SCHOOL BOARD WINS IN BOTH INSTANCES

TWO IMPORTANT DECISIONS BY THE SUPREME COURT.

Board of Twenty-one Is Declared the Legal Body to Conduct the Affairs of the School District and the City Controller Is Compelled to Supervise the School District Accounts Without Remuneration Other Than That Allowed Him by Councils-Act of 1874 Declared

The board of twenty-one school controllers triumph over the board of six and further it can require the city controller to act as its auditor without pay.

Such was the decision of the supreme court, yesterday, when it reversed the lower court in the two board cases: Commonwealth John R. Jones, district attorney of Lackawanna county, appellee, against George H. Shires and others. appellants, and commonwealth ex rel. Frank Washburn and others, appellants, against Esdras Howell, controller of the city of Scranton, appellee. In the first case, it was attempted to oust the board of twenty-one or the ground that the act of 1874, under which it was organized was unconstitutional in that its title was defective, and further that it was special legislation. The second case was brought to test the city controller's right to compensation for supervising the acounts of the school board.

The local court decided against the board of twenty-one by declaring the act of 1874 unconstitutional, and sustained the contention of City Controller Howell that he could not be required to act as school district auditor without compensation. In both instances the supreme court took the opposite view

The attempt to oust the board of twenty-one was instigated by John Jermyn, Nov. 15, 1897, when through the district attorney, as specified by the law, he had Attorney L. H. Burns petition for a quo warranto to compel them to show by what right they held their offices.

JUDGMENT AGAINST BOARD. The case went through the usual stages, and on March 14, 1898, Judge Archbald entered judgment against the board of twenty-one, holding that the act of May 23, 1874, under which they organized was unconstitutional because it contained more than one subject and was local and class legis.

lation, in that it legislated for cities of the third class to the exclusion of all other municipalities.

A board of six had been elected under the provisions of the old Act of several jurors, Coroner Roberts was unable last der the provisions of the old Act of night to hold the inquest in the case of James 1851, which legislated for all school O'Boyle, who attempted to kill his wife and districts anke, but they had not shown then killed himself at their bearding house on Franklin avenue, three weeks ago. Another attempt to hold the inquest will be made at 4 was made subject to further order of was made subject to further order of

To guard against the execution of the judgment, the board of twenty-one applied for and secured from the suridge at Nay Aug park on Sunday and broke preme court a writ of supersedeas, is left leg just above the knee besides sustant staying all proceedings till an appeal could be taken and adjudicated.

The appeal was duly taken, and in injuries were dressed by Drs. Spitzer and Reedy. February, 1899, during Lackawanna week, the case was argued before the supreme court, D. J. Reedy, the school district solicitor, representing the board of twenty-one, and I. H. Burns, the relator, which by this time was

Justice Williams' death left the Supreme bench with six members and they became deadlocked on the question, three favoring the board of twenty-one and three the board of six. Chief Justice Sterritt retired January iven a hearing in police court Friday, and t. 1900, and the two vacancies were ommitted to the county jail for drunkenness. filled by the election of Justices Brown and Mestrezat. The bench now having a full representation, the question was once more taken up. For the benefit of the new justices a reargument was ordered, and it took place January 30, last. After another delay of a quarter of a year, the Supreme justices finally reached a decision, and when they resumed their sessions yesterday in Philadelphia, made it known.

THE LAST ARGUMENT.

At the last argument six attorneys were heard, three on either side. itled "An act to amend the forty-firs section of the Act of May 23, 1824, etc., in respect to the representation in boards of school controllers therein provided for."

Under the ruling that "an unconstitutional statute may be amended into a constitutional one by removing the objectionable features," it was contended by the board of twenty-one that this Act of 1891 removed the objection made to the title of the Act of 1874. The matter was ably discussed in the opinion by Judge Archbald, which is given in substance below: JUDGE ARCHBALD'S OPINION.

