SEEING REAL SERVICE.

Interesting Letter from First Lieutenant Thomas P. Murphy, of the Forty-seventh Regiment.

In a letter to a friend here, First Lieutenant Thomas P. Murphy, of the Forty-seventh Infantry, now at Legaspi, in the southern part of the island of Luzon, writes that his battalion has been almost constantly engaged since Jan. 18 last, suppressing the insurgents in the Province of Albay.

He says in reference to the fighting that "we got all we were looking for." On January 23 they took the town of Alby after a lively encounter, in which sixty of the enemy were killed and many wounded, and two days later the town of Donaga was taken. The American loss in these two engagements was one killed and seven wounded.

On the night of February 2 and 3, the enemy attempted to drive them out but failed and the attempt cost the Filipinos one hundred lives. The Americans lost three killed and seven wounded, including two officers.

On February 9 and 12 in engagements at the town of Tobacco seventy-seven of the insurgents were killed and many wounded, while the Americans had only one man wounded. Since January 18, Lieutenant Murphy says his battalion alone has killed or wounded not less than a thousand of the enemy. The other two battalions, he says, are doing about the same work.

Speaking of the campaigning Lieutenant Murphy says: "Of course it is exciting but some times it is a little too much so, especially when they come after you on a very dark night.

"You know those fellows are just the color of night and when they surround you and close in with a yell, which is the most terrible ky-yi I ever heard, your blood, I tell you, commences to creep. After you find where they are and get to shooting at them it is all right. But the minutes on such dark nights as they pick out to do their work seem like hours. They can't stand to have them old Krags going into them and I don't wonder a bit at their scurrying.

In conclusion, he says he thinks the fighting in that province about over with. His company, at the time of writing, March 19, was at Donaga, and he was acting as police officer of the post. His sole duty was to ride about town overseeing the work of the details and compelling the natives to keep their places clean.

WORK STARTED ON NEW WARD.

Gang of Men Began Digging Yesterday at Lackawanna Hospital.

Work was yesterday started on the new ward at the Lackawanna hospital, which will be added at Franklin avenue and Mulberry street, and which is to be known as the children's ward. The sod was cut Monday for a distance of about fifty feet on Mulberry street, and a space of about thirty-five feet on Franklin avenue.

The work of digging was started by a gang of some fifteen men, under Foreman Meyer. Five teams were employed in the carting away of the soil and today eight or nine will be employed. It is likely that the ward will be completed within three or four months.

DAMAGE DONE BY YESTERDAY'S STORM

DOWNPOUR OF RAIN WAS EXCEEDINGLY HEAVY.

It Was Accompanied by a Great Electrical Display—A Number of Places Were Struck by Lightning, but No Very Serious Damage Was Done—Service of the Scranton Railway Company Badly Deranged by the Storm—Sewers Unable to Carry Off the Freshet.

The terrific rain storm which swept through here yesterday afternoon, with its accompaniment of hail, thunder and lightning, did a vast amount of damage throughout the city, all the street car lines being more or less affected, and several residences being struck by the lightning.

Telegraphic communications of the Delaware and Hudson railroad were crippled, but none of the cars of the road were affected by the storm and all arrived in time.

The residence of Joseph Summers, on Short avenue, near No. 21 school, was struck by lightning about 6 o'clock last evening. The bolt struck near the chimney and, passing through the roof, entered a second floor bedroom and then passed through the first floor to the cellar. A large-sized hole was made in the ceiling and a good deal of plaster was torn away by the bolt passing through. It also struck a bed, which was torn to pieces and set in flames. At still alarm was sent in, to which the North Scranton companies responded and quickly extinguished the blaze. The entire damage will probably come to about $200.

RESIDENCE STRUCK.

Mr. Merriman's residence, on Sanderson avenue, was also struck by a bolt of lightning, but the current luckily followed a metal pipe down the side of the house and into the ground and as a result the house was but slightly damaged.

A house belonging to Mrs. Dunkerly, of 314 Meridian street, was struck by lightning and slightly damaged.

At Olyphant the house of Seth Williams was struck by a bolt, which, entering through the chimney, tore the plaster from the wall and burned a large hole in the floor, also shattering a number of dishes. A house belonging to Dominick Howard, on Dunmore street, was also damaged, a large portion of the siding being torn off. The houses of Hugh O'Boyle and Mark Williams were also struck by lightning.

In Green Ridge the sewers proved entirely too small to carry off the surplus water and as a result the streets were flooded. Last summer the Dickson avenue merchants threatened to sue the city for damages caused by just such a storm as that of last evening.

On Meridian street, in West Scranton, the Smithing and Joseph Ansley properties were badly damaged, the water standing from one to two feet deep in the barns and out-buildings.

CARS DAMAGED.

