THE WISE DOG WHO WATCHED THE BABY AT LANESBORO.

Discouraging Experience of a Young Man Who Attempted to Grow Up with the Country Out West-Matters of Interest in Railroad Circles. Broken-Hearted Chicken - Woes of a Kentuckian

Special to the Scranton Tribune

Susquehanna, Feb. 1 .- A Lanesboro family owns a fine specimen of the Spanish breed of dogs, which is very fond of children, and when any little ones visit his master's home constitutes himself their companion, playmate and guardian. Last summer a and in the course of the day the child was laid on a pillow on the floor to amuse itself for a while. The dog took his place near the little one as usual. The day was hot and the flies made the baby their feeding ground. This rendered her restless.

Doggie watched her for a few moments and then, walking close up, with his nose or paw drove away every fly as soon as it lit on the baby's face. and did it so quetly, too, as not to disturb her in the least. The dog's action attracted the attention of the mother and others, who were filled dent that it was den with astenishment at his thoughtful kill it. It get the axe. kindness. RATHER DISCOURAGING. A Susquehanna county young mar who "went west" filled with enthusiasm and a desire to "grow up with the country" last week surprised his returning home after an absence of about three weeks. says that while he was out land-hunting in whathe thought was the garden spot of America he came across boarded-up shanty. On the boards door he found this inscription, which explains his departure for the east:

A BROKEN-HEARTED CHICKEN. A Susquehanna man had made a pet of a chicken of the Plymouth Rock variety. Every morning in coming out of the house, the young man brought with him a handful of crumbs, or of grain, or something that chickens like; and little by little his feathered pet acquired the habit of following him about the premises. In a little grove near the house there is a bench, When the young man reaches the bench he invariably seated himself, and the fowl, jumping up to his side, picked by being stroked on the head and back. This had gone on for quite a long time, when the young man left home. For the first day or two the chicken seemed not to be inconsolable over the loss of its friend, but took its food with the rest. After a few days, however, the fowl seemd to become aware that its friend was not coming back, and lady with an infant visited the family it was seized all at once with an inconquerable melancholy. It lingered morning after morning under the winlow of the house, as if waiting for its master to come out. Finally it betook itself to the bench where its master used to sit and fed it, and there it remained, its head under its wing, almost motionless, day and night. It was useless to try and tempt it with food. The chicken refused to look at the most tempting handrulls of grain or dough when they were thrown before it. Its cyclids were closed, and its intention to die of hunger was so evident that it was demed merciful to

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Terrible Experience of August Schmitt at Barnum Shaft. Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Pittston, Feb. 1 .- August Schmitt, iged about 50 years, had a narrow esape from what might have been a terrible death vesterday. He is employed as a miner at the Barnum shaft f the Pennsylvania Coal company, and for some reason attempted to walk across the trap which covers the mouth of the shaft. He missed his feeting, however, and felt through an open space left between the planks or the passing of the rope. As he fell ne grabbed the carriage rope with a death grip and hung on, fifteen feet below the place from which he fell. The carriage was quickly holsted and Schmitt rescued from his perilous position. The shaft is 605 feet deep, and is the cage was at the bottom at the time the horrible death from which he scaped can best be imagined. Schmitt was not unnerved by his narrow escape, however, and within fifteen minites later he had descended the shaft n the cage and was hard at work digging the black diamonds, of irregularity was manifest in today's market owning to the important operations for both accounts in leading properties, the bulls at all times held the mastery, as evidenced by the generous sprinkling of net gains through the list. Influences contributing to this result included a heavy absorption of the iron and steel stocks and the excellent statement of the leading lines. Efforts to dampen bullish enthusiasm met with temporary success at intervals through aggressive hammering of the local group. A ragged opening was due primarily to the unsettling incident in Sugar yesterday and yielding prices for Americans in London. It was soon made manifest that an important movement was carded in the metal group as issues which are usually not factors livened up and advanced rapidly. Strength developed in other stocks and the market rose easily. The bear faction made a concerted attack on the local Billities and broke Third Avenue 9 points. Kindred properties sagged la3½c, and Sugar and Tobacco were also largely affected. This manouver provoked some seiling of the railroad stocks, but as the various encouraging traffic statements came to hand, the offerings diminished and business centered at most wholly in the Tractions. Supporting orders for Third Avenue railied it 2 points but it went lower in a drive near the close and ended with a net loss of 8 points. A variety of rumors were circulated in connection with the buoyancy of the iron and steel stocks, chief among which was the Tennessee Coal common stock on an 15 per cent. dividend basis. Tennessee Coal among which was the Tennessee Coal common stock on an 15 per cent. dividend basis. Tennessee Coal among which was the Tennessee Coal common stock on an 15 per cent. dividend basis.
