THE RACE IS NOW ON.

Between Ordinances Introduced Messrs. Roche and Morris.

The race between the two rival or dinances introduced by Select Councilman Roche and Common Councilman M. V. Morris is now on in earnest, Mr. Morris' ordinance provides for the appointment of two permanent men for the Niagara and Liberty Hose companies, and takes the money for the payment of the same out of the appropriation of $1,500 for clerk hire in the controller's department which was recently vetoed by the mayor.

Mr. Roche's ordinance re-appropriates the item of $1,500 for clerk hire. Mr. Morris' ordinance was reported favorably upon by the fire committee last Thursday night and passed two readings. He will call it up for third reading at next Thursday night's meeting and if it passes will send it over to select. The select ordinance is now in the hands of the estimates committee of that branch, who will report favorably upon it next Thursday night. Mr. Roche will then call it up for first and second readings. The idea seems to prevail that both measures will pass the branch in which they were introduced, and that the select measure will be killed in common and the common measure killed in select. In the meantime 'th controller's department is getting along without any clerk hire, but Controller Howell isn't worrying and says he will get it in some manner yet.

A Pretty Booklet.

The passenger department of the Chicago and Northwestern railway has recently issued a little brochure de-scribing scenes along the route of the electric lighted Northwestern limited, which is an artistic gem. ORGANIZATION DEFERRED

Officers of C. Y. W. C. to Be Elected Next Week.

Over one hundred Catholic young omen gathered last evening at 6.30 o'clock in the remodeled house on Washington avenue, which will be used as a club house for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization of the Catholic Young Women's club. It was deemed prudent, however, by Rt. Rev. Bishop Hoban, who was present, to defer the organization until next Wednesday night, that more young women might become interested.

The club rooms are now almost completely furnished, carpets and furniture having been secured for all the rooms, and the dining room will be opened tonight for the first time at 6 o'clock, when supper will be served for the benefit of all young women who may have to work during the evening. The club house will be open for the inspection of the general public next Monday. Pending the election of the permanent officers, the temporary ones recently appointed will act.

The donations received to date far exceed the most sanguine expectations of those who have had the establishment of the club in charge, Bishop Hoban feeling especially clated. That there was an urgent necessity for such an organization and such a building is generally admitted, and there is no doubt but that the new club will completely fill the need.

LARGE TENEMENT DAMAGED BY FIRE

IT IS THE PROPERTY OF D. K. OAKLEY.

Located at Franklin Avenue and Linden Street and Occupied by a Number of Families-Various Reasons Are Given for the Origin of the Fire, but Is Supposed to Have Started in an Unused Dumb Waiter, Losses That Were Sustained by the Owner and Tenants.

The three-story tenement house at the corner of Linden street and Franklin avenue, owned by D. K. Oakley, of West Scranton, and occupied by a number of families, was badly damaged by fire yesterday morning, the third floor being entirely destroyed by the flames, while the first and second floors were badly damaged by water. Mr. Oakley carried $3,000 insurance and suffers a loss of about $2,009. while the total loss of the tenants is very large, as hardly any insurance was carried. The following are the parties who occupied the building. On the first floor-Barnet Finkelstein, grocery and residence: Joseph McMullen and Isadore Muscat, resi Second floor-Joseph Finkelstein tailor; Abraham Rosenblume, Jennie

Ross and Mrs. Pearlman, Mr. and Mrs Grant Ross, dwelling apartments, Third floor-Mrs. Eate Johnson, widow, lived in the front of the buildng: Frank H. Young, in the central part, and Philip Zang in the rear, and Miss Mary Brown.

Various reasons are given for the cause of the fire. Some think it due to an overheated chimney, the heat from which set on fire some papers stored in a corner nearby, while others suppose it started in a dumbwaiter shaft, which was constructed but was never used. It is believed to have originated there and to have worked its way up to the cupola of

LOST THEIR ALL.

