EVANS' TESTIMONIAL CONCERT. A larger or more appreciative audience never assembled in West Scranton than that which attended the testimonial concert in the Jackson Street Baptist church last evening, which was given to assist William Evans, a rising young baritone, in his musical studies. The bright particular star of the occasion was H. Evan Williams, the celebrated Welsh tenor, who sang with such delightful feeling and expression that he fairly enthralled his hearers.

The church was crowded from the stage to the uppermost heights of the Sunday school room, and every number on the programme was artistically rendered. The opening number, a trio in Welsh, by Miss Elizabeth Thomas, David Stephens and Philip Warren, was only a forerunner of the excellent numbers to follow. A piano duet by Miss Norma Williams and George Martin was well executed, but the audience was surprised beyond expression when Mr. Williams had concluded the rendition of his first two numbers, "When We Were Maying" and "Love Lies Bleeding." The second selection captivated every one by the manner in which the singer rendered it.

Mr. Williams seemed to be at home with his audience, and gave a very dramatic interpretation of the different numbers rendered. He was under a disadvantage, owing to the escaping snarl from the furnace in the church. His rendition of "Deeper and Deeper Still," by Handel, was a masterpiece, and the "Songs of Wales," which he sang, seemed to bring back memories of former days. As an encore to his second number he sang "The Four Leaved Clover," with an inspiring effect, and his final effort was a beautiful selection entitled "All Through the Night."

Miss Elizabeth Thomas received a fitting recognition from her hearers and sang in excellent voice "A May Morning" and "Spanish Romance." Her encores were given in Welsh, one of which was "The Bells of Aberdove." The instrumental numbers were played by Hayden Evans and George Martin, the latter receiving a hearty encore on his rendition of "Home, Sweet Home," and played "The Lonely Ash Grove," Lew Herbert, the basso, was given a splendid welcome on his re-appearance after a long illness, but he is still feeble from the effects of his sickness, and seemed to lack the power and volume of old. His rendition of an aria from Mozart, was nevertheless well received.

BOYET-HELLER NUPTIALS.

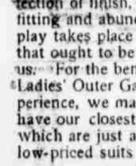

Fredrick H. Boyet, of 714 West Lackawanna avenue, and Miss Laura J. Heller, of Canandasis, were married last evening by Rev. J. B. Swoett, pastor of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the groom, where they will reside.

The couple were attended by J. Edwin Webster, of Pittston avenue, and Miss Annie E. Staines, of Beech street. The bride was becomingly attired in a steel colored satin dress.

It Takes Time for Fashions to Settle Themselves

The artist may design suits and jackets that look well on paper, and the most skilled of cutters and tailors may give them shape and form in finished garments, while the manufacturer or dealer may proclaim loudly to the world that these creations are Dame Fashions' decrees, but should the work of these geniuses fail to meet with popular approval, then their creations are but labor lost, for, after all, the people themselves decree what shall or shall not be worn and the prudent merchant who studies the interests of his patrons will not lose sight of this fact for one moment. That's the secret of our delay in announcing

THE WORD RHEUMATISM

Is Used to Cover a Multitude of Diseases.

[NEW YORK JOURNAL, MARCH 11, 1900.]

"Nowadays the word 'Rheumatism' is used to cover a multitude of diseases. They are all held by the common bond of what the physicians call 'uric acid poisoning'—an excess of uric acid in the blood, and are, generally speaking, kidney troubles—with the real cause of danger not so much in the aches and pains—the signals of distress given out by the muscles and joints—as in the gradual filtration of the blood by the failure of the kidneys to eliminate the deadly poison, called 'uric acid,' from the 'physical economy.' This vitiation of the blood results in 'rheumatism' (although it is a vague word), and a variety of symptoms which not infrequently end in what is called Bright's disease—the disease of which James G. Blaine, Mr. Cleveland's great political rival, died. It is the disease which medical authorities say has been an increasing and alarmingly prevalent in the United States of America, especially among the thinking, planning and writing classes—the classes made up of the kind of men that it is the fashion to call distinctively 'brainy men.'"

