Appeal in the Peter Garvey Case Quashed-Judgment Affirmed in the Cases of McHale Against Throop Borough, and Winans Against Bunnell, and Reversed in the Cases of James Manley Heirs Against City of Scranton and Guernsey Against Froude.

HANDED DOWN BY SUPERIOR

COURT AT PITTSBURG.

DECISIONS IN FIVE

Decisions were given by the superfor court, in Pittsburg, Monday, in five Lackawanna cases, as follows. Appeal of heirs of Peter Garvey, appeal quashed: Thomas McHale against borough, judgment affirmed; James Manley heirs against the city of Scranton, judgment reversed; Geo. Winans against L. M. Bunnell, judgment affirmed; J. W. Guernsey against W. C. Froude and Mrs. Willlam Froude, judgment reversed.

The appeal in the Garvey estate was made by the three children. Martin Garvey, Bridget Garvey and Mary Ann Dolphin. They asked to have cour set aside a sale of their father's rea estate, by which it was transferred to elatives of their mother for $800. They claim the property was worth $3,000. The ground on which the petition was based was that no notice was given them, the next of kin, of the petition for the sale, or of any proceeding had under this petition. The local court refused to set aside the sale and the superior court now sustains this action. In the case of Thomas McHale igainst Throop borough the question at issue was the liability of a munici-pality for damage resulting from a lefective fire hydrant. Some time in October, 1896 a wagon collided with the fire hydrant in front of McHale's breaking the standpipe, premises. where it is joined to the water main. An excavation was made by some workmen, under the direction of a councilman, to discover the nature of the break. The trench which was dug left a depression on the surface after it was filled in, and before the broken hydrant was replaced the water from the break in the pipe forced its way through the ground, and following the depression above referred to, found its way into McHale's lot. He sued for damages and was awarded a verdict of $200 in a trial before Judge Searle. The borough appealed, but the superior court affirmed the finding of the lower

CONTENTION OF DEFENSE.

The contention of the defense was that there was no duty devolving upon the borough to provide fire hydrants, and that "where there is no duty there is no negligence," or if there was such a duty it was purely governmental and public and "Its exercise is not hampered by the common rule of responsibility to individuals." For instance a city is not liable for injuries that would result to a person who would be knocked down by a fire engine going to a fire. As to the action of the councilman in digging the trench which contributed to the turning of the water upon McHale's property, the defense maintained that in the first corporate capacity, a municipal cor-poration is not liable for the acts of its appointees or officers. I. H. Burns and J. J. O'Malley appeared for McHale, and Vosburg & Dawson for the borough.

By the decision in the case of Manley against the city, the Manley estate escapes a $485.90 Hen for asphalt paying in front of 1311 North Washington avenue. James Manley, the owner of the property, died June 13, 1891. The sheriff's service of the writ of scire facias on the municipal lien was made Sept. 28, 1892. The return set forth that the service was made on James Manley. This, of course, was Impossible as Manley had been dead fifteen months. It was also shown the service, if made at all, was not made ten days prior to the return day, as required by law.

After the death of Mrs. Manley, in 1897, M. J. Kelly, guardian of the children, discovered the judgment on record, and on January 9, 1899, secured a rule to strike off the return and judgment. When court came to dispose of the rule, it decided that as there was no suggestion of any defense on the merits of the case, and as the parties had allowed six years to clapse before attacking the scire facias, the judgment should not be disturbed. "The parties concerned have been guilty of great laches," the court said. This decision the Superior court reverses, Thomas P. Duffy and Richard J. Bourke represented the appellants, WINANS CASE.

The case of George G. Winans against L. M. Bunnell involves the question of modifying a written agreement by parole. Bunnell had a promising gold mine in New Hampshire. Winans had to the effect that Winans should pay the expense of developing the mine and was developed, but it proved to be devoid of paying dirt. Bunnell expended $1,500 of Winans' money in the developing process. Winans sued to recover $1,000, alleging that they had agreed verbally after the written agreement had been signed that Winans' liability should be limited to $500. The rest of the $1,500 was advanced with the understanding that Bunnell would refund it. Bunnell denied the parole agreement and contended that at all events the written agreement could not be altered by a parol agreement. Winans in answer to this held that he did not attempt to contradict, vary or alter the terms of the written contract. He merely set up a collateral parol agreement, he averred, regulating a detail of the performance of the terms of a writing; he simply sought to limit the amount of the expenses

