The observance of Easter Sunday and the commemoration of Christ's resurrection from the dead was carried out in an unusually elaborate and appropriate manner in the different churches throughout this town. At the Methodist Episcopal church appropriate Easter music was rendered. In the morning at 10.15 o'clock the services were in charge of the Sunday school. An excellent programme, consisting of

L. H. SNYDER'S FUNERAL.

L. H. Snyder was buried Saturday afternoon. The casket was open for the friends of the deceased from 12 until 1.03 o'clock, and a large concourse of people who knew and cherished an acquaintance, took a last sad look on the form of him who was cut off so young from a busy and prosperous career. The services began at 2 o'clock, and were in charge of Rev. H. J. Whalen, assisted by Rev. W. B. Grow. There were many beautiful floral pieces, presents from those with whom deceased was associated while in life. The Mitchell Hose company, who attended the funeral in a body, presented an emblem of roses in the form of a broken wheel, bearing the letters "M. H. Co. 1." Another striking piece was presented by Mr. Thomas Durfee, whom Mr. Snyder succeeded in the livery business. The pallbearers were: Elmer Avery John O'Rourke, R. H. Revnolds, A. S. Lewsley, George C. Alvord both instances. and E. H. Smith. Interment was made in Brookside cemetery.

At about 11 o'clock yesterday morning, as the fireman was attending to his duties at the Ontario, he happened. to glance out of the doorway and was surprised to see smoke and flames shooting out of the screen room of the massive breaker. There was no one about the place. The fireman quickly sounded the alarm, and soon people were hurrying to the breaker. The first arrivals were company hands, and they quickly made their way to the screen room and attached a hose and did noble pany had responded to the alarm and

A CONGRESSIONAL PRESIDENT.

The training of President McKinley has been such that he certainly ought to be a congressional president. He was a member of the house of representatives for thirteen years, during which he rose to the position of leader of his party and took part in much of the most important legislation. Here he learned to understand the real motives of the average congressman, and to appreciate the fact that many of his fellow members were men of marked ability, and that most were men of honesty. Here he watched with impatience the non-congressional attitude of Cleveland. Here he became the acquaintance or friend of Republicans and Democrats who were later to support or oppose the policies of his administration. Here he acquired an intimate knowledge of the working of the entire governmental machine. President McKinley is at once a partisan and a peace-maker. He has settled many party quarrels, and is said never to have been a participant in any. At times he has shown a loyalty to others almost too altruistic to seem credible in political life. The most notable instance was in 1888, when the Ohio delegation went to the national Republican convention pledged for Sherman. There were several candidates and the contest was prolonged. The delegates were becoming weary. There was an admirable chance for a dark horse. When it came to the sixth ballot some one voted for William McKinley. The delegates cheered. The state following gave him seventeen votes. It looked like Mc-

England First, Holland Second in East Indian Possessions.

Arthur I Street, in Ainslee's. "The Pacific ocean, westward of Hawaii, and the Marquesas is like a federation of European nations on Asiatic soil, united by the free commerce of the seas. The nations vary in size, strength and importance, as the states of Europe or of the American Union. Great Britain commands the field with a landed area of nearly three million and a quarter square miles. Poor Spain's once magnificent empire is shrunk to less than fifty square miles a smaller total than belongs to black King George of the Tongas. Holland, the dountry from which emanated the doughty Boers, owns over 735,000 square miles, settled with nearly eight times as many people as inhabit the larger area owned by Great Britain. Germany, the new civilizer among nations has dominance over more than 100,000