"The only provision in the law for board of school controllers in citics of the third class, organized as are the respondents (one from each ward). is that which appears in Section 41 of the Act of May 23, 1874, amended June 16, 1891. The validity of this provision is assailed upon the ground ter of Abraham Hanawalt, a well-tothat it offends against the constitution, do business man of Monticello, Ind. and, after a careful consideration of She came to this city in of the question. "It is there said by Mr. Justice Wit-'School districts are by no means municipal offices. They are not Tried to Enter Wrong House and invested with any of the municipal powers, nor are they charged with the performence of municipal functions." "It was accordingly held, in that case, that school districts in cities of the second class could not be specially legislated for, the classification of cities for the purpose of municipal legislation being confined to that which

s such in fact, and not in name mere-"This brings us to the further objection that this provision of the statutes falls under the ban of special legislation prohibited by the constitu-* * * * Granting that school districts in cities might be taken as a class sufficiently distinct in their needs to obtain special appropriate legislation, what ground is there for the still further division of them according to is fully answered in Chalfant against

What is there, for instance, that would apply to schools or school affairs in Scranton (third class) that would not equally apply in Philadelphia (first class)

Pittsburg (second class)?

FURTHER DIVISION. If that be so, even though there might be legislation for school districts in the cities of the state taken as a whole tas distinguished from boroughs and townships), there could be no further separation of them into subclasses with provisions for one district from the provisions for another.

Now, that is just what the Act of 1874 in Ecctions 41 to 44 inclusive, undertakes to do. It is also just what attempted in the Act of July 1895, which the Supreme court, in Chalfant against Edwards, declare could not be done. In the face of that de cision, there is no possibility of sustaining these sections of the statute and they must full. "Without further amplification, it is evident the respondents show no title to the offices they hold, and must give place to those who can. The time that the present condition of things has continued has nothing to do with the question. The whole inquiry is as to the right of the respondents to their f indebtedness and the creation of a present offices and upon that we are compelled to decide against them."

Just what controlled the supreme court in its decision will not be known till the opinion is received. The supposition is that it was in no small measure influenced by the point se strongly dwelt upon by the board of wenty-one, that it had been conducting the affairs of the district since 1878 without a question being raised as to its right to do so, and that the commonwealth was guilty of great laches in waiting to this late day to raise this question. The members of the board of six, whose elections are now made vain are: John Courier Morris, E. D. Fellows, George Shires, Peter Neuls, C. Ferber and the late D. I. Phillips D. J. Davis, assistant city solicitor, was to have been the solicitor of the

HER RELATIVES WANT AN IN-VESTIGATION MADE.

Coroner Roberts Has Directed That the Remains Be Uncovered and He Will Perform a Post Mortem to Ascertain the Exact Cause of Death-Mrs. Newell Was a Follower of the Ideas of One Dowie, Whose Religion Is on Christian Science Lines.

At the instigation of relatives of the deceased, Coroner Roberts will today exhume the body of Mrs. C. F. Newell, of Throop, for the purpose of ascer-taining what truth, if any, there is to the report that her death was due indirectly to neglect. The remains are interred in Dunmore cemetery and the exhumation will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Newell died about three weeks ago today from blood poisoning. Two weeks previously she gave birth to a child, and it is alleged she at no time & had the attendance of a physician. A Scranton doctor, it is said, made out the death certificate on which the burial permit was secured, although be did not attend the woman. How it came about that the woman was not given a physician's care is yet to be determined.

ONE VERSION OF CASE. The story as the coroner's individual investigation has it, is that Mrs. Newell and her most intimate women friends are followers of the Dowle faith, a sort of Christian Science sect. whose leader is a Chicago man of that name, and who claims to be a sort of second Christ.

Like the Christian Scientists they do not believe in medicine and going farther than the Christian Scientists they also eschew surgery. A woman named Boyd, living in Throop, is a leader in the new religion and induced

Mrs. Newell to embrace it. The report is that the faith curists ssayed to bring Mrs. Newell about with the aid of only their treatment, and failing to give her the surgical ald that is indispensable in such cases, she died.

The post-mortem examination which oroner Roberts proposes to make.will determine just how far this alleged neglect was responsible for the death. Mrs. Newell's husband says he tried to dissuade as wife from following the Dowie faith, but she would not be