Several families occupied the third floor and lost all their property, as a result of the fire, none of which was insured. Mrs. Johnson, a widow, who occupied four rooms, lost all her furniture, clothing, etc., and only saved her jewelry and a small amount of calculated to bring out the good we

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, who oc cupied four rooms on this floor, suffered losses, estimated at $500. Miss Mary Brown, who also had rooms on the third floor, had all her household goods padly damaged.

The fire was discovered about 9.30 o'clock by Mrs. Young, who found her room filled with smoke and saw the flames breaking through the old dumbwaiter.

Mrs. James Twiss, a neighbor, who was watering some plants on the top of her house, saw the flames at the same time and the Nay Aug Hose company, whose quarters are near by,

was immediately notified. There was considerable delay in finding a key for the alarm box and as a result the fire had gained good headway before the other companies could respond. The alarm was at last given from Box 23, and when the Crystals, pany arrived the third floor of the building was a crackling, swirling mass of flame.

FLAMES UNDER CONTROL.

The chemical engines of the several companies were brought into service and extra efforts made to prevent the flames from spreading and a general conflagration taking place. When the flames were at last under control it and second floors had suffered only from the water, the fire not having touched them.

On the second floor, Abraham Rosenbaum, proprietor of the New York Suit and Cloak house, resided, and had large portion of his effects destroyed. Two of his children are sick with the scarlet fever, and were removed to place of safety. The rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ross were badly water soaked, as were also the apart ments of Mr. and Mrs. Pearlman. B. Finkelstein's grocery store and Isadore Muscat's apartments on the first floor were water soaked, but each carried $400 insurance. Chief of Police Robling, assisted by Mounted Officers Block and Burke, kept in check the crowd of spectators who gathered, watching the firemen fighting the

ADDRESS OF REV. ATWOOD

Is the General Superintendent of the Universalist Church in This Country-Theme of His Talk.

Rev. I. M. Atwood, of New York city, general superintendent of the Universalist church in this country, preached a most excellent sermon before a large congregation last night in the Al Souls' Universalist church. He spoke upon the fundamental doctrine of the Universalist denomination, which is universal love. Among other things he said:

"The law of Christ is love, but there are various expressions of love. There at the time of the building's erection, is the expression of friendship, for instance, that affinity between two persons having a uniformity of desire and a unity of aim, and which softens the rudeness and roughness of life. Then there is the friendship of the sexes. which is an ordinance of God. The love of Christ, however, is that expression of love that makes us choose the good in our neighbor and that makes us follow that choice with a course of conduct on our own part have chosen for our neighbor.

"In this connection we must under stand that our neighbor means every human being in the world and that there must be no drawing of lines. Artemus Ward once said, when told that this principle was the basic principle of Universalism, 'That's all right, but I'd like to pick my man.' There is too much of a similar sentiment prevalent today. We may find it hard to choose the best good for some people, but we must without respect to their previous merits or demerits. "Some few weeks ago I heard Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbot take three-quarters of an hour to tell why he was not a Universalist, and as I sat and listened to him I thought in how much shorter time I could tell why I am a Universalist. The reason I am a Universalist is simply because I believe that God is a Universalist and if He were not I would not dare to be. How do I Neptune Engine company, Hook and Ladder, No. 1, and the Phoenix comlem in mathematics. "God is a Universalist because He chooses the highest good for every human soul. He doesn't choose evil for any soul, but good for all. There comes a time in the life of every human being who, when all the man being who, when all the evil —as it was called—and guaranteed the pleasures of life have been tasted and Moros all the usual rights and religious experienced, finds that the path ends and that further passage is impossible. As he cannot go further there is was seen that the parties on the first nothing for him to do but to turn and enter his Father's house, as did the prodigal son. I am a Universalist because Universalism teaches me to good of every human soul.

AN AMERICAN SULTAN.

How Uncle Sam Took a Sultan Under the Flag.