From the reading of intelligently edited papers, and from examination for life insurance, the great public is rapidly learning the fact that the human system becomes thoroughly poisoned when the kidneys fail to do the work nature intended them to do, and that if not speedily cured, rheumatism, heart disease, Bright's disease, and death, surely follow. The kidneys, and they alone, purify the blood. Tonics and so-called spring medicines prove costly and miserable failures. There is one scientific, vegetable specific for all kidney troubles—Warner's Safe Cure—a preparation with 21 years of success behind it. A positive cure for sick and tired-out kidneys. Not an experiment nor a goad, but a soothing, harmless, yet conquering friend. Give it a chance today to do you lasting good.

North Scranton Notes. Officer May Finds a Runaway Boy. Coming Entertainments—Other News Notes and Personals.

Officer May, while on duty on Providence road Tuesday night, found a young boy strolling aimlessly, as if lost, near the Tripp crossing of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, about 10 o'clock. When taken to the station house and questioned, the lad said his name was Harry Brogan, and that he was 14 years old. He said that he had made his home with a family at Conklin, N. Y., but owing to ill treatment had run away.

THINKS IT IS HIS BROTHER. M. A. Gilroy, of Avoca, After Information About Man in Leadville.

Michael A. Gilroy, of Avoca, appeared in the city hall yesterday afternoon with a clipping from The Tribune. It was to the effect that Detective John Moir had received a letter from P. J. Gilroy, of Leadville, Col., stating that he had large mining interests there which he wished to share with his brother, who lived in the vicinity of Scranton. Mr. Gilroy yesterday afternoon said that he separated from his brother fifteen years ago, and that the last time he heard from him was several years ago, when he received a letter from Pittsburgh.

He was advised yesterday to communicate with the Leadville Gilroy, and left the city hall without seeing either Chief Pollock or Detective Moir, who were both out.

Adjutant Ralph B. Aheroff, of the Thirtieth regiment, yesterday sent out 500 tickets of admission to the exercises to be held tomorrow night in the armory in connection with the distribution of marksmen's badges to the members of the regiment entitled to them. Those tickets were distributed among the commissioned officers, who will in turn give them to their friends.

The seating capacity of the armory, allowing room for the troops, will be only 500, and the adjutant desires it understood that no one will be admitted without a ticket; nor will any one be admitted to the armory after the regiment enters at 8:45 o'clock.

The members of the eight city companies will assemble at 15 on Adams avenue, right resting on Linden street, headed by Bauer's band, who will appear for the first time in their new military uniforms, a short street parade will be held over the following line of march: Liverton to Washington, to Vine to Washington, to Franklin, to Lackawanna, to Washington, to Linden, countermarch to Lackawanna, to Adams, to the armory.

AN UNEXPECTED LEGACY. President Charles DuPont Breck, of the Dime bank, and his brother, George S. Breck, received on Tuesday a rather unexpected legacy from the government as the heirs of Samuel Breck, of Philadelphia, who died in that city over seventy-five years ago, and who was their grand-uncle.

TWO NEW ORDERS.

Fire Department Discipline to Be Better Enforced.

Chief Walker yesterday sent out two orders to the various hose houses in the city, which he is determined to strictly enforce in the future. One of these directs the permanent men to harness their horses whenever an alarm of fire is turned in, even if it is not in their district.

The horses are to be kept harnessed for at least five minutes, so that if a second alarm is turned in by the district chief there will be no delay in responding to it. This has always been supposed to be a standing order, but the men have become lax in obeying its provisions.

The second order directs the foremen of the various companies to report immediately to the chief's office when they give a leave of absence to a permanent man. The rule has always been heretofore that a permanent man could secure several hours' leave by asking permission of the foreman of his company.

The permanent men and foremen, however, have been lately abusing this privilege. Some of the permanent men have taken a few hours off whenever they thought they needed a little rest, and if seen by the chief would say that the foreman had given them permission. The foreman, when questioned, would stretch his conscience a little and say that he had given the desired permission. It is thought that the new order will break up this practice.
