BOY SENT BACK.—Harry Schelly, the 13-year-old boy, whom Patrolman May arrested in North Scranton, while he was wandering around in an aimless manner, was yesterday sent by the boat to Conditing, N. Y., where he came to Scranton. He lived with a farmer there named Jerry Sullivan, and ran away because he was working too hard. The boy was dressed in ill-fitting clothes and had a very neglected look.

EFFORT UNSUCCESSFUL.—When J. W. Guernsey was being cross-examined by Mr. Newcomb, yesterday, he was questioned with a view of bringing out an admission that he would substantiate the charges of tampering with the two Bennett witnesses, as told at length in Wednesday's habeas corpus hearing, but Mr. Guernsey made positive and absolute denial of any such irregularity.

HE ADMITTED.—Charles Bennett and Josie Bennett, at Foot's house, but denied having done anything more than plead with Charles to correct the former testimony and tell the truth. As to the attempt to influence Miss Bennett, he could only say that when Mr. Keller suggested to him what had been done and what was contemplated, he called with them on his attorney, Mr. Woodruff, and participated in a consultation as to the best plan of securing the affidavit which Miss Bennett was reported to be willing to make.

BENNETT HAD INFORMED.—The witness that the plaintiff was putting up a "black job" on him, which in effect was that they had induced Josie Bennett to agree to swear that J. W. Guernsey had frequently called upon her to induce Charles Bennett to change his testimony.

RICHARD ROSS, who managed the "R. Ross & Co." livery stable for M. W. Guernsey, gave extended testimony tending to show that the plaintiff was actively engaged in the livery business and that he was anxious not to be known in the concern.

Jerry Devine, who for six months in 1895 leased the livery from M. W. Guernsey, was called to show that M. W. Guernsey was mistaken when he testified that he was in the livery business "all the time," and that J. W. Guernsey knew about it. Devine further testified that M. W. Guernsey threatened to arrest him for perjury if he testified against him at this trial. Devine is now engaged as a janitor of Guernsey hall, which is owned by the defendant.

NEGLIGENCE HIS BUSINESS.—F. W. Guard and Peter Egan, sales agents, employed by J. W. Guernsey at the same time as M. W. Guernsey, testified that M. W. Guernsey denied to his employer that he was in the livery business, when accused of it openly. They also gave testimony to show that the plaintiff neglected his employer's business to look after the livery.

Mrs. J. Doran, who bought a piano from the plaintiff, prior to his going into the defendant's employ, testified that the plaintiff had frequently called upon her to make collections. This was for the purpose of showing that the plaintiff was privately engaged in the very business he was expected to work at with all his time, talent and energy for J. W. Guernsey.

The last witness of the day was John Wilcox, of Rush, Susquehanna county. He was called by the plaintiff, in rebuttal, court permitting him to be called, out of order, so as to permit him to get home.

He swore positively that he went to the Guernsey store to see M. W. Guernsey, with whom he had been dicker for an organ; that he asked for "Mr. Guernsey," and when J. W. Guernsey appeared said to him, "No, I want to see the one that keeps the livery stable in Green Ridge; that J. W. Guernsey evidenced a full knowledge of whom was meant and assisted very willingly

"We, the undersigned jurors in this case, find and agree, after hearing the evidence, that there is no evidence on the part of any person or persons implicated or connected with it that there has been no criminal act or violence committed on the said child of Ann Silowski."

The jurors were: A. P. O'Donnell, Otto Myers, Finley Hoag, Jr., J. H. McCarthy, David Davis and John Thomas.

SLEUTHS EVIDENTLY WORKED OVERTIME

ACTIVITY OF THE GUERNSEY CASE DETECTIVES.

Each Side Trying to Bring Out That Witnesses Were Tampered with, Trial Was on Yesterday for Eight Hours and Will Likely Continue Into Next Week—Defense Striving to Prove That the Plaintiff Neglected His Employer's Business to Look After His Private Affairs.

For more than eight hours, yesterday, the defense in the case of M. W. Guernsey against J. W. Guernsey adduced testimony to substantiate the defendant's claim that he was justified in discharging the plaintiff and consequently not liable for the salary the plaintiff demands for the three years of the contract period that was yet to run. The session began at 8 o'clock in the morning and it was 6 o'clock p. m. when Judge Savidge ordered adjournment.

