having finished our annual inventory of stock we find a lot of Bemnants and small quatities, enough for one or two rooms of each, which we want to clear out to make room for larger quantities of other patterns, and offer them at half the usual prices while they last. This is a good chance to get real bargains in fine Wall Papers where small quantities are wanted.

The variety of patterns and colors is large, but the quantity of each is limited. We want to get them out the store before spring trade begins.

Yesterday when Mr. Randall returned to Moscow he found his home vanished. Inquiry developed that his wife and the boarder had moved away, presumably to Scranton. Mr. Randall located them in this city, learned that they were living together, satisfied himself by undoubtable evidence that they were married and started out to bring the law down upon them. Arrests will likely occur today.

CONVENTION OF COUNTY W. C. T. U.

MID-YEAR GATHERING HELD YESTERDAY IN DUNMORE.

Conducted in the Methodist Episcopal Church and Attended by Over 200 Delegates-Resolutions Adopted as Presented by Special Committee-Able Papers and Addresses by Mrs. J. M. Downing, Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Hart and E. D. Nichols, of Wilkes-Barre.

The mid-year convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union of Lackawanna county was held yesterday in the Methodist Episcopal church at Dunmore and was undoubtedly the most successful in the history of the organization not only as regards the enthusiasm and interest in the addresses made, but also as regards attendance, for the church was crowded at each of the three sessions held, over 200 delegates being present.

The exercises commenced in the morning with devotional exercises, led by Mrs. J. S. Miller, after which an excellent trio from Peckville rendered a beautiful vocal selection. The convention proper was then called to order by Mrs. Maria W. Vaughn, of Moscow, the president. After the re-Mrs. J. M. Howell, which was very encouraging, had been read, a number of temporary committees were ap-pointed, including one on resolutions, whose report is given below.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Mrs. Howell, on behalf of Rev. A. J. VanCleft, the pastor of the church. who was unfortunately not able to be present, read an address of welcome which was responded to briefly by Mrs. S. W. Stone. Mrs. J. M. Downing then read an excellent paper on "The Wemen's Christian Temperance Union of Today.'

Mrs. Downing said that "the Women's Christian Temperance union is organized along broader lines for temthe necessity for arousing enthusiasm in Loyal Legion work, as the boys and girls of today will be the men and romen of tomorrow. She told of how. through the efforts of the Women's hristian Temperance union, a num per of New York society girls had been prevailed upon to refrain from selling ntoxicating drinks at the recent charty bazaar in New York in which Lily Langtry was the moving spirit.

Following Mrs. Downing's remarks spirited discussion of the equal suffrage question was indulged in by a number of the ladies present. A brief social session followed, after which an adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEET. In the interim between the morning and afternoon sessions the executive committee held a meeting and decided to engage Mrs. Preston, of Wilkes-Barre, to conduct a series of meetings n April to arouse interest in the Loyal Legion work. The treasurer's report, which was presented, was not very en ouraging and it was decided that each local society hereafter contribute $2 yearly to the general fund. It was also decided at this meeting to hold the next mid-year convention in Waverly

When the general sessions of the organization were resumed in the afternoon, Mrs. Young gave a brief Bible reading, after which there was singing by the trio and a reading by Miss Van Cleft. A model Loyal Temperance Legion meeting was then conducted by Mrs. DePue and proved a most interesting feature of the programme.

Mrs. Hallstead read a very able and carefully prepared paper on "Some Recent Scientific Experiments in the Nature and Effects of Alcohol." She quoted a number of eminent scientists and other authorities to show that Professor Atwater's recent claim that alcohol is a food is not borne out by the

Mrs. Hart then told in an interesting nanner of the "Work Among Colored People." She referred to the 4,058,000 blacks now in the south and the neessity of teaching them something of the truths of religion and the evils of the liquor habit. An offering was taken up, after which the reports of the various committees were heard.

THE RESOLUTIONS. The committee on resolutions report ed as follows: To accomplish the ends for which we pray, we need the co-operation of all who believe in the principles we advocate, irespective of their political party affiliaor religious preferences. therefore reaffirm our unflattering belief in the righteousness of the foundation principle of our organizaton, total abtinence for the individual and legal prohibition for the state.

