RED MEN ATTEND SERVICES AT SUMNER AVENUE CHURCH.

Rev. Frank J. Milman Preaches to Them on "Patient Perseverance." What Religion Really Is-Two Fires Saturday-New Ambulance Brought Into Service-Street Railway Company Doing Some Paving-News Notes and Personal Paragraphs.

Rev. Frank J. Milman, M. A., who is Avenue Presbyterian church, preached brother, "Hold on" in the face of every a sermon last evening to the members disappointment. You are doing God's of Pancoka tribe, Improved Order of work. You cannot tell in vain. For-Red Men, who attended the services in a body. The speaker's theme was "Patient Perseverance," and the text was taken from Job, 17:9, "The righteous also shall hold on his way." During the course of his remarks, Rev. Milman spoke, in part, as follows:

Let me apply this motto of "Holding on" to your efforts to do good to your rellow men. When you were children, rellow men. When you were children, most of you at least, came from Christian homes. Your parents were engaged in good works, social, philanthropic and religious. If you are worthy to those parents, you, too, will seek some corner in Christ's vineyard where you may gather in the grapes. You will be ashamed to pass through life and leave the world no better for having been in it. To, whatever good you put your hand, whether it be in the lodge room, on the sick conmittee, or in temperance work, social purity reform, the better housing of the poor, the elevation of the lower classes, the noble attempt to make the toiling classes and masses of society have something better than the poor farms to look forward to in time of distress and at the close of life's activity, whatever good work your order undertakes, persevere, stick to it, "Hold on."

chick to it, "Hold on."

Christian men are slowly awakening out of the sleep of the centuries. Plain men are weary of the clothes of religion and are sighing for the blessed reality. The reality does not consist in theological hair-splitting. No; religion is a reality, not simply talk-"And simple faith can find the way

We miss with chart of creed.' Religion is to do justice, be honorable, aid the poor, console the sorrowing, comfort the dying, love mercy, and walk humbly with your God. We are begin-ning to realize that Christianity is for man, that a religion which does not ele-vate man here on earth, and cause jus-tice to abound, may talk to the day of doom of the solemn hereafter, but it will utterly fall to hold the masses. Human life, of course, is a pilgrimage through this earth to our fatherland. But there is no reason why the pilgrimage should be made harder than necessary by bad laws and wicked social customs. Men must, as the saying goes, "trudge

"Each good thought or action moves The dark world near the sun." It is a law of physics that no force is ever lost. It may be transformed. The force in coal can be transformed to electricity, or steam power. But only God can destroy force, as only He can create it. So in the moral world no force is ever lost. We are often depressed with the sense of failure, when we have not really failed; and we often count that success which is really failure. In any good cause, it is far better to try and fail than not to try at all.

Demosthenes, alone of leading Greek tatesmen, fought to the last against Philip of Macedonia, urging the Atheniams not to join this monarch. His immortal orations show the fervor and the wisightedness of the man. He saw that Greek liberty, progress and civilization would be checked and hindered when once the warrior king from the north became master of the Grecian cities. The heroic efforts of Demosthenes did not succeed in keeping back the conqueror. But who, today, would exchange the glory of Demosthenes with the shame that fell on Aeschives, who finally handed Athens into Philip's arms. Brethren of the Red Men, in every good work for the good, the welfare, the uplifting of your fellow men, "Hold on." Your growth in Christian excellence can only come by perseverance, "Holding on."

TWO SMALL FIRES.

Mrs. Owen Davis, who resides over the police station on Jackson street, noticed smoke issuing from the third story of the Pauli building shortly be fore noon on Saturday, and notified Heiser & Warnke's clerks. An investigtaion was made and it was found that the woodwork in the kitchen of the living apartments was ablaze, having become ignited from some hot ashes which were carelessly thrown on the floor. The fire was extinguished before much damage was done. alarm was sent in.

The chimney on one of the sections of George Cooper's tenement house or Eighth street became overheated a 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and caused an alarm to be turned in from Box 14, corner of West Lackawanna avenue and Seventh street. The apartments are occupied by Mrs. John Martin, but were not damaged, the firemer having responded quickly and prevented the spread of the flames.

Art in Millinery

Fine materials do not necessarily make fine Millinery. Women of taste, refinement and good judgment fully realize that fact, but as the only way its truth can be demonstrated is through an appeal to the eye and reason,

> We invite the ladies of Northeastern Pennsylvania to attend our opening display of artistic Spring Millinery on Wednesday and Thursday, April 4 and 5,

When the choicest productions of home and foreign artists in ladies' headgear will await their inspection. Extreme novelties that are a little odd will be found along side the more conservative ideas which appeal to women who never want to be conspicuously dressed.

In Addition to Trimmed Millinery

We will show a most complete assortment of everything requisite for making millinery to order, or for the home milliners' use. Nothing that fashion demands has been omitted, and the exhibition will be found well worthy of the most critical attention.

DEATH OF REV. DR. PECK.

Was One of the Oldest Ministers in This Part of State-His Family Famous in Methodism.

