WYOMING REPUBLICANS.

County Convention Held at Tunkhannock Yesterday.

Special to the Scranton Tribu Tunkhannock, March 12.-The Republican county convention met here today in accordance with the call of the county chairman, for the purpose of electing a delegate to the state convention at Harrisburg and appointing conferees to meet the conferees from the other countles in this district to name delegates to the national con-vition at Philadelphia. The conven-tion was called to order by Chairman George A. Carter. E. J. Jorden was named for permanent chairman of the convention and the organization was completed by the appointment of E. R. Gay, of Meshoppen borough, and Charles Gardner, of Factoryville borough, as secretaries and J. W. Wrigley, of Lemon township, as reading secretary. The committee on resolu tions was appointed, consisting of H. S. Harding, of Tunkhannock borough: M. V. Townsend, of Factoryville borough, and Charles Spencer, of Nicholson. The committee reported resolutions endorsing the administration of President McKinley and of Governor Stone and also the policy of our United States senator and representative in congress in the support given by them to the president. They further com-mended Congressman C. Fred Wright, of this district, and declared the sense of the convention to be that he should be re-nominated. Henry Harding and E. J. Jorden were appointed as corferees from this county to meet with the conferees from the other counties for the purpose of choosing a delegate to the national convention, an elector for this congressional district and making a nomination for congress, and these conferees were instructed to support Hon, C. Fred Wright for the nomination. B. W. Lewis, of Tunkhannock borough, was then nominated as this county's choice for state senator, and he was given authority to appoint his own conferees. The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a delegate to the state convention. Moses Shields, of Nicholson borough, was nominated but declined in favor of D. G. Black, of the same place, and there

At the last meeting of the county convention the Crawford county rules, under which the Republican party in this county have been working for several years, were abolished and a committee on rules appointed to report to this convention. The committee reported a set of rules which were a modification of the former system, and after being read it was moved that be laid on the table and the motion was carried. An amendment was then offered to the old rules in regard to the method of choosing the county chairman, making his election rest with the candidates who are nominated by county convention for county offices, and this amendment was carried and ordered to be incorporated in the rules. The rules as now constituted are the old delegate system under which the party worked for years before the adoption of the Crawford county system. The convention was adjourned to meet at the call of the county chairman. It was a harmonious convention, with the Quay issue, the rock on which the party in this county has split for the last few years, completely lost sight of. Starting four years ago, the Republican party controlled all of the offices in the county and had a good working majority of from three to five hundred. But owing to dissensions which have crept into the party, factions have arisen and at the last election but one Republican candidate was elected There was more of a disposition shown at this convention to get together than has been in evidence for some time, and if this spirit is carried into this year's campaigns Wyoming county will get back where she ought to be, in the Republican column. Word was received here Saturday of the arrival of Z. Wells Reynolds and R. J. Little at Sar Francisco. These two Tunkhannock people have had a varied experience since leaving home a year ago last October. Mr. Reynolds is paymaster in the United States navy and Mr. Little is his clerk. They were assigned to the battleship Oregon, then in New York, and made the trip around the horn in her and upon reaching Manila were assigned to the monitor Monterey and afterwards transferred to the cruiser Charleston, and were wrecked with that vessel off the coasof Luzon. Sterling, of Brooklyn, Mr. Sterling has been breeding Holstein stock for the past ten or twelve years, and owner about fifty head, mostly of the Holstein breed. Having lost a cow which seemed without doubt to have had the much talked of and much dreaded disease, he applied to the state authorities for an examination of the herd.

The result of this examination was thus nine cows responded to the tuberculin test, and six of these were recently slaughtered. Of the six killed only one gave any evidence of the disease having made any invoad on any organ of the body. In fact so very healthful was the apparent condition of these animals that many who were observing with interest the development of the case became convinced that tuberculosis is something of a scare. Three of the condemned ani-mals are retained in quarantine, and the development of the disease, if any, will

It is no doubt of the greatest import ance to take all possible measures to stamp out the disease, if possible, but a little study of the matter has a tendency to convince one that the danger through milk and beef from this source is much less than the dangers in many other di

What to Do Until the Doctor Arrives It is very hard to stand idly by and see our dear ones suffer while awaiting the arrival of the doctor. An Albany (N. Y.) dairyman called at a drug store there for a doctor to come and see his child, then very sick with croup, Not finding the doctor in, he left word for him to come at once on his return. He also bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which he hoped would give some relief until the doctor should arrive. In a few hours he returned saying the doctor need not come, as the hild was much better. The druggist, Mr. Otto Scholz, says the family has recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their neighbors and friends until he has a constant demand for it from that part of the country. That New Theater.

