CREIGHTON & BIRCH SUIT IS SETTLED

AMICABLE ADJUSTMENT OF DIS-PUTE REACHED.

This Is the End of Protracted Liti-gation Growing Out of the Failure of the Scranton Lace Company in 1897—Case of E. G. Worden This Is the End of Protracted Liti-Against Kate Schwartz and Others Is on Trial Before Judge Kelly.

Meyers Slander Suit Settled and Withdrawn.

The case of Creighton & Birch against Stephen Chappell was yester day settled amicably before Judge Ed wards, after the jury had been called and sworn. This ended the protracted itigation connected with the failure of the lace company in 1897.

At that time a judgment was enered and the property advertised by the sheriff at the suit of Creighton & Birch, for about $62,670. Application was made by Stephen Chappell, a adelphia, who was a creditor to the extent of $10,000, to open this judgment and set aside the execution on the ground that Creighton, who was a director of the lace company, had other creditors, and that the judgment was fraudulent.

This application being refused by this court, the case was taken to the Supreme court, by which tribunal the lecree of the court below was reversed, and an issue framed, on the ground that the whole transaction unless the toll house is removed, was presumptively fraudulent. This issue was to have been tried this week, but Mr. Blythe and Mr. Chappell ac cepted the terms of settlement, and verdict was taken for the plaintiff. The plaintiff was represented by Mr Warren and Welles & Torrey, and the defendant by A. A. Vosburg and Joseph P. McCullen, esq., of Philadel-

INCORPORATED IN MAY, 1891. The lace company was incorporated n May, 1891, with an alleged capital of $280,000, and in the same year this was increased to $350,000. About $100,-000 of the subscriptions was in machinery furnished by the English parties who were interested, and, when in 1893, adverse tariff measures went through the company found itself in deep water. Creighton & Birch, New York jobbers, who were handling the output of the factory, advanced money from time to time to operate the factory To protect them the company set aside to them in piedge the machinery and

In 1896 Creighton & Birch were advised by counsel that the goods so pledged as long as they remained in the custody of the company, could be seized by any other creditor. Thereupon the company passed a resolution authorizing the giving of a $75,000 bond to the Lackawanna Trust and Safe Deposit company, as trustee, to protect Creighton & Birch. On this the sheriff's sale was had.

Mr. Chappell, as a stockholder, and Mr. Blythe, as a creditor, sought to have this judgment opened, alleging that the judgment was a fraudulent preference secured by Creighton & Birch, by virtue of the fact that one of their number, Mr. Creighton, was In view of this fact a special meetinsolvent and failing concern.

JUDGE'S DECISION.

Judge Archbald decided it was not order discharging the rule to open judgment. An appeal was taken to the Supreme court and a decision was there made that the question of the good faith of the transaction should go to the jury.

Judge Kelly is engaged in trying jointly the cases of E. G. Worden against Kate Schwartz and others, and E. G. Werden against B. Rosenfeld they were opened. When Mrs. Visoand others. Mr. Worden made plans for buildings being erected in Throop for the defendants and also supervised their construction, charging the usual 5 per cent. commission. They refused to pay more than $50 and he filed a mechanic's lien for the balance,

On this the suit is based. The defendants claim, in the first place, that he agreed to do the work for $50, and in the second place, that the mechanic's lien must fall by reason of the fact that the contract with the builder guaranteed against liens, and that at all events an architect can not file a lien for work done in drawing plans. The defense contend that there was no supervising contracted for or done, R. A. Zimmerman represents the plaintiff. The defendants' attorneys are E. C. Newcomb and George S. Horn.

In the case of Winans & Son against J. F. McCawley & Bros., a verdict was entered for the plaintiff in the sum of $95.14.

SLANDER SUIT.

In the slander suit of Otto D. Myers against his former partner, W. D. Lawrence, a settlement was effected by which the suit was withdrawn upon the payment of $60 by the defendant to the plaintiff.

The jury in the case of John Benore & Son against Ferdinando Arigoni returned a verdict of $113.33 in favor of the plaintiff.

A verdict of $35.47 for the plaintiff as returned in the case of Frank H Oakley against George W. Weiland. By agreement, a verdict of $41 for the plaintiff was entered in the case of O. M. Fletcher against M. E. Wor-

THAT NAY AUG TOLL HOUSE. Commissioners Want It Removed from the Park.

It is very probable that the Elmhurst Boulevard company will have a deal of trouble on its hands in the near future, if a request made by the park commissioners is not granted. This is that the grant conferring the right of way to the company says "that such land is to be used only for a driveway, no right to obtain a preference over bridle path, or 'cycle path, and for no other purposes."

The commissioners are now securing legal advice as to whether this clause does not prevent the erection of any building on the land, and if they find that it does, ejectment proceedings will be commenced against the company,

COMMITTED TO JAIL.

Mrs. Joseph Visoley, Charged with Shoplifting, and Her Father and Mother Cannot Furnish Bail.

Mrs. Joseph Visoley, of Blair court, North Scranton, and Adam Garivius, her father, were arraigned before Alderman Howe yesterday afternoon on the charge of shoplifting, and were ommitted to the county jail in default of ball.

Garivius was held in $500 ball and Mrs. Visoley was held in $1,500 bail, $300 on each charge, i. e., of stealing from the Globe store, Goldsmith's azaar, Mears & Hagen's, Gerson's millinery and Jonas Long's Sons.

Mrs. Visoley and her father were rrested Monday afternoon by Detecive Moir and Mounted Officer Block, sho searched the house, on the authority of a search warrant, issued by Alderman Howe, and who found about $350 worth of dry goods in the house.

