Mr. Hughes was always held in high esteem by the employes of the company, and, as many are desirous of attending the funeral services this after-noon, they can do so without any in convenience. The services will be held at 2.30 o'clock at the First Weish Baptist church, South Main avenue. The body will lie in state at the church from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., and all who desire can view the remains at

Foreign Freight Agent.

With the appointment of C. C. Jewett as foreign freight agent, the Lackawanna railroad has begun an activ campaign to increase its foreign freight business, for which its facilities are particularly adapted, it having very extensive terminals in Hoboken, New York city and Brooklyn.

Mr. Jewett's career has made him eminently fitted for this position. He is a son of Professor C. C. Jewett, who for years was superintendent of the Smithsonian institute and afterwards superintendent of the great Boston

After completing his education, Mr. Jewett started on a seafaring career, making his first voyage from Boston to Calcutta, in 1869. After making many trips between this country and the Orient, he located in India, where he obtained a certificate as captain in the English merchant service, taking charge of a steamship trading from India to China, the Philippines and other

East India ports. After a varied experience, during which he visited South Africa, Mauritius and Australia, he finally settled in Sydney, New South Wales, as traffic manager of the French Mail Steam ship company This position he held for fourteen years, during which time he became thoroughly familiar with the adjacent colonies, New Caledonia, the New Hebrides and other islands. In 1895 he returned to this country and became contracting agent for a large ship owning concern, of Boston and London. Two years later he established himself as a steamship brok-er and agent. This latter position he leaves to accept service with the Lackawanna raffroad.

Will Not Spend a Million.

The statement published in a morn ing contemporary to the effect that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company propose to spend a million gollars in local improvements within the present year is looked upon as a "pipe dream" by all who are in a position to know about such things.

While it is true that many improvements are contemplated and several new stations will be built at different points glong the line, a new passenger station and freight depot for this city is hardly probable this year, as the minor improvements already made at the Lackawanna avenue station indicate that the old building will serve the purpose for severa, years to come. news bureau, telegraph station, parcel room and better ventilation are needed in the men's room, and, in all probability, the necessary changes will soon be made to conform with these requirements.

Engineer Warner stated to a Tribune man yesterday that no plans for a new station have been made in his department, neither does he know that such are in existence. He does not know anything about the proposed extention of the machine shops, the new round house or any other contemplated

That there is need of more enclosure: cohouse the many new engines reestions, but when one stops to consider that the thirty new locomotive that have been received have replaced a large number of old engines that will soon go to the scrap heap, the need is not so pressing as at first glance would appear.

There is at present a large number of old engines stalled near the machine ps which have been ordered out of Murdock, who first learned to appreciate Dr. Peck's true worth while he attended college with deceased's son, told in affected words how, when the son received letters from the father the missives would contain encourage ment and the keen sense of heart interest which so many young men have felt the influence of during their first years in the ministry, and which Dr. Peck invariably took in them.

Dr. Sprague referred to the powerful influence which the generation of Pecks, which has passed away, had upon Methodism in general, and said five of them had contributed average of forty years each to the Christian ministry. As a scholar, Luther W. Peck, the fifth of the famous family to pass away, was a literary genius, Dr. Sprague said, and his life work was well done. He was a bril-ute to Dr. Peck, and referred to the passing of nine members of the conference during the past year who will not answer roll call any more. The quartette sang "We'll Never Say Good Bye," and Rev. J. L. Race offered the ent there were in attendance a large quaintances of the deceased, who hal loved and respected him through life. In the absence of Presiding Elder Griffin the services were conducted by Rev. J. B. Sweet, the family pastor, who led the devotional exercises. The Simpson Church Male quartette, Thos. Abrams, W. W. Jones, Harry Acker and Harry Wrigley, sang "Nearer My God to Thee," and Rev. J. F. Warner Surdam, who read the fifteenth chap-

liant scholar, a deep thinker, and a preacher of much force and eloquence. The quartette sang another favorite selection of Dr. Peck's, and Rev. A. J. Van Cleft, who succeeded deceased as presiding elder of the Honesdale district, made the closing address, in which he spoke feelingly of the departed soul, and of the blessed assurance that he always maintained in the belief that there is rest beyond the river. His address was a beautiful tribute to Mabelle C. Davis, Miss E. Davenport (2), the man whom, he said, was Christ Electric Wire company, E. M. Elben, personified.

HELD AT HIS LATE HOME ON CHESTNUT STREET.

> Although a very interesting programme of contests was prepared for the outing at Scranton Lake Saturday, nevertheless only a small number of students were present to see them. If the crowd was rather small and the weather rather blustery, those who had interest chough in the doings of the Pedestrian club, to show themselves, were fully rewarded for their trouble in reaching the take. The go-as-you-please race around the lake was a complete success, as were the running contest and other features. As the boys have arranged to have another day at the lake on the coming Sat urday and as a race of no little import ance is to take place, it is hoped that th boys will receive better encouragement on this day than last Saturday. The race will be between Eugene Tropp, the cham-pton of the Scranton High School, and Robert Gardener, who has recently won several important running matches at Exeter. #### The First Day of an Important Showing -- An April Surprise.

Negligee Shirts afford a genuine relief from the severity of gentlemen's lineu. Our great showing of "LION BRAND" garments are distinguished by a wide variety of tasteful designs, a smoothness and finish not usually found in ready-made goods. They provide an exceptional opportunity to express individuality in selection and combine a stylish appearance with comfort. Men who are hard to suit are earnestly recommended to come in and see how little they can find in this collection to criticise. Men who have decided ideas as to what a Summer Shirt should be are invited to discover how thoroughly we agree with them. There is a showing here that is representative,

In the "Novelty" Weaves-the sorts that some people call "exclusive" because they are somewhat uncommon-we show two hundred styles. Most of these are in the fine Madras Cloth combinations that are destined for strong popularity among well-dressed men this summer. Prices from one dollar to two dollars each.

We call these "Negligee" Shirts because they are principally of the soft-bosom variety, intended for hot weather comfort. But most of these new ones are as dressy as you could wish a summer garb to be. The dignified, effective, rather simple patterns, the beautiful colorings and the plentiful use of silk, achieve this result.

At $1.00

A very remarkable Shirt of Madras to be wo.n with white collar. One pair of detachable cuffs to match shirt pattern. The finish and detail of this shirt will command instant attention. One hundred styles.