Oscar King Davis in Ainslee's, "The sultan of Sulu is a young man but he gives the impression of knowing what he is about and just what he wants. His head is rather large and well shaped. His skin is the color of old copper that has been polished. His eyes are well apart, but he has a trick of drooping the lids that makes him look sleepy and indifferent. He has a good firm jaw and chin, with a medium-sized straight nose. He wore on his head a fez which started red, but after a while he took off an outer covering and it was white. As far as waistcoat and trousers were concerned, he was in correct evening dress. His coat was a gorgeous creation in cornyellow silk that came clear to his heels and had long flowing sleeves. His feet were shod with patent leathers. Two of the three Datos were in regulation Moro dress, the other wore trousers white checked flannel blazer. All the Datos carried large knives and chewed betel nut. "Business began immediately with the reading of the draft of the agree ment proposed by the Americans. I was modeled on the old Spanish treaty freedom, except that General Bates made it very distinct that juramentadoism would not be tolerated. It provided also that our flag must be flown, that we should occupy such places as we saw fit for military purposes, that we would continue the sultan's pay for choose what is the highest and real ruling his people, and that we would not sell or dispose of the islands without knowledge and consent of the sultan. The agrement had been done in their language by Mr. Schuck, the interpreter, and the secretary read it. while the sultan turned his back on his followers and looked bored to death. "Objection arose at once, when discussion began, to the provision that our flag should be flown. In 1898, when the Spanish were too busy with us to pay attention to the sultan, he went to Mecca flying his own flag, contrary to his agreement with the Spanish, and Therefore, he could not see why he should not fly his own flag whenever he went abroad. The fact that that was a practical denial of our sovereignty and forfeited our protection did not appeal to him, in view of his experience. The argument went around in a ring for a few minutes, and then the general sugested that as they were not reaching a conclusion they should go on to something else. The Moros objected to the occupation for military purposes without specific permission of the sultan. It developed that that was because they thought the land was to be taken without payment. When he found out that he would get mone for it he yielded so readily as to create the impression that he wished we would ocupy his whole dominion a

> "There was a provision about slavery which had given the general some anxiety. He was afraid that the Moros would object to his plan for the purchase of freedom on the ground that it would terminate slavery, which was exactly what he was aiming to do. They did object to the clause, but not on that ground. He had fixed an upset price which they thought was too high. With great show of deliberation, the general consented that it should be reduced. It was a great victory for

Moro diplomacy. THE CANNY SULTAN.

"The secretary did most of the talk ing for the Moros, but the sleepy and bored sultan knew very well what he was saying. Two or three times when the sultan looked as if he were about to sing, 'There Is a Green Hill Far Away,' he cut into the discussion with sudden directness that showed how closely he followed everything that was said. The three Datos made a few speeches, which all those who understood them received with absolute impassivity. Twice they asked Kalvi for his opinion. He volunteered nothing, but when asked he made a talk which evidently did not suit. None of the discussion among themselves was interpreted, so that the Americans could tell only by appearances what was going on.

"The followers of the Datos got tired of all the talk after awhile, and strolled out into the yard to look at the guards and talk it all over. Kalvi's men went. too, and finally Kalvi went. Soon afterward there was a commotion in the yard. The instant thought of every American there was the same—the bad blood between Kalvi and the sultan had found expression in a fight of their men. The three Datos with the sultar jumped out of their chairs and rushed out of the room, clutching at their big knives as they went. It was a nervous minute, and we wished that we had not given such a remarkable evidence of our confidence in the Moros as to bring the four ladies with us. But whatever he thought, no American gave any sign that he was in the least disturbed. General Bates gave one sharp look down the line of his little party, and saw everybody at least outwardly calm. The ladies were as cool as the men. The general's eyes snapped. and that was all. In another minus word came from below that the guard had arrested a man. That was the end of it. Kalvi came back and sat down. His men trooped in again, Sweet peace brooded over us once more,"