These were yesterday identified by epresentatives of the firms mention-100 worth of goods had been taken from Jonas Long's Sons' store, Goldmith's bazaar and the Globe, each. From Gerson's store had been taken ibbons and millinery, to the value of $8 and $9, and Mears & Hagen identified about $15 worth of goods. At the hearing Attorney M. A. Mclinley appeared for Mrs. Visoley. Chief Robling testified that he had the search warrant issued on Floor Walker John McConnell, of the Globe the fact that shoplifting had been carried on in the store for some time and they had reason to believe that Mrs. Visoley was the guilty party, as a fraudulent preference and made an she had been seen wearing a light cape of peculiar texture which had been taken from the store. Detective Moir testified that he went to the house and there met Garivius. Mrs. Visoley being out. The old man had the keys to all the closets and rooms, which were locked, and only surrendered them when he declared he would break the doors open unless ley came in she was arrested. Floor Walker McConnell, of the Globe store; Solomon Goldsmith, of Goldsmith's bazaar; Jacob Traugot, of Gersons; W. H. Hagen, of Mears & Hagen, and John C. Hawthorne, of Jonas Long's Sons, appeared for those dry goods concerns, and declared that on examining the goods at police headquarters they had recognized them as selonging to their firms. The alderman then fixed the bail, and Attorney McGinley objected. claiming that there were no grounds for holding Garivius. He was not in the house when the officers arrived there, but only entered later, and Mr. McGinley claimed that the mere fact that he had the keys in his possession was not enough to hold him, as it was not proved that Garivius even lived in the same house with his daughter.

A MONUMENT FOR FRANCES SLOCUM

HER MEMORY IS TO BE PER-PETUATED IN INDIANA.

When Five Years of Age She Was Taken from the Home of Her Parents by Members of the Delaware Tribe and Eventually Fell Into the Hands of the Miamis-Forty Years Elapsed Before Tidings of Her Reached Her People-Then She Declined to Return to Them.

Here is the story of little Frances Slocum, who lived in Wilkes-Barre, this state, in 1778, and who died in Peru, Indiana, in 1847. Between those two dates she was abducted by the Indians, married an Indian brave, begat children, became queen of the tribe, and died forgetful of home, parents, or language of her white brethren, And on Thursday next, May 17, the Governor of Indiana, the public functionaries and her greatgrandchild, who inherits Frances Stocum's red hair, will gather around the grave of the white queen of the Miami Indians and will dedicate a monument to her memory. And so, after the lapse of almost a century and a quarter, the State of Indiana will do honor to the memory of the little Wilkes-Barre girl; and on Thursday next, just fifty-three years after her bones were laid to rest with all the weird incantations befitting an Indian burial, a minister of God will read from the Book of Christ and give the mound of dust a Christian burial. Little Frances Slocum was a child of English parents and was born in Warwick, R. I., in March, 1773. In 1778 her parents moved to Wilkes-Barre, and it was just about this time that the British had urged the Delaware Indians to ed above as belonging to them. About deal death and destruction to the whites in the Wyoming valley.

CARRIED FRANCES AWAY. One day, while the father and brothers of little Frances were out hunting, four Indians of the Delaware tribe came sneaking through the woods to the Slocum household. Two little boys were playing on the front steps-two were playing on the front steps—two Q shots and down the little fellows fell. Frances, who was in the garden, ran screaming into the house and hid unler the stairway, her red hair almost standing on end in terror and her 5year-old heart beating like mad.

The Indians found her, and were for killing her then and there. And then it was that the hair of little Frances saved her life. The four Indians had never seen a white woman with red hair, and they were awed by the unusual spectacle. And so one of the Indians picked up he child and carried her away on his

For five weeks after the abduction earching parties were on the go, night and day, hunting for little Frances. Her brothers went as far West as Detroit, making inquiries for the little one, but not a trace of the auburn-haired child could they find. In despair they returned to Wilkes-Barre, and the search was given up. And after ten years all hope was given up of ever seeing their sister alive. They mourned her as dead, and egan a relentless war of extermination against the Indian. Friendly, or otherwise, it made no difference to the Slocum boys-no Indian could come within a mile of them, and live to tell the tale.

FORTY YEARS LATER.

Forty years after the abduction of Frances Slocum, a trader, traveling in the West, stopped at a lonely little but on the Miami reservation. His hostess was a white woman who could speak neither English nor French. All shknew was the language of the Miami Indians. That night, when the trader sat by the fire, he bethought him of the abduction of little Frances Slocum forty years back. He tried to picture his hostess as the red-haired little girl-and then in a flash the thought of his hostess' red hair convinced him that he was face to face with the long-sought-for girl. The trader wrote to Wilkes-Barre, giving such information as was his, and bidding her relatives, if any lived, to come at once.

Three weeks later two brothers and a sister of Frances Slocum went west and identified their long-lost relative. They begged her to return home with them but she said-and said it through an interpreter, for she no longer knew the language of the whites:-'I cannot go with thee-nay, I cannot, For I am an old tree. I cannot move about. I was a young sapling when they took me away, but now should you take me away I would never come back to them who have been good to me. Nay, I shall stay here and die here and shall rest in the graveyard yonder. I cannot go with thee. Go ye your way and I go mine." And so the two brothers and the sixter went back to Wilkes-Barre and left. Frances Clocum, "the white rose of the Miamis," to live and die and he buried among those who knew her best. And in 1847 the White Father and the

Great Spirit called the soul of Frances Slocum, and she went forth and died, MOVEMENT FOR MONUMENT. Last spring James F. Stutesman, of Peru, Ind., visited the Bundy

burial ground, just outside of the city, and finding the grave of Frances Sto cum, sunken, overgrown with grass and weeds and unmarked, he came to the conclusion that the grave should five of the descendents of the white JONAS LONG'S SONS.
