you find in the desert and the hole was full of water, so there warnt any more minin' fer us."

"That was tough," said the Californian sympathetically. "You just natchely overdone it, didn't ye?" "Well, I reckon we did; but we come out even after all. 'That is, me and Mose didn't lose no money." "How's that?" "Why, we sold the shaft to a tender-foot that happened to come along just that minkin'. He thought it was a geyser, and Mose and me skinned out before the mule quit firin'."