We believe in the enforcement of all existing laws for the suppression of the liquor traffic and in work to secure better legislation. We recognize especially the need of educational work, as to the injurious effects of alcoholic stimulants and narcotics, and the creation of an enlightened public sentiment in favor of total abstinence and the entire prohibi-tion of the liquor traffic which senti-ment makes possible the effectual en-forcement of law.

We have an abiding faith in the efficacy of the spiritual side of our work, but believe that educational, evangelistic and legislative work should go hand in hand, as a trinity of forces that must make a perfect power.

We believe the so-called army canteen system, while pretending to keep our soldiers from the temptations of the saloons, outside of camp, has really resulted in bringing saloon temptations directly to thousands of young men who had been carefully trained in Christian homes and churches. We know the canteens have brought demoralization, drunkenness and vice of all kinds into camp life, and have resulted in scenes

We believe that every possible effort should be made to remove the enticements of the open saloon from college towns, and we urge upon parents in selecting schools for the training of their sons to avoid those where those in authority tolerate and encourage intemperance in any way.

We regret with sorrow and shame the tremendous expansion of the liquor business in the Philippines.

We believe that the lawlessness, licentiousness and drunkenness that have "followed the flag," the pernicious influence of the nearly 400 saloons in Manila that find shelter and protection under its folis, cannot be counteracted by the few missionaries that go with Bibles in their hands.

We tender our hearty thanks to the pastor and trustees for the use of this church; to the ladies who have so kindentertained us, and to all who have any way helped in this convention. CONCLUDING SESSION.

The concluding session of the day was held in the evening and was attended by a very large audience. Rev. A. J. She called attention to saloon question, which is forcing itself upon our new island possessions.

A selection was rendered by the Asbury quartette, after which an excellent address on "The Gospel, Law and Prohibition" was given by E. D. Nichols, esq., of Wilkes-Barre. Mr. Nichols is a calm and deliberate speaker, and his remarks were logical and concise and merited the appreciation they received from the audience.

He began by pointing out the fact that a nation has no more right to sin than an individual. He told of the recognized fact among the nations of the world that there is a Supreme Power and Law above the law of the land and from this he argued that no law has a right to be on the statute books that is contrary to the law of God, and said that in his belief "the liquor license law is contrary to the law of

BEN JOHNSON'S OUTFIT.

They Furnished a Lot of Sport Yesterday-Drummer Wanted to Sell It at Auction.

Ben Johnson, his dilapidated ash and still more dilapidated vagon norse and a well-dressed, properousooking, good-natured and very inoxicated commercial traveler were the dramatis personae that enacted a very amusing comedy between the hours of and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The spectacle presented to a miscellaneous crowd of small boys, street gamins, interested passersby and respectable citizens that followed the comedy throughout its several acts was a most humorous one. If one did not are as to whether he would lay himself open to the charge of plagiarism or not he could aptly dub it "The Comedy of Errors" and hit the nail square on the head. It all arose out of a misunderstanding by means of which the drummer secured the use of the vehicle and steed for the afternoon for $4.50 and afterward forgot and imagined he owned the whole turnout. So much for the synopsis. It seems that about 4 o'clock the traveler met Ben driving down Spruce street. The horse was dragging itself along in its usual cheerful manner. the wagon's wheels were merrily wobbling around and the drummer's hazened intellect was fascinated by the

"M' frien'," he called out, "whash you take for the wagon?" Ben though the matter over for ew moments in dignified slience and then responded that he could have horse, wagon and cergo for the afternoon for $4.50. The drummer produced a wad of bills, paid the required amount and, mounting the driver's seat, started down the street with Ben following after. After awhile the affair began to grow monotonous to the driver and when he had reached the Hotel Jermyn he started to auction the horse and wagon

He received bids ranging from five cents to a quarter, and then Ben kicked and demanded the equipage back. The new possessor, however, objected. He claimed that Ben had sold him the horse and wagon for $4.50 and that they were his to use as he so desired He then turned down Penn avenue, the crazy wagon creaking at every turn, and halted in the middle of the block. Here Ben tried in vain to disso far as to threaten to set fire to the rubbish accumulated in the wagon. Entreaties and threats were in vain but at last, after much trouble, a compromise was arrived at, by means of which the traveler received back $4 Ben came once more in possession o his own and the two star performers in the comedy disappeared into a Peni avenue saloon, so ringing down the curtain on the last scene.