Rev. Luther W. Peck. D. D., died at his home on Chestnut street Saturday last at 4 p. m. He was around, hale and hearty last week, but on Monday last he contracted a severe cold, which later developed into pneumonia, and to which he finally succumbed. He was 4 years of age.

Dr. Peck was justly proud of his anrations back. His original ancestor in the original signers of the articles founding the New Haven colony, who was of the ninth generation from him. On his mother's side he was descended from the Myers and Bennett fami- | services. lies, many of whom are living in the Wyoming Valley at the present time. Thomas Bennett, an old Indian fighter and one of the forty settlers who built the stockade at Forty Fort, was one of his maternal ancestors, and Jesse Peck, who, together with two of his sons, gave their lives for their country waste, saturated with kerosene. This in the Revolutionary war, was his pa ternal grandfather.

Dr. Peck was born in Kingston, Lufourteenth day of June, 1825, and was the second son of the late Rev. Dr George Peck and Mary Myers. boyhood was spent in the Wyoming Valley, where, in listening to the sturillustrious father, he imbibed those principles of piety, eloquence and character which so distinguished him in his $2,600. To that marvelous valley, so renowned in history and legend, so beautiful in its wealth of scenery, so rich in its mineral wealth, in the The funeral of James Boyd, who was later years of his life, when the shadows of evening were beginning to gather over his head, his thoughts turned, and led him to write his poem, "The Humming Bird," a writing that has elicited favorable comment from many critics. When quite young in years, Dr. Peck was placed in charge of his uncle, Bishop Jesse T. Peck, who was then the principal of the Methodist seminat Poultney, Vermont, to be cated. He spent several years there and laid the foundation for the education which he subsequently obtained. As the age of fifteen he entered Wesleyan university at Middletown, Conn., as a freshman in the class of 1845, with George I. Seney, A. Oakey Hall, John W. Beach and many other men who afterwards became famous as authors, politicians and philanthropists. He remained in Wesleyan but one year, when his father was called to the editership of the Christian Advocate, in New York city, and his son, in order that he might be at home, left Wesleyan and entered New York university as a sophomore in the class of '45, under the famous educator, Chancellor Theodore Frelinghuysen. He led his class during the time he was a student and graduated as the valedictorian when but nineteen years of age. Immediately subsequent to his graduation he entered the Methodist ministry, joining the New York conference in 1845, there to devote his life to the service of the Great Master. In this he followed the example of his father and the latter's four brothers, who, with Rev. George M. Peck, his own brother, were all Methodist ministers. On January 18, 1848, Dr. Peck married Sarah M. Gibbons, the daughter of a noted Albany physician, Dr. Ransom H. Gibbons, who still survives him. During the first twenty-three years of his ministry he was a memher of the New York conference and occupied many pulpits of prominence, including New York city, Brooklyn, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and others. In 1868 he was transferred to the Wyoming conference and was stationed at the Simpson Methodist Episcopal his membership at the time of his death. His appointments in this conference were many, and included Wilkes-Barre, Pittston, presiding elder of the Honesdale district and during his later life less arduous appointments. For forty-six years he was in the active ministry and during the last ten years he has held a supernumary relation. Dr. Peck was the last of his generation famous as a race of preachers, and in his death the Wyoming conference loses its oldest member. The funeral will be held at his late residence, No. 302 Chestnut street, on Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be in the Forty Fort cemetery and will be private, the funeral party taking the 3.40 Delaware, Lack-awanna and Western train.

The pall-bearers will be his four nephews, Judge William H. Crane, of Port Jervis; William H. Peck and Luther W. Peck, of this city, and George

DAY'S DOINGS IN DUNMORE BOROUGH

NEW POLICE OFFICERS WENT ON DUTY LAST NIGHT.

Dunmore Will Now Have Police Protection All Night-Services at the Various Churches Yesterday-Unclaimed Letters Awaiting Their Owners at the Postoffice-Funeral of William Powell Held Yesterday-Brief News Notes and Several Personal Jottings.

Last evening at 7 o'clock the newly appointed police force went on duty and for the first time performed their duties as guardians of the peace. The new officers are as follows: Chief of Police Patrick Healey, patrolmen on all night duty, Patrick Kays, Frank Sacco and Patrick Boland; patrolmer on duty from 7 to 11 o'clock p. m., James Golden, Fred Beaver and Michael Quinn. The increase in the number of the police force seems to meet with the approval of the taxpayers of the borough, while the protection during the night hours is welcomed by all. Chief of Police Dierks and Patrolmen Sawyer, Bulger and Pletcher, who left the service last evening, are credited by popular opinion with having done more in the taxpayers' interests than any of the policemen ever on the force before. Burglaries have been practically unknown and the usual pay day drunks and disturbances have been moderated. It is hoped that the new force will take up the work and that the results of the future will show still greater improvement.

YESTERDAY AT THE CHURCHES. The pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. W. F. Gibbons, preached to his congregation vesterday morning on the subject, "Necessity of Confessing Christ," and in the evening on "Two Kinds of Religion."
