Sunsets, a strong amateur nine, and for several innings indulged in a hard, lively practice. Fer-guson, Sheffler and Knox accepted the few chances offered them in the outfield, but the infielders had hardly any work to do, the battery disposing of most of the batsmen. At the bat the Scranion players proved stronger than in any practice game during the week. McIntyre, the big first-base-man, led with a triple, a double and two singles out of four times at the bat. His three-bagger was a terrific drive to deep left, which, if he had sprinted a little faster he could easily have stretched into a home run. J. J. O'Brien, the short-stop, also laced the ball out in fine style and made the first home run of the practice games, by hitting the ball to deep lett. Base Ball Brevities.

ALL MY experience as a base l til umpire," said George W. Ea.num, who was here Thursday as at ge manager of "The Girl in the Farracks" company, and who was formerly one of the best known umpires in the country, "the funniest happening I ever saw on a diamond occurred way back-or, it must have been in the latter part of the '80s at St. Louis,

There was a hot game on between St. Louis, and I think it was Boston. It was tight all the way through, and the ninth inning was a tie. It continued so until the eleventh. Boston had the outs and were at the bat. It was beginning to get a little dusky and the crowd began to yell at me to call the game on account of darkness, parricularly as the St. Louis pitcher was beginning to weaken. Well, I thought it was light enough to play and I said so, briefly and emphatically. The St. Louis players crowded around me, trying to get me went. the funny incident. Arlie Latham was playing third base at that time on the St. Louis team, and he trotted out on the field sorrowfully. Before going to third he visited each of the other bases and at each placed a candle, which he drew from his pocket. He lighted them. a M then taking his stand at third yelled 'Play ball!"

"It was one of the most comical things that the diamond humorist ever did, and for a while I laughed so that I couldn't order the game to go on." Josh Clarke, a brother of Fred Clarke, the great outfielder now with Pittsburg, is playing in the Rochester outfield and is showing up in great form. He is a fast outfielder, a good batsman and clever on the bases.

The Reading Atlantic League team took its first practice Wednesday when it lined up against the Reading Browns, the crack amateur nine of Berks county. The professionals won by a score of 5-4. They fielded well, a misplay by Tate in left field being the only error charged against thm. At the bat the men showed up far from strongly, only making seven hits, of which Beaumont, the first baseman. alone had three.

The make-up of the Athletics seem to be the strongest of any announced so far. Manager Dick Cooley will play center field and captain the team and among the other crackerjack players on the nine are Catcher Jacklitzch, last year the star Montreal backstop; Second Baseman Ziegler, the clever youngster who created such a favoraimpression by his practice work with the Phillies; Left Fielder Fleming, last year with New York; Shoch, former Brooklyn infielder, and Pitchers Conn. The success of the new play, "Lord Byron," which is being presented by James Young and an excellent company of players is to some extent a success of spectacle. From beginning to end the stage is a blaze of perfectly harmonized color, and the period to which the play be longs, and the fact that two scenes are laid in Maytair, London, and two in Greece-whither Byron went to fight for the freedom of the Greeks-gives great scope for costuming, which Mr. Young has not neglected to selze.

In spite of the many cynical epigrams hurled at the heads of the gentler sex in Mr. Young's new play of "Lord Byron," it is a play that the women will enjoy. There are beautiful interior and outdoor scenes, love-making, pretty women in pretty gowns, and Lord Byron, Tom Moore, Lord Delaven, Lord Jersey and Sir Charles Lamb moving about among them. There is inlamo moving anoth among tends. There is not trigue, jealousy, love and hate, music, moon-light and mischiof. The scenery used in Mr. Young's production was painted by the scenic artist of the late Augustin Daly. "Liliputians in Fairyland." Rehearsnis for this pretty operetta are pro-
