THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 31, 1900.

LACKAWANNA COUNTY CARBONDALE.

DEATH OF O. D. SHEPHERD.

City Engineer O. D. Shepherd, of South Washington street, died yesterday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, after an illness of four days with pneumonia. Mr. Shepherd came here from Scranton last April, when he was elected engineer of the city. He was sixty-five years old and well known throughout the valley, owing to his connection with important engineering works. The famous old Gravity horseshoe, or Shepherd's crook, bore his name. He is survived by a wife. The funeral arrangeents have not been made.

HORSE RACING ON ICE.

A number of the members of the Gentlemen's Driving club, who con-ducted Anthracite park before its transformation into a coal storage plant, are arranging for some sport at Crystal lake, Friday. They have measured off a half-mile straight-away and will try the speed of their steeds on eighteen inches of ice. The surface will be roughened with a road scraper to make It safer.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr and Mrs George Snyder of Salem avenue, are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cole, of Wyoming. John Boylan's meat wagon tipped over on Wayne street yesterday and was considerably damaged. The condition of John Cornish remains unchanged. L. C. Lindsay is visiting friends in Honesdale. John Von Beck is able to be out again. Miss Anna Kendall has returned from Dunmore. J. A. Schermerhorn is in Philadelphia erecting a filter press for the Carbondale Machine company. J. Pierpont Hamilton and wife have day. gone to New York, where the former v 21 go into business. He was recently proprietor of Hotel Anthracite. The Franz-Wilczek company appeared at the Grand last night as the fourth attraction of the Century club's course. The audience was large and the entertainment satisfactory.