The Scranton Railway company suffered considerable loss, six cars being totally disabled and between fifteen and twenty very badly damaged. The lightning struck the cables in a large number of instances and the fuses were burned out and the machinery thrown out of working order, while the cars were frequently thrown off the track. The West and North Scranton lines were particularly affected.

The signal lights all along the line were damaged, also, in many instances the boxes being torn off the poles, from Eynon street to Taylor this being especially so. Every thing will be remedied by this morning, however.

For the first few minutes after the storm broke the downpour of rain was very heavy, but was accompanied by a generous sprinkling of hailstones.

THE ELKS' STREET FAIR.

It Will Be One of the Greatest Events That Scranton Has Ever Witnessed.

The monster street fair and carnival, under the auspices of the Scranton Elks and the Bostock Midway company, at Washington avenue and Ash street, promises to be a first class thing for the Electric City.

Special days will be set apart for the different fraternal orders, for organized labor, school children, and there will be band and other concerts. The police arrangements will insure the best order on the grounds and absolute safety for persons and for property. The grounds will be thoroughly lighted by electricity in the evening.

It is estimated that at least 100,000 persons from the surrounding territory will visit the fair and exposition, and special arrangements for cheap fares are being made with the several railroad companies.

The committees are working night and day to make the affair a success, and the general opinion among those who ought to be interested in the coming street fair and exposition will be one of the grandest things that Scranton ever witnessed.

The following communication has been sent to the business men of the city:

The Elks' Carnival and Industrial Exposition is now an assured success. We are going to build a number of booths for the business men to display their goods. These booths will be ten feet front and eight feet deep with a fence ten feet high surrounding them and cost two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50) per foot front or $25 for the week. You can readily see we are not building these booths for profit, but simply to boost the city by having a magnificent display of the wares of the different business houses of the city. We think, therefore, the business men ought to give us encouragement. Very truly yours,

Alexander T. Conneli, Solicitor.

In response to this communication the following merchants have rented space for the exhibition of their wares: Goldsmith's Bazaar, Lewis, Ruddy, Davis & Murphy, E. C. Reynolds, 2 booths; C. P. Matthews & Co., 2 booths; J. B. Schrieber, Short & Cummings; H. Reisman, 2 booths; Messrs. Davidson, Rice, Levy & Co., Gunster & Forsyth. The committee is considering several other applications.

THE HOME RUMMAGE SALE.

Rooms Thronged with Purchasers All Day Long.

The rummage sale for the benefit of the Home for the Friendless conducted by the business men of the city, is remarkable that people are able to find articles to replenish the stock daily. This is the third rummage sale in as many weeks, and all have been conducted with most flattering success. Everything contributed is most gratefully received. There is a long felt want apparently for shoes and men's clothes. The people who come to buy want articles which do not demand the service of a needle and thread in any capacity.

Many comical situations constantly assert themselves in connection with the sale, and the visitors of all classes find any amount of amusement whenever they enter the rooms at 313, or 309 Spruce street. All contributions are requested to be marked with numbers or if communication is made by postal or telephone to any one connected with the Home for the Friendless, a carriage will be sent for such donations.

PRISONERS AT WORK.

Results of the First Day Are Very Satisfactory—Men Are Making Repairs on Newton Turnpike.

If the first day's experiment at working county jail prisoners on the public roads is to be taken as a criterion the project is destined to be a success. The prisoners were not only willing and anxious to go out in the gang, but when put to work labored so faithfully that it was not necessary to give them the slightest urging, and not even the suspicion of an attempt to escape was noticed.

One of the squad, too, was a prisoner who at one time skipped jail and was re-captured. A one-carrier prisoner was taken along as water-carrier.

He went about at will without being guarded and at almost any time during the day could have gotten away and safely beyond immediate pursuit.

A foreman and two guards accompanied the squad, but their orders were to avoid as much as possible anything that would savor of espionage. When the men were landed at the road where they were to work, Supervisor A. B. Dunning told them they were to regard the nature of the work as that of a holiday and frequent expressions to that effect were heard.

The squad was conveyed to and from the jail in two dirt wagons which are to be used in the work of road making. They were attired in the ordinary overalls and jumpers of laborers and there was nothing about their appearance to indicate they were convicts. On the way over the wagons were halted several times by idle men who wanted to be taken along and given a day's work. They supposed it was a gang of laborers going to work for some contractor.

Six more men are to be sent out today and later another half dozen will be added to the squad. Twenty-five prisoners answered Warden Simpson's first call for volunteers, and some of those who were not allowed to go seemed very much disappointed. One of the disappointed ones told a runner to tell Simpson that if he wasn't allowed to go out with the work squad he wouldn't stay at the blamed institution any longer.

The piece of road being worked is the stretch of the old Newton turnpike from the former toll house to the city line at Wickizer's quarry. It is to be graded, macadamized and guttered, and the work is to be done in a substantial and thorough manner. H. C. Hale is foreman, and Robert Allen and Henry Lotus act as guards. The latter is substituting for H. F. Ferber, who is ill.

