The boy is of slight build and wore brown knee pants, black cap, dark overcoat and felt boots. The police are looking for him.

ONLY TWO MORE MEETINGS.

Councils to Endeavor to Clear Up the Files.

There are now only two more regular meetings left for each branch of councils before the annual re-organization on April 2. In accordance, therefore, with established precedent, it is very probable that a number of extra meetings will be called for the purpose of clearing up the files as far as possible. for every ordinance on the files not passed at the time of re-organization becomes null and void, and if it is desired to have them passed they must be re-introduced and go through the three readings before the new councils. A number of ordinances now pending will, of course, be allowed to go by default as to pass them now would be impossible on account of lack of appropriations and for other reasons, Among these might be mentioned the ordinances providing for the purchase of a new fire engine and other similar

There are, however, sufficient permanent men and electric light ordinances on hand to keep their promoters on the hop for the next month to get them passed. It is very unlikely that any more important measures will be introduced between now and April 2.

WALL IN CUSTODY AGAIN.

He Is the Man Who Escaped from the County Jail About Four

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning Patrolman Potter saw on Capouse avenue a man walking along carrying a bay from which emerged a cluck-clucking which assured the officer that forbidden fruits, or, rather to be literal, forbidden fowls, were incarcerated in the

He accosted the man and found that four chickens were in his possession. As he could not give any satisfactory explanation for his having them, he was taken to the Central police station, where it transpired that he was William Wall, who four years ago escaped from the county jail while serving a sentence there for the same offense of chicken stealing, he then living near Tunkhannock.

Wall was sent to the county jail for six months, and, after serving about two months in an exemplary manner, was given considerable freedom around the yard, doing small jobs for the warden and making himself generally

Owing to this comparative liberty allowed him, he had time and oppor-unity to fashion together a ruce ladder made out of clothes lines, pieces of leather and small boards and managed to scale the walls and make his escape and was arrested two days The Only Dentist later. Three extra months were added to his term of imprisonment for this escapade.

In police court yesterday morning he said that he was now living at Moscow. He was unable to give any plausible explanation of his possession f the chickens and it was decided to old him in custody until the ownerhip of the fowl is established.

stration, indeed the casual observer rate in the Southern prisons. All told, panied General Lawton's remains. It might have been led to believe that the people of the "Electric City" hadn't much respect for the Father of his few months after being relieved.

All of the stores in the central city were as "wide open" as some people are mean enough to say the town is, and business was just as brisk as on ordinary days. There were matinee performances at all of the theatres in the afternoon and they were in all instances very well attended. A conspicuous feature of the day was the absence of a general flag display, only a few national emblems here and there being visible.

The Delaware and Hudson and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western companies' collieries were all closed, as was the Dickson works. The steel mills, car shops, bolt and nut works and ali the other large industries were running full time all day.

COMING SYMPHONY CONCERT.

Evan Williams, the Gifted Tenor. Will Be the Soloist.

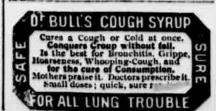

The members of the Scranton Symphony Orchestra society are sparing no efforts in their determination to make heir tenth concert on Monday evening an event in the musical history of Scranton. Earnestness in musicianly endeavor is the characteristic of each member and the result will certainly be a performance that will set the standard of music in Scranton in a much higher place than ever before. A general demand exists for the tickets, and a crowded and cultured house will unquestionably greef the enthusiastic amateurs. Evan Williams, America's greatest tenor, will be the soloist

SURVIVORS OF CONFEDERATE PRISON PENS IN REUNION.

Sixteenth Annual Business Meeting, Banquet and Camp Fire of the Union Ex-Prisoners of War Association-They Elect Officers and Encampment Delegates in the Afternoon and in the Evening Have a Big Dinner and Reminiscences of Their Prison Life.

The Union ex-Prisoners of War association held its sixteenth annual meeting, banquet and camp-fire here vesterday. The business meeting was held in the early afternoon at the rooms of Lieutenant Ezra S. Griffin post, No. 139, Grand Army of the Republic, on Lackawanna avenue, and was attended by nearly thirty members. At 5 o'clock the banquet took place in one of the large rooms on the fourth floor of the Connell building on Washington avenue. The camp-fire followed the banquet at the same place. The business meeting was opened at o'clock by Captain E. W. Pearce, who was called to preside in the absence of Commander Halsey Lathrop. The usual picturesque and inspiring ceremony was observed in beginning the exercises, the comrades gathering about the colors, stacked at the big gun in the center of the room, singing "America" and joining in an earnest prayer,

C. Logan, D. D. Adjutant E. H. Ripple called the roll and received responses, from the following: O. A. Parsons, Thomas R. Jonnor, Robert F. Welteroth, George Williams, William F. Bailey, James Bowman, P. H. Campbell and I. P. Long, of Wilkes-Barre; J. C. Turner, of Falls; H. D. Beebe, of Binghamton; G. M. Brandon, of Harveyville; G. W. Gouldsbore; Robert Campbell, of Carbondale; Raiph Mennett, of Honesdale; Peter Rinker, Perry Fuller, Milton McFarland, E. D. Hughes, John McDonough, C. L. Mercereau, George S. Brock, E. W. Pearce, Andrew Zoppfi and E. H. Ripple, of Scranton.

led by the venerable chaplain, Rev. S.