LIGHT ORDINANCE UPTO THE MAYOR

PASSED COMMON COUNCIL ON FINAL READING.

President Keller Was the Only Member to Vote Against It-No Quorum Caused an Adjournment While the Speak-easy Ordinance Was Under Consideration and While Mr. Ziselman Was Anxiously Waiting to Call Up the Appropriation Bill-License Tax Measure.

All that is now wanting to make operative the ten-year electric light contract with the Scranton Electric Light and Heat company is the signature of Mayor Moir. It passed on final reading in common council last night at a session adjourned from the previous night. It received the votes of all the members excepting Chairman Keller, who opposed it, and Mr. Harvey, who was bsent. The ordinance made a regular Lucania passage, having started on its legislative voyage only last Tuesday. It was introduced in printed form reported forthwith from committee passed on two reading, laid over as the law requires to a subsequent meet-ing, which was held Thursday night, passed on third reading, sent over to common council, where it secured committee approval and two readings, and then at an adjourned meeting las night given its final reading.

The special license tax ordinance was called up by Mr. Calpin on third reading and after Mr. Griffiths had mude an unsuccessful attempt to amend it in committee of the whole, it passed by the following vote:
Ayes—Messrs. M. V. Morris, Calpin,
Ruane, Zizelman, Nagell, Phillips,
Wenzel, Watkins, T. F. Morris, Cusick.

NO AMENDMENTS.

The motion to go into committee of the whole to give Mr. Grifftha opportunity of offering an amendment defeated by a tie vote, Messrs, Morris . Morris, Calpin, Ruane, Tewkesbury, Nageli, Phillips, Monaghan, T. F. Mor ris, Smith and Cusick voting in the negative.

Mr. Calpin called for his original notion to pass the ordinance on third reading, but in the face of the fact that a motion was pending Mr. Grier, with the indulgence of Chairman Keler, succeeded in having another motion adopted, giving Mr. Griffiths "personal privilege" to read his proposed mendment. There were strong protests from Mr.

Calpin, Mr. Nageli and Mr. Zizelman against Chairman Keller's "indulrence," but the amendment was never theless read. It proved to be a very simple motion—the changing of one tem whereby bill posters should be taxe1 $100 instead of $10, and furnished with badges by the city, which would identify them and thereby protect

Mr. Grier wanted to reconsider action, but as no one who had voted in the affirmative on the original motion would make the motion to reconsider the chair was finally left with no alternative and the motion to pass on

ON THIRD READING.

Other ordinances passed on third and final reading and made ready for the mayor's signature were as follows Providing for a third permanent man for the Franklin Engine company; transferring $125 to pay for the circula: curb at the Dime bank corner and the Page court paving at the Nay Aug engine house; providing for sidewalks and curbs on Pine street, between Washington and Wyoming avenues; providing for a sewer system on the extension of Wyoming avenue and adacent streets. The first named ordinance was opposed by Mr. Keller because the estimates committee has failed to provide as the ordinance will direct for an appropriation to pay the additional man's salary. Mr. Tewkesbury objected to the Pine street sidewalk and curb ordinance because the street is not graded and Chairman Keller questioned whether or not it could be enforced in view of this fact.

The common council ordinance providing a third man for the Neptune Engine company passed third reading Mr. Keller opposed it on the same grounds as he did the Franklin mea-

Before the vote could be taken a number of the members disappeared into the committee room and corridor leaving only nine noses to be counted by Chairman Keller, when the preto his attention. "There is no quorum and the meeting therefore stands adjourned," declared the chair as the gavel descended with a resounding whack.

Several members were very much disappointed by the sudden and unexpected adjournment. Among them was Mr. Zizelman, who was wanting to call up the appropriation ordinance.
