EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

WHEELMEN'S MINSTRELS WILL BE A GREAT TREAT.

Private Rehearsal in the Club House Last Evening Was a Revelation to Those Who Were Privileged to Hear It-Second Performance of Kalos Plegan Witnessed by Hundreds of People-Death of T. Cilcenin Evans, the Famous Welsh Bard-Other News Notes.

The writer witnessed a private re hearsal of the Wheelmen's minstrels last evening, which will be given in Mears' hall next Thursday evening, and If the performance can be taken as a criterion of what may be exocated on May 3, the public will certainly be surprised and pleased beyond expectation, The music, choruses, solos, jokes and specialties are first-class and worthy of the best criticism that can be made. Probably the most surprising num-bers to be offered will be the solos by Emrys Joseph, Fred Weinss, Charles Bertine, Sam Lewis, David Jones, Albert Davis Charles Storms, Gus Weinss. David Owens and Will Williams. All of these boys sing with much ease and grace, and their selections are popular, catchy and tuneful. The E. C. W. quartette have a corking good number, which is bound to make a hit.

There will be ten end men, the bones being manipulated by Messrs. Wilttams, Bertine, Fred and Gus Weiner and Lester Morse, and the tambos will be played by Messrs, Owens, Teets, Davis, Joseph and Ed. Morse. Renssaler W. Luce is the interlocutor, and Professor Ott, of the Lawrence orchestra, is the musical director.

Among the specialties will be Walsh and McDonough, clog dancers; Albert Henne, parallel bar performer; Florey's cattyphone and funnygraph, and other Rehearsals will be held continuously from now on until the performance, and the boys expect to give the best amateur minstrel show ever offered by local talent in this city.

KALOS PLEGAN REPEATED. The second performance of Kalos Plegan was given with more smoothness and dispatch last evening, and standing room was at a premium. Before the curtain arose it was necessary to stop selling tickets, and many were unable to gain access to the hall The performance must be given again, of witnessing the production. The Viviandlers and Minute Men scored another hit last night and their drilling was pronounced the best on the programme. The stage decorations

The orchestral numbers were choice selections, and each member is an artist in his particular line. Their work added much sprightliness to the performance. Miss Clara Sanders, the accompanist, deserves much credit for her untiring energy in making the performance the success it proved to be, and the paster and officers of the school desire to publicly express their thanks to all who in any way contributed to the success of such a stupendous undertaking.

The performance will undoubtedly be given ugain, the date to be announced later in the newspapers.

T. CILCENIN EVANS DEAD.

One of the best known and most popular bards in the Lackawanna valle, passed away yesterday in the person of T. Cilcenin Evans, who died at his home, 156 South Bromley avenue, after an illness of seven months' duration. Deceased formerly conducted the Pacific hotel on Penn avenue and the Mechanics hotel on North Main avenue, but of late years was engaged as a blacksmith by the Dickson Manufacturing company.

Mr. Evans was born in Cilcenta-South Wales, and was 61 years of age. Previous to his coming to America he became prominent in eisteddfodic circles and won many prizes for his meritorius compositions. Since his residence here he also distinguished himself in many competition. At the World's fair in Chicago in 893 "Cilcenin" was ordained as a bard, according to the rules and customs of the bardic circle of Wales.

He is survived by his wife, one son and one daughter, Allen Evans and Mrs. Craig. The funeral services will as several hundred tickets have been sold and the purchasers are desirous be conducted at the house Monday morning by Rev. T. C. Edwards, of Kingston; Rev. D. P. Jones and Rev. David Jones, of the Welsh Congregational churches. The remains will be taken to Nanticoke on the 1.55 p. m. train, and Rev. Mr. Thomas will have charge of the services there. Interment will be made in the Nanticoke

SOUTH SCRANTON NOTES.

Funeral of the Late Justus Fruehan Held Yesterday-Other News and Personal Notes.

The funeral of the late Justus Fruehan took place from the family residence on Hickory street yesterday afternoon. The house was early thronged with the numerous relatives and friends of the deceased, who came to take a last sad look at the features of the young man, whose promising young life so early came to an end. Rev. William A. Nordt, pastor of the Hickory Street Presbyter an church, conducted funeral services at the house and delivered an eloquent funeral sermon. Rev. Nordt spoke of the promlsing future of the man, of his many noble traits, and spoke words of consolation to the bereaved parents and the brothers and sisters of the deceased. At the conclusion of the funeral services a double quartette of the Junger Maennorchor, which was composed of the following members, Gust Repert, William Berghauser. Fred Herman, Otto J. Robinson Peter Zang. William Ziesmer and Charles G. Lewert, sang a selection. The casket was then closed and borne to the funeral car, and the funeral procession then moved to the Pittston Avenue cemetery, where the remains were lowered to their last resting place, after the quartette had endered another selection. The funeral was attended by the Junger Sterling, of South Main avenue, ran Maennerchor as follows: William away on Thursday and the wagon and Ziesmer, George Wirth, John Ziesmer, Fred Schunk, William Fickus and Adam Fruechtel. The numerous floral pieces were carried by the following: Alfred Gutheinz, Charles G. Lewert, William Berghauser, Joseph Zang. WILLIAM WINTER'S COPY.

From the Saturday Evening Post.

William Winter, the dean of the dramaticritics of New York and the poet and essayist outhful. He belongs to the old school-the school of Greeley, George Ripley, Bronson How-ard and Conden-and, until recently, he always climbed the stairs to the Tribune editorial rooms instead of using the elevator. But one night, which was colder and dermier than usual, he rode up on the elevator and put his copy or the desk. Ins handwriting is noat, but almost undecap-crable to the ordinary man.

That very night a new man was reading copy a fresh young man just out of college—who did not know Mr. Winter's copy went direct from the man who received it to the printer who put it in type, and that it was only read in proof and in the paper. No one had told him that with Mr. Winter's copy corrections were sacrilege and criticisms rank blasphemy. So, in his ignorance, he began to transcribe and edit the hieroglyphics. At a quarter to one o'clock the night editor, full of trouble and anxiety and looking for this identical copy came across the young man at his task

"I have been waiting for that just one hour, "Well, you will have to wait another hour. I was not employed to translate. I have struck a sentence in this copy that paralyzes the English language, and I will straighten it out if I—" "The sentence you struck," returned the night editor as he lifted up the éupy and started with it upstairs, "will be in the managing editor's plainest English, and you will receive it tomorrow, unless I am mistaken."