LETTERS OF REGRET. Adjutant Ripple read letters of regret from Comrades John W. Biddle, Arlington, Wayne county; H. Crocker. of Montrose; T. Armstrong, R. W. Brady, M. D., of Honesdale, and from Hon, John E. Barrett, who was invited o be a guest of the association. An invitation to Comrade James

Frye, of Waymart, brought a letter from his wife announcing his death. Formal announcement was also made of the death of Comrade Wilson Long, at Harveyville, May 25, 1899, and Comrade Joshua R. Thomas, May 30, 1899. Mr. Strickland, of Dallas, was received into membership. He served from 1861 to 1865, was captured at Fair Oaks and was imprisoned for a year in Libby, Salisbury and Belle Isle.

Captain Pearce read a lengthy written report, and Major Parsons made a brief verbal report of the national encampment held in Philadelphia last September, and to which they and Comrade Metzgar were delegates. One of the things described at length by Captain Pearce was a banner carried by the ex-prisoners of war, on which were figures showing that more men died in two Southern prisons than were The observance of Washington's killed in the twelve great battles of the battle was not as great as the death there were 71,000 union men who met death in prison or who died within a

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The association next took up the election of officers. Before any nominations were made, a motion was offered that the present officers be continued for another year, and the motion unanimously prevailed. The officers are Halsey Lathrop, president; E. H. Ripple, secretary; C. L. Mercereau, treasurer; George S. Brock, assistant secretary.

elected as follows: Colonel Ripple, Major Parsons, Captain Pearce and Captain Simpson, delegates, and Comrades Turner, Hager, Mercereau and Williams, alternates.

Rev. Dr. Logan spoke of the movement to erect an arch over "Providence Spring," in Andersonville prison, and inquired as to how contributions should be made. This is the spring that suddenly and miraculously gushed forth from the root of a cedar tree when the tree had been rent asunder by a bolt of lightning. It was a God-send in every sense of the word, for the men were suffering intensely from thirst Dr. Logan said it was to his mind the most remarkable and strikingly demonstrative instance of the interference of God in a compassionate way that he knew of, and he wanted to make a contribution to the memorial arch as an act of devotion to God.

Mrs. Anna Hallstead. The hall was profusely decorated with the national colors and the tables, laden with plenty of the best, were made the more inviting by large bouquets of carnations and roses.

Bauer's orchestra enlivened the ocrasion with patriotic airs and playe! several choice selections as an opening to the camp fire, by which term the "vets" are wont to characterize their post prandial exercises.

The programme was made up of musical numbers, recitations, addresses and reminiscences. President Halsey Lathrop filled the position corresponding to that of toastmaster at a banquet and he filled it most acceptably. His ready wit and mode of the "between the acts" periods that were much enjoyed.

LIBBY PRISON MEMORIES. The first speaker was James Bowman, adjutant of Company B, Sixth Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry, who was called upon to give Libby prison memories. The stories with which he spiced the recital were of the first quality and well told. One of them was especially provocative of applause and laughter. It was this, briefly told: A member of his company just liberated from Libb arrived in Washing ton and, hastening to a store, inquired for a certain insect powder that was reputed to be particularly efficacious in the extermination of gray-backs. "How much is it?" he inquired from the druggist. "Ten cents an ounce," replied the druggist, "and an ounce will kill a million of them." "All right, give me five pounds," said the prisoner.

Referring to Chaplain McCabe's lecture on "The Bright Side of Libby Prison," President Lathrop said he was puzzled to know where the reverend gentleman got matter enough on that subject to make up a lecture. There was only one bright side to Libson, of Nanticoke; S. S. Hager, of by that he saw, and that was the out-

"Salisbury" was the subject of an in teresting address by P. H. Campbell, also of Wilkes-Barre, who was one of the few who spent any great length of time in that pestilential pen and came out unscathed. Those who did pull through, he said, succeeded only by a constant exercise of strategy. In his opinion the policy of the Confederate government in the conduct of its pris ons was to exterminate the prison ers as quickly and effectually as the could. As he put it, "It was a studied system of deliberate, premeditated, cold-blooded murder."

OTHER ADDRESSES.

"Recollections of Belle Isle," were given by Halsey Lathrop; Dr. C. H. Fisher told interestingly of the experiences of an army surgeon; Colonel E. H. Ripple briefly touched upon "Andersonville," and Rev. W. G. Simpson spoke of "The American Soldier." Impromptu remarks were made by Major Willayer, of West Chester, state inspector of soldiers' orphans' schools;

Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce and Colonel L. A. Watres. Rev. Two songs "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Coming Thro' the Rye," were sung by Miss Mary Edwards, to a musical accompaniment of Bauer's orchestra, and pantomime accompaniment by a class of six young girl pupils of Miss Cora Griffin, proved a most pleasing feature of the programme. The audience showed, by unstinted applause, its thorough appreciation of the remarkable performance of the Hann children, Ralph and Roy, aged 7 and 9 years respectively, who played most cleverly a number of difficult selections on the violin and mandolin. Miss Beatrice Morris received a well merited recall for her recitation of "Since that Boy of Mine Came Back."

It fairly convulsed the "vets." story is a complaint from a civil war veteran that no matter how big a whopper he tells of his experiences in the sixties, his boy just returned from Cuba, goes him one better. A baritone solo by the always excellent Will W. Watkins was, as is usual,