Up in Syracuse, N. Y., much interest has been taken in the story recently printed in The Tribune about the plans of A. A. Graff, of that city, to build a theater here, to be used for vaude-

Graff and his partner, Shubert, recently transferred their lease of the Dunfee theater in that city to other parties. They had been running it as a vaudeville house. John L. Kerr, formerly manager of the Lyceum, who is now in Syracuse, is authority for the statement that Graff has not got the theatrical interests in Syracuse he repwas here. He is of the opinion that Graff will not build the theater he has

Manager Harvey Long, of the Academy of Music and Lyceum, is of the same opinion. He says there is not business enough here to warrant an other theater or to induce anyone to put their money into such a venture.

Manager Walsh to Retire.

Manager Austin Walsh, who has been in charge of the Galety since the opening of the season, has decided to retire from the burlesque and vaudeville business and will leave the Galety when his lease expires on April 1.

Bijou at Wilkes-Barre, which has been a burlesque house for several seasons. For some time past it has been closed, There is a probability that both houses will pass into the control of Scranton parties, who will run them as clean, high-class vaudeville theaters.

"The Span of Life." At the Academy of Music last night the thrilling melodrams, "The Span of Life," was presented before a large audience. It is a drama in four acts, three of which are laid in England and one in South Africa.

In the third act, located in South Africa, is the incident from which the play takes its name. Dunslan Leach pursuing Richard Brunt, his wife and child, and to prevent their escape from him has destroyed the bridge crossing a chasm, over which they must pass to reach a place of safety. It seems that nothing can save them, when a quartette of Blunt's devoted followers appear on the other side of the chasm, and taking in the situation at a glance, form themselves into a pillar and then throw themselves scross the chasm, forming a bridge on which the hard pressed Blunts reach a place of safety.

The scene is a thriller and no mistake, and after it was over last night the entire company had a curtain call. The human bridge was formed by the Donazettas, acrobats who also introluced some acrobatic specialties in onnection with the show. Singing and dancing specialties were introduced by Miss Louise J. Valentine and Ned Runnell. The leading characters in the play were sustained in a capable manner by William Howatt, Carl Anderson. Leonore Gordon and Louise I. Valentine.

"The Span of Life" will be repeated this and tomorrow afternoons and evenings.

A! Reeves' Company.

Al Reeves' Burlesque company opened a three days' engagement at the Galety theatre yesterday afternoon ing to a large and enthusiastic audione of the best on the road, is this season under the management of Thomas D. Van Osten, well known in Scranton through his connection with the Galety last year. "Van" was heartlly velcomed yesterday by his many friends about the city, and especially very popular. The burlesques presented yesterday were from the pen of Mr. Van Osten, who seems destined to shine as a playwright as well as manager. The programme was of a varied nature to suit all tastes. In the ollo, which is opened by Fannie Thatcher and May Bell, the latter a new and charming member, many good specialties are introduced, including those of the Weldi brothers. Richmond and Clements, and Al Reeves. The bright and shining light of the entertainment, nowever, was without doubt Miss Inez Mecusker, the prima donna sopranno, whose efforts were received with storms of applause. The colored vocalists were as a whole scarcely up to the members who have appeared on former occasions, though some of the musical acts were good. Al Reeves will be at the Galety this afternoon and evening and tomorrow.

Production of "Faust."

Porter J. White and his production of "Faust" opens a three days' en-gagement at the Academy of Music Thursday. The Richmond Daily Call

"Porter J. White's presentation of "Faust" Thursday night was given better than on his former visit to Richmond. There was a large attendance and all were well pleased. The scenic effects were fine, the garden scene being way ahead of anything ever before attempted on this stage. The stage settings were beautiful, embellished as they were with electrical effects which added brilliancy to the scene. It is evident that "Faust" has lost none of its popularity in Richmond. The Daily Call has nothing but praise for Mr. White's Mephisto, while Miss Verne's Marguerite was studied and very favorably received. The remaining members of the company were well balanced."

Pictures of the Fight.

The biograph pictures of the Jeffries-Sharkey contest will be placed on public view for the first time at the Lyceum theater next Friday and Saturday, with a special matince Saturday. The pictures are admirably clear. The movements of the pugilists, their feints, their blows, their, parries, their advances and retreats are shown with remarkable vividness. None of the tricks of the gladiators are lost to the eye of the audience. Moreover, the characteristic attitudes and movements of well known sporting men are portrayed so as to be un

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Beview.

New York, March 12.—Today's stock market was unanimously strong throughout. The demonstrated indifference of the market on Saturday to the swift depletion of surplus reserves of New York hanks took the mainstay of the ocars from beneath them. The demand from short interests was a factor in the advances and especially in the industrials which have recently been under pressure. There were several elements of positive strength in the market, but the largest part of the buying was undoubtedly due to the effort of professional operators among the speculators to discount the effect of the currency bill. Not only the smaller class of professionals, who have recently had the market to themselves, but operators of a larger mould, gave evidence of their interest in the market. The demands made by the inside activity of the stock market on the money market. We will be stock market on the money market was evidenced in a flurry in the call loan rate to 6 per cent. The speculators paid no attention to the admonitary symptom, apparently convinced that the president tomorrow.
