STRIKE IN QUARRIES.

Six Thousand Cutters, Blacksmiths and Tool Sharpeners Go Out.

Boston, March i .-- About six thousand cutters, blacksmiths and tool sharpeners employed in the New England granite quarries struck today for a new schedule of wages, providing for $3 per day and an eight-hour day. At Barre, Vt., one of the principal centres, where there are 2,000 men employed in the granite industry, however, a compro-mise was effected last night. Both sides settled on a payment of thirty-five cents an hour and the eight-hour day, and a strike was thus averted.

It is thought that the same terms will be agreed to at most of the other points. At Quincy, Mass., where about 2,500 men stopped work this morning, the strikers voted to propose to the manufacturers the Barre schedule, and the decision on this offer will have considefable effect on the strikes at other and chronicles long and laboriously For sale by all druggists. THEATRICAL.

"A Colonial Girl."

Howard Gould, who for several years has been at the head of the road companies that Mr. Frohman sends out with the plays that E. H. Sothern has popularized, was seen at the Lyceum last night at the head of the company which presented "The Colonial Girl." Mr. Gould is very happy in romantic roles, as those who saw him in the "Prisoner of Zenda" will remember. He gave further proof last night of his power behind the footlights by his virlle and altogether excellent presentation of the role of Godfrey Remsen. The scenes of "A Colonial Girl" are laid in the period of 1776 in New York. The story is one in which true love and jealousy predominates and although it is of stirring times, is not of war, though it touches on the Revolution. Mr. Gould was seen as a gallant young American, Godfrey Remsen, who has spent some years in England. On his return to his native land, he finds that the woman he has loved, believing him poor, has filted him, and married another and richer man. In a spirit of pique he hastily marries a simple little country maid. Mollie, as the girl is called, learns after her marriage the cause which led Godfrey to propose to her and naturally feels resentment. The plots of Godfrey's former love, now a widow, to separate him from his young wife, result in efforts to have him arrested as a spy in General Washington's employ, with the purpose of making him believe that his wife betrayed him. She is foiled in this by Godfrey, who penetrates the British headquarters in disguise and saves his wife from insult, after fighting a duel with a British officer. After saving his wife and winging his man in the duel, he finds himself surrounded by English officers and death as a spy confronting him, when the opportune arrival of the Continental army gives him his freedom as the curtain rolls and the costuming was correct. Grace Atwell made a fine impression by her work in the role of Mollie Heddin, who married Godfrey Remsen, and Albert Perry and Duncan Harris appeared to good advantage in character roles. Other prominent members of the company were Robert Conners, Charles C. Brandt, Bratton Kennedy and Helen King Russell. The play will be presented here again before the end of the season. The audience that saw it last night was not large.

"Way Down East," the play that has prompted unstinted and enthusiastic praise from clergy, school teachers, women, and, in fact, people in every walk of life, including thousands who are seldom seen inside the walls of a theatre, is to be presented at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday and Saturday matince. The scene of the action is a New Hampshire farm, the play being from the pen of Lottie Blair Parker, elaborated by J. R. Grismer, and the entire production under the direction of Mr. W. A. Brady. The penings, designed to portray the simplicity, comedy and tragedy of a community, the purity and sweetness of which might run uninterrupted forever, but for the casting across of the shadows of the wicked city. This comes in the form, of the cultivated city man, with more money than morals, who has ruined a confiding, rural lass under the guise of a mock marriage

For seven months this play had an uninterrupted, prosperous career at the Manhattan theatre, New York, and will no doubt repeat its success during its engagement in this city.

The programme concludes with a laughable burlesque entitled the "New Judge in Open Air Session," in which the entire company appear in songs, dances and funny situations.

"Miss New York, Jr.," will be at the Gaiety the balance of the week, with matiness daily.

"The Only Way."

The advent of Henry Miller at the Lyceum Thursday evening in the dramatization of Charles Dickens' famous novel, "A Tale of Two Cities." entitled, "The Only Way." quits naturally suggests interesting recollections of the great English novelist, in connection with his conception, development and completion of this historical romance, considered by many not only his masterpiece, but really one of the greatest examples of histomeal fiction in the whole realm of literature.