Twenty witnesses in all were examined. Most of the testimony related to the allegation that the plaintiff, in violation of his contract to devote all his time, talent and energy to the defendant's interests, conducted a livery business in Green Ridge, under another name and spent much of his time in its management. The plaintiff admits that he was interested in the livery, but claims his employer knew of it and sanctioned it.

T. F. Connell, who succeeded the plaintiff in the ownership of the livery, testified that he had a conversation with the plaintiff, in which the latter boasted of having a soft snap with J. W. Guernsey; that he received a salary of $250 a month, but that his work done by his brother, Will Guernsey, for $25 a month, and that before he got through with J. W. Guernsey he intended to ruin him.

He further said that M. W. Guernsey told him that he had put up a job to manufacture testimony and that he could prove anything he had a mind to, as he had men fixed and they would testify to anything he wanted to establish.

When J. W. Guernsey was being cross-examined by Mr. Newcomb, yesterday, he was questioned with a view of bringing out an admission that he would substantiate the charges of tampering with the two Bennett witnesses, as told at length in Wednesday's habeas corpus hearing, but Mr. Guernsey made positive and absolute denial of any such irregularity.

Bennett had informed the witness that the plaintiff was putting up a "black job" on him, which in effect was that they had induced Josie Bennett to agree to swear that J. W. Guernsey had frequently called upon her to induce Charles Bennett to change his testimony.

Richard Ross, who managed the "R. Ross & Co." livery stable for M. W. Guernsey, gave extended testimony tending to show that the plaintiff was actively engaged in the livery business and that he was anxious not to be known in the concern.

They also gave testimony to show that the plaintiff neglected his employer's business to look after the livery.

In helping the witness find M. W. Guernsey. The purpose in this was not only to rebut the defendant's statement that he did not know M. W. Guernsey was in the livery business, but also to corroborate the plaintiff's story regarding the livery stable feature of the case, which was to the effect that he had a private coachman, Richard Ross, who was a good hand at disposing of horses, and that he would bargain to take such horses as were traded in for pianos or organs, and have his man use them, or trade them, or sell them, as he thought best. The defendant, he claims, was not only cognizant of this, but actually was gratified with the idea.

The case will be resumed at 8 o'clock this morning. There is small chance of it being concluded today, and in all probability will continue over to next week.

Verdict for the Company. A verdict for the plaintiff was returned, yesterday afternoon, in the ejectment case of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company against Bryan Biglin. The jury was addressed by ex-Judge Jessup for the plaintiff at the opening of court, and then charged by Judge Edwards. They were out from 11 o'clock to 3 o'clock.

The land in dispute is a six and one-half acre plot in Dickson City, underlain with coal and valued at $8,000. Each side claims it primarily by squatter sovereignty. The plaintiff and its predecessors, it was claimed, have maintained continuous and adverse title for over half a century. The defendant held that he has been on the land for over thirty years. Both proved these claims quite conclusively, but the defendant could not disprove the allegation of the plaintiff that he or some one for him had at different times paid rent to the company or its successors.

A verdict for the defendant was directed in the case of Matthew Nicholson, of Plymouth, against Nathan Thompson, of Piquette. It was a suit on a judgment note given eighteen years ago by Thompson with Siva Baroccliffe as surety, to cover a coal account of $252. In 1888 a scire facias was issued to revive the judgment and when the case came to trial, yesterday, it was discovered that the alderman had directed the scire facias only against Thompson, when it should have been against both. Mr. Kelly, attorney for the defense, moved for binding instructions and court granted the motion. Mr. Hulslander, attorney for the plaintiff, will proceed to have the alderman correct his error.

TWO EXCELLENT MAPS. Prepared by Engineer Phillips Showing Pavements and Sewers. City Engineer Phillips has just prepared for issuance in connection with his annual report, which will soon be presented to councils, two maps showing all paved streets and sewers throughout the entire city. These are the first maps of the kind ever prepared in this city, and they reflect great credit upon Mr. Phillips' ability.

On the map showing the paved streets, each different kind of pave is represented by a different color so that one may see at a glance just where the paved streets are and just how they are paved. On the map showing sewers, the streets traversed are indicated by red lines. The maps are on a large scale and are very valuable to those interested in municipal affairs.

The Best in the World. We believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best in the world. A few weeks ago we suffered with a severe cold and a troublesome cough, and having read their advertisement in our own and other papers, we purchased a bottle to see how it would affect us. It cured us before the bottle was more than half used. It is the best medicine out for colds and coughs. The Herald, Andersonville, Ind. For sale by all druggists.
