OLYPHANT.

A lively tilt between Messrs, Reap and Galiagher was a feature of Monday night's meeting of the council after the second ballot had been taken which resulted in the usual tie. Mr. Reap took the floor and in a brief speech gave his reasons for supporting the VanSickle faction, stating that he h men he upheld and found them to be in the interest and welfare of the borough at all times. He severely attacked Mr. Gallagher's record as a councilman, particularly on the sewer question. Mr. Gallagher sharply replied to his remarks and denied the charges which were made. Balloting was again proceeded with, and after three more tie ballots were taken the council adjourned.

During 1894 317 marriage licenses were granted in Bradford county; during the closing year 347 couples were given legal orders to enter the state of matrimony, making a gain of thirty. The census of 1880 gave the county population of 58,541, which in 1890 had increased to 59,233, a gain of 692. Allowing an increase of population in that ratio there was in 1894 one marriage license for every 188 people, and in 1899 for every 172 of population. It must be considered that many wed-ding couples from New York state, where one or both have been divorced. which forbids them to marry again in that state. Numerous Bradford county people go over the New York state life to avoid answering the questions and the payment of fees. Already this year forty-one licenses have been issued. During last year thirty-four widowers and twenty-eight widows were among those who desired to again enter the marriage state. In thirteen cases both parties had been bereaved. The widowers waited an average of three years and the widows five years. Of the twenty-five divorced persons twenty-one were women.