A jury found in favor of the defendant, and the Superior court affirms that finding. John R. Edwards and C. Comegys were Mr. Winans' attorneys. The desire of the defendant to be released from a contract for the purchase of a $250 plano was responsible for the case of Guernsey against Froude. Froude lives in Nicholson. He purchased the piano on a contract containing a confession of judgment. He wanted after a time to have the contract rescinded, but Mr. Guernsey de-clined. Froude went into court and made an allegation that the agent had represented to him and his wife that the contract judgment would be a lien on the plane only and not against their real estate. Froude and his wife also testified to certain alleged improper alterations in the contract. LACKAWANNA CASES The jury found in favor of the defendant and an appeal was taken. The judgment of the lower court was reversed. Vosburg & Dawson and John F. Scragg appeared for the appellant

> KILLED ON THE RAILROAD. Daniel Farrell Run Down by a D. &

H. Train at Throop. Daniel Farrell, aged 27 years, was killed on the Dsjaware and Hudson railroad at Throop, at 10.15 o'clock Monday night, while returning home on the railroad track. He had been with a number of companions, and shortly before the accident occurred left his associates, who wanted him to attend a dance in the borough, saying that he was tired and wanted to go home

The accident occurred about 300 feet from the crossing, and Farrell was alone at the time. The remains were picked up by the train crew and carried to the home of his father, with whom the young man resided.

Coroner Roberts was notified and neld an autopsy yesterday afternoon. He found that the man had sustained compound fracture of the skull and feemed an inquest unnecessary.

ANNUAL EXHIBITION.

Given by the Pupils of the Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium in High School Auditorium Last Night.

The Young Women's Christian association gave its annual gymnastic exhibition last night in the High school auditorium and it is not too much to say that it was by far the finest entertainment of the sort and the most convincing argument for physical culture ever presented in this city. Miss Maud M. Mickle, who has been instrucfor for the past two years, deserves unbounded praise for her success in achieving the results evident last night. She teaches the American system of gymnastics, which, while it combines the best features of other schools, is not as severe as the Swedish alone. It leads to more complete results in physical upbuilding than the Delsartean methods unaided. She had nearly sixty pupils in the various drills, and they did their work well indeed. The hoop drill by the young ladies class was the prettiest thing imagin-The sixteen all wore white frocks and carried huge hoops wreathed in flowers. The effect was inde-scribably beautiful. This class also gave a most attractive marching drill with intricate evolutions. The children's class was one of the most effective in its graceful drill with the bar bells, and in the charming May pole march. The misses' class showed great proficiency, and the South Side class, which has been under instructions but a short time, did excellent work, as did also the evening class in the anvil chorus The comedians of the affair were the little boys who went through with a leap frog drill in a very funny fashion, all but one suppressing a perfectly reasonable desire to punch his neighbor whenever there was a full in the proceedings. They received unlimited applause. The flag drill, which closed the programme was beautiful and effective.

The orchestra furnished fine music and Miss Edna B. Judd was a careful accompanist for the drills. The following constitute the class member-

M'HUGH-CAMPBELL WEDDING. Took Place at St. Peter's Cathedral Yesterday Morning.

Peter's cathedral was, yesterday morning, the scene of a most delightful wedding, when A. J. McHugh, of New York city, was united in wedlock to Miss Mary L. Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Campbell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. J. MacGoldrick.

The bride presented a most fascinating appearance as she came down the aisle, leaning on her father's arm. She wore a handsome grey travelling costume, and the bridesmaid. Miss Maud McHugh, of Peckville, a sister of the groom, was similarly gowned. The groom was attended by George N. Campbell, brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception and dinner were given at the nome of the bride's parents. THE TWENTIETH RECITAL. Given by Pupils of Conservatory in Guernsey Hall.

The Conservatory of Music gave its twentieth recital last night, and, as usual, Guernsey hall was filled to overflowing. It was a beautiful programme, exceeding in attractiveness almost any yet provided by Mr. Pennington. A feature of the evening was the first movement of the Haydn Concerto in D major, by Miss Marian Hutchinson, with orchestral accom-paniment, or second piano by Mr. Pennington. Miss Grace Spencer sang the solos with her accustomed taste and sweetness of tone. Ralph Williams also gave two fine solos. Miss Mildred Howe received much appreciative applause for her recitations. The piano numbers were well rendered by the following: Miss Romaine Bronson, of Dunmore; Misses Hattie Kline, Grace Browning, Emma Bone, Louise Slocum, of Carbondale; Wagenhurst, Gerlock, Follansbee and Hutchinson, and Mr. Wilkins. ensemble work was most pleasing in
