ROYAL ARCANUM BANQUET.

Members of Council 924 Dine at Hotel American.

The annual banquet of Council No. 924, Royal Arcanum, was held at Hotel American last night. Fifty persons partook of the several courses of appetizing viands provided by Boniface Williams, who enjoys an enviable reputation in catering to such functions. The tables were prettily decorated with plants and flowers and the chandeliers were embellished with ground pine. These, together with the elegant service, made an exceptionally inviting banquet hall.

Dr. W. W. Fletcher was toastmaster and he presided over the post-prandial exercises with his customary grace and enlivened the flow of soul with many bon mots. Mr. Burdick, of Scranton, spoke interestingly on "Fraternal Allegiance." District Deputy Grand Regent Ludman, of Scranton, also gave a charming toast. G. F. Swigert, of this city, made some impromptu remarks, which sustained his reputation as a ready speaker.

I. Val Hollenbeck added to the pleasure of the occasion by rendering in inspiring style several piano solos.

Funeral of the Late James Prior. Accident at the New Shaft Last Evening—Pay Day.

The funeral of the late James Prior took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. After a brief service at the house the remains were taken to the Methodist Episcopal church where impressive services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Cook, assisted by Rev. Maynard R. Thompson, of the First Baptist church, and Mr. F. R. Gill. The latter, who had been intimately acquainted with the deceased for the past thirty years, spoke most feelingly and paid the dead man a high tribute for his honorable and upright life. At the conclusion of the service the remains were taken to the borough cemetery where interment was made. The pallbearers were: Samuel Waters, William Langman, William Taylor, Thomas Flynn, George Cudlip and James Tucker, and the flower bearer, Frank Couch. He received a severe cut on one of his legs just below the knee and was suffering considerably from loss of blood and shock. He was afterwards taken to the hospital. # THEATRICAL.

"A Trip to the City."

It was a large audience which entered the Gaiety theatre last evening to see "A Trip to the City," the attraction billed, and it was a very much disgusted and considerably diminished audience which left at the end of the third act.

The play, in fact, was so poor that Manager Walsh has decided to have the house darkened for the rest of the week in preference to such an attraction, and as a result there will be nothing going on at the Gaiety for the rest of the week.

The company itself was not so bad, as was the vehicle used by them to display their talents. It was no mere burlesque show, but aiming higher, took the dimly defined outlines of a farce-comedy. At the end of the first act the audience looked surprised, about the middle of the second it grew restless and evidenced its worriment by hissing the brave efforts of Miss Ann Tique to sing a pathetic ballad. After that it took the entire performance as a huge joke, and burst into roars of laughter at the least opportunity.

In the last act several very fair specialties were worked in, which, however, were not enough to save the show.

The Black Flag.

At the Academy of Music tonight the Gibney-Hoeffler company will present "The Black Flag." In the afternoon the bill will be "Forgiven."

Klimt-Hearn Company.

The Bethlehem Daily News says of the above company that comes to the Academy, Monday, February 12, for one week: "Again last night the Fountain Hill opera house was packed to witness the performance of 'The Commodore' by the Klimt-Hearn company, and the enthusiasm that prevailed gave evidence that the work on the stage was appreciated.

"'The Commodore' deals with the late unpleasantness between the United States and Spain and the narrative truly portrays the bravery and chivalry of those in true blue and the cowardice and treachery, in many instances, of the Spanish soldiery. Mr. Klimt, as Commodore Chester, depicted his character in a laudable manner, as did also David Conger as Don Harnaldo Montalvo, the commandant of Matanzas. Alma Hearn, as Gertrude Morrilla, an American girl born in Cuba, faithfully represented her role. The scenic effects were admirable and drew forth long and frequent applause as the curtain rose on each scene.
