SKUNK FARMER'S CANVASS the Montrose branch of the road which

He Desire That Lawyers Should Be Kept at Home. Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Stroudsburg, Pa., May 24 .- Luther Michaels, a well known farmer and until recently owner of a skunk farm, is making a rather novel canvass for the legislature. Mr. Michaels wants the farmers of Monroe county to stop fending lawyers to Harrisburg to make their laws. In a published letter he says: "What have the brilliant-minded lawyers sent to Harrisburg done to redress our wrongs. Point out a single recorded, straight-cut speech that has been made in our state capital in defense of the farmers and I will point out one hundred against the farmers." Michaels wants to go to Harrisburg in place of Representative Rogers L. Burnett, a brilliant young lawyer. All the political leaders of the county are in favor of Burnett.

Michaels some months ago received some prominence in trying to rais skunks on a farm in Shawnee. The experiment was a fallure.

stole a wagon load of graceries, dry coods and other things, amounting to about $50 worth. No trace of the guilty ones has been found. It is thought the deed was committed by some of the of this place, on Memorial day: In tramps who have a mammoth camp ing, festivities and fireworks. Memorial day is a day for memory and for tears. It is feared that in the pending milk strike the farmers will eventually come out second best. They have not put in a stick of ice to help their milk and they must sell it. At about 10 o'clock last evening while the streets were filled with people listening to the concert of the Susquehanna bands four tramps entered the laundry of Wing Lee, on Exchange street, and immediately attacked him, for the purpose of robbery. One of the gang threw a cloth over Lee's head, while the other searched his clothes and the premises. Lee succeeded in getting away from the gang and set up a lusty yell, when his assailants fied toward the river, discharging their revolvers as they ran. They escaped the police. ...ey secured no plunder. Lee recognized one of the men as a well known tramp who has passed over the Erie for several years.

HEALTH AUTHORITIES

Second Day's Session of the Annual Meeting at Mechanicsburg-Questions of Importance Considered. Mechanicsburg, Pa., May 24 .- The second day's session of the seventh an-nual meeting of the Associated Health Authorities and Sanitarians of Pennsylvania opened at 10 o'clock this morn ing. The devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. S. A. Stein, of St. Paul's Reformed church. Moritz G. Lippert, chairman of the committee on publication, presented the report of that body. Then followed a symposium on rural hygiene, at which several papers were read. "The Need of Proper Health Super vision in Townships" was considered by Dr. Robert S. Maison, of Delaware county, who is medical inspector to the state board of health from that county. The paper discussed the steps taken by the state board and its friends to give legal protection throughout the state. The efforts resulted in establishing boards of health in cities of the third class. Boroughs and school boards in townships were finally authorized to assume this function.

The author claimed that borough boards in the smaller places are not efficient, because of local antagonism, the dearth of proper material for membership, the personal element injected into every effort to abate nuisances, lack of interest among members them selves, deficiency in hygienic knowledge and constant change in the personnel of the boards. The paper advo-cated legislation providing for a cohealth officer with deputies in each township, in order that all cases of contagious disease may be promptly quarantined and epidemics thus

Dr. H. B. Bashore, medical inspector to the state board from Cumberland county, read a paper on the danger which arises from the lack of rural sanitation. The paper stated that although hygiene has never made rapid progress and the larger cities are unde rfairly good sanitary laws, very little has been done for the rural districts. The condition has become so bad in most rural places that it is actually healthier to live in a great city than in the country. Contagious diseases are not thoroughly isolated in the country and as a consequence people in whose houses such diseases exist ride on trolleys and steam cars and thereby endanger large community. The lack of rural sanitation favors bovine tuberculosis and tuberculosis milk is in some cases carried to the city consumer. The state board of health authorities tried to obviate this lack of rural sanitation by endeavoring to have a law passed authorizing the appointment of rural boards of health officers, but the bill was defeated. The paper asserts that rural sanitation will be a paying investment, even if it does add one mill more to the tax rate. William H. Allen, of the University of Pennsylvania, read a paper entitled Some Suggestions for Rural Sanitary Reorganization in Pennsylvania."

A discussion followed the reading of the papers, after which E. S. Wagoner, president of the local board of health, presented the report of the committee other people who want to work. on legislation, of which he is chairman The afternoon session was opened with prayer by Rev. Wall Street Review. New York, May 21.—Interest was still further constricted in the stock warket this morning and the market had fallen near to the point of stag-nation when promonitory symptoms began to ap-pear of distress on the part of some speculative interest. The market sold off sharply on a large number of dealings than for some time past. This was explained soon after noon by the an-nouncement of the suspension of Price, McCor-mick & Co. According to the rule of the ex-change the suspension of a large firm was fol-lowed out of outstanding contracts of the su-pended firm on the floor of the exchange. The rest of the day was practically devoted to this selling and huving under the rule operations be-ing almost entirely given over. The steel stocks were also much affected. There were decided re-reoveries from the lowest prices and the closing, while almost stagmant showed the net lesses in the railroads generally reduced to fractions. The failure was primitive due to commitments in cot-ton and the violent decline in the that staple of the last two days was the cause of the firm solf-fullies.
