MOCK TRIAL GIVEN.

It Occurred in the Howard Place A M. E. Church.

The Ladies' Home Circle of the Bethel African Methodist Episcopal church last evening gave a mock trial in the church in Howard place. large number of spectators had gathered at 9 o'clock, when Court Crier Robert Cox opened court with a loud "Oyez! Oyez!"

The case was opened by District Attorney Cameron Hughes stating the case to Judge John Walker. The pris-oner, one E. T. Lucas was charged with having stolen on Feb. 1 a silk dress from Miss S. J. Wheeler, which the defendant's wife had appropriated to her own use and hence the case. During the sessions there Mr. Hughes was assisted in the prosecution by John H. Bell, while the prisoner's interests were looked after by Attorneys Alamanza Porter and Louis

Morton. The prosecution put several witnesses on the stand to prove their case, Miss S. J. Wheeler, Mrs. Charles Brown and Miss Maggie Lilly all testifying as to the prisoner's guilt, while in the latter's behalf appeared Dave Brown, Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. E. T. Luce. The progress of the case was marked by many windy tilts between the opposing counsel and many arguments full of eloquence.

The jury at last retired, in charge of Tipstaff Marshall Tinker, and took considerable time to deliver its verdict. Among the other parties in the case were Mrs. cadie Morton, steno-grapher; S. V. Emory, clerk of the court, and W. L. Porter, patrolman. The jury finally found Lucas guilty and sentence was then pronounced by the judge. The prisoner was fined $50 and was sentenced to spend twelve months in the county jail.

Steve Paul, of Throop, a 17-year-old mule driver at the Sterrick Creek mine. was taken to the Lackawanna hospital yesterday morning with his right leg so badly crushed that it was found necessary to amputate it. The mule drawing his car, it seems, is of a singularly vicious nature, and suddenly yesterday morning kicked him in such violent manner that he was hurled directly in the path of an approaching mine car.

The wheels passed over his leg and crushed it in a terrible manner, it being simply a mass of broken bone and mangled flesh, between the knee and ankle

Much Postponed Case at Last Conducted by Coroner Boberts.

The oft-postponed inquest in the case of John Kneirim, of Petersburg, who died last week after a long confine ment to his home as the result of stab wounds inflicted by William Bowman, was held last night in Petersburg by oroner J. J. Roberts. The latter informed the jury of the condition of Kneirim's body as he discovered it at the autopsy, and Dr. Bernstein, who had been in attendance on him, also testified, the general trend of the testimony of both being to the effect that the wounds were all healed and had little, if anything, to do with Kneirim's death. The jury brought in the following verdict:

We, the undersigned jurors, impanelled in this case of John Knelrim, according to evidence offered, find that said John Knelrim came to his death from dilitation of the stomach, which state of stomach was not the direct result of stab wounds inflicted on his person by one William Bowman, though we are inclined to the belief that the hemorrhage induced by said wounds tended to hasten death.