FAITH CURISTS ARE HELD RESPONSIBLE

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY IN THE NEWELL CASE.

Jury Met Last Night in the Court House and Coroner Roberts Explained That the Woman's Death Might Have Been Averted Had Medical Assistance Been Secured. Jury Holds Mrs. Clara S. Boyd, Mrs. Iehart and the Woman's Husband Responsible.

The coroner's jury empaneled to inquire into the death of Mrs. Lydia E. Newell, whose body was disinterred by Coroner J. J. Roberts at the request of her parents, met last night in the arbitration room of the court house, and decided upon a verdict holding the woman's husband, Mrs. Clara S. Boyd and Mrs. Iehart directly responsible for her death. The full text of the verdict is as follows:

"We, the undersigned jurors empaneled to inquire into the death of Mrs. Lydia E. Newell find that said death was caused by septic peritonitis, and was the direct result of neglect on the part of Mrs. Clara S. Boyd, Mrs. Iehart and Rev. C. F. Newell. We further find that the two former were more culpably negligent. Mr. Newell's willingness to provide assistance exonerating him to a certain extent. We also deprecate the practice of faith curists."

THE TESTIMONY.

The inquest proper, it will be remembered, was held last Friday night, when a number of witnesses, including the three persons blamed for the woman's death, were examined. Coroner Roberts testified last night before the jury that he had made a post-mortem examination of the remains, and told of the condition he found.

Blood poisoning, he said, was the cause of Mrs. Newell's death. No practicing physician, no matter how little he knew, would think of leaving Mrs. Newell in the condition which resulted in her death.

Though Mrs. Boyd persisted in saying at the inquest that she didn't have charge of the case, the jury were evidently led to believe that she was, an account of the letter written to Mrs. Newell from the headquarters of the Dowle faith in Chicago, advising her to have some Godly Zion woman in attendance when the child was born. The supposition is, of course, that Mrs. Newell sent for Mrs. Boyd as a "Godly Zion woman," and the fact that the latter called after Mrs. Iehart to accompany her tended to confirm this supposition.

MRS. BOYD'S ADMISION.

A fact that also had great weight with the jury was Mrs. Boyd's admission that she was formerly a physician, the theory being that she must have therefore had knowledge of the danger to Mrs. Newell.

Mrs. Iehart testified on Friday night that she had been present at the birth of the child and had cut the umbilical cord. She was present for four days after the child's birth also, and the jury probably thought that she should have called in medical attendance. Mr. Newell was blamed for not summoning medical aid, he having testified that he believed in physicians.

Rev. Gideon Hammond, of Philadelphia, an elder in the Christian Catholic church, of which Mrs. Boyd is a member, is in the city to look after her interests in case she is prosecuted.

A Pleasure and a Duty.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and cholera, and in a few days I was cured. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dor, Va. This remedy is sold by all druggists. Matthews Brothers, wholesale and retail agents.

THE DOLLS' BOOTH.

It Will Be One of the Features of Hahnemann Hospital Fair.

That much interest will center around the dolls' booth, which is to be in charge of Mrs. J. W. Coolidge at the approaching Hahnemann hospital fair, to be held on Thursday and Friday of this week, at the residence of Colonel H. M. Boies, on Clay avenue, can be safely concluded, since the "doll fever," aroused by the queen of Roumania, has spread so thoroughly over the country at large. Her majesty will soon give an exhibit of dolls, which has never been surpassed, to raise money for the hospitals and charities of Roumania. Every country in Europe has contributed to it, and many dolls have been dressed by members of the royal families. Wilhelmina, the young queen of Holland, has given a perfect collection in Dutch costumes. This charming display will be on view in London this summer and afterwards in Glasgow and Paris.

The dolls representing our country will consist of a "Frisclia," an Indian maiden, Martha Washington, a Southern "mammy," and Uncle Sam.

At the exhibit to be given here this week there will be a great variety of choice frocks, from the inexpensive kindergarten dollies to those of more pretentious size. Here also will be found all the appointments of a doll's well-regulated home. Dainty upholstered parlor furniture, quaint colonial hall furniture, befrilled and beflowered bedroom furnishings, all have been provided, even to the necessary jardiner with a growing fern. Utility has been considered in the providing of substantial wooden beds, which have been embellished by the hand of a rising young artist and further decorated by the skillful fingers of a young society lady, while the mattresses, to insure dolls' perfect comfort, have been entrusted to a well-known mattress firm.

No admission will be charged to the fair. The admission to the conservatories will be 5 and 10 cents. The supper Thursday night will be served at 50 cents and the admission to the monologue on the same night will be $1. To the Rag Doll entertainment on Friday night the admission will be 50 cents for adults.
