EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

SPECIAL SERVICES AT WASH-BURN STREET CHURCH.

Attended by Members of Griffin Post, G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief Corps-Sermon Preached by Dr. Moffat-Stables Destroyed in Last Night's Fire. H. J. McDermott Arrested for Forgery -Coroner Roberts Incapacitated-Other Notes and Personals.

Members of Lieutenant Ezra Griffin post, No. 139, Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans and the Woman's Relief corps attended the services at the Washburn Street Presbyterian church last night and listened to a special sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. P. Moffat, D. D. The edifice was interiorly beautified by many flags and pictures of President McKinley, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Generals Grant, Harrison and Sherman, and the arrangement was decidedly artistic. The audience was unusually large and many were seated in the Sunday school room. The choir rendered special music, and the services were in keeping with the event. Dr. Moffat gave an eloquent address, during which he said: Members of Lieutenant Ezra S. Griffin post, No. 139, Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief corps: It is with pleasure that I welcome you this evening. It is bentting that such an organization as this should set apart a day to assemble in the house of God as a preparatory service to that which you shall engage in Memorial Day. It is belitting that before you come together in this sacred and beautiful service of strewing the graves of your departed comrades with flowers that you go from the house of God with His benediction

Since July 7, 1879, the date of the organiza tion of this post, there has been mustered into this post some 650 members. Your present number is now about 320, yet there is forced upon yen the fact that a goodly proportion reeleeping beneath the sod. There are over 600 graves of soldiers of the civil war in the cometeriesi of this city and Dunmore, all of which are strewn with flowers on Memorial Day. Of this number 118 have been nuried from this post, eleven being laid at rest during the year just ending.

One by one you are going the way of all that is mortal of man. In'n few years we shall look in vain for the familiar ferm in the blue coat and cap as you gather in your fraternal meet-ings or in your march to the last resting place of the dead on Memorial Day. It is also befitt-ing that on an occasion like this we bring before us in memory some of the facts, incidents and lessons that shall be remembered and incul-cated is the minds of the rising generation.

The student of history will pender over the stupendous figures of the cost, number of engage ments, enlisted men, killed, wounded and lost in battle, and surely no one will read the story of the past with a thought that this nation is of the past with a thought that this nation is ungrateful. This government occupies the first place in showing that it knows how to recipro cate pairiotism by honoring its common sol-diers and watching over their remains. This

We brileve in the overruling power of God ever the nations of the carth, and as we look back upon history it becomes apparent that the God of Providence was guiding us in our affairs to make of its a great nation, even though it was brought about by a conflict so terrible, but nothing can be accomplished in this world without sacrifice. More has been done in the 109 years to civilize, evangelize and harmonize the kimireds and tongues of the earth than in twenty rdinary centuries. It is well to impress on the younger genera ion that it is to those who died for their cour that we owe these blessings we enjoy today, and soon will the last voice of this organization be silenced forever, but the principles which thus order tipides are as lasting as the hills and shall never be forgotten.

and shall never be to received.

Your actions speak louder than words, and let the lessens of this day be imreased on your hearts.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

A serious confiagration was only averted last night by the diligent work of the firemen after flames had enveloped the stables in the rear of 116-118 South Main avenue, owned by George Carson and occupied by the Grand Union Tea company.

The adjoining property was in danger and the Plymouth Congregational church was at one time threatened, but a continual stream from the Columbia's cheminal apparatus played on the building. Slight damages resulted, however, to the edifice, which is fully insured. The fire was in such a thickly popuated center that several of the central city companies were called out the flames. Two wagons were destroyed and the buildings mentioned above were damaged beyond repair. The loss is fully covered by insurance

Mrs. Bradish, of Detroit, Wrote HAPPENINGS OF Mrs. Pinkham and Tells the Result.

[LETTER TO MES. PINKHAM NO. 82,310] "About two years ago I began to run down and soon became almost a wreck. I lost my appetite and began to lose flesh; my blood was impoverished and I had to leave our store.

"The doctors gave me a little tonic, but I steadily grew worse and consulted another doctor. He helped me in some ways, but my headaches continued, and I began to have night sweats and my rest was so disturbed that I would have hysteria and would cry and worry over business matters and my poor health.

"Finally, husband took me South, but with no benefit. This was a year ago; no one can ever know what a winter of misery I spent. Would bloat after eating and was troubled with palpitation of heart and whites. Having rend by happy chance of your medicine, I bought it and wrote for your advice, and before having finished the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the hysterics nearly stopped and I slept soundly.

In his young manhood he acquired the trade of a carpenter, and became a master workman and a prominent contractor in the anthracite region of this vicinity. The first coal breaker he erected was in Jessup. From 1868 to 1875 he built nearly all the breakers of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road. He then began business for himself, and was a reliable authority in breaker and bridge construction. In 1879 he went west, and for years was in the employ of the Denver and Rio Grande road, building smelters and bridges. Up to the time of his death he was busy making contracts. He was a skillful and practical builder, and a man of mark in the community.

A veteran of the Civil war, he was patriotic in his devotion to and interest in his country. In domestic life his attentions were as affectionate and tender as they were beautiful and paternal. He was a deeply interested member of the Masonic order and a prominent Knight Templar. His removal by death is a loss to the community, and his family will have the sincere sympathy of their host of

I have often been obliged to call in the doctor. There was also an annoying kidney weakness which at times was very painful and attended with frequent action of the secretions. My limbs were numb and I had dropsy at times and my feet swelled so that I could not wear my shoes. The doctor said my trouble must be checked or it would end in Bright's Disease, but I did not receive much benefit from the medicine I took. I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills and used five or six boxes. They helped me wonderfully in every way. I have recommended them to many of my friends and some of them received marked benefit from the use of this remedy.

Shanks and the Censors.

OF THE great fournalists of the civil war period one of the few survivors is William F. G. one of the few survivors william F. G.
Shanks, who for many years was an editor of the New York Tribune. Ituring the conflict he won high distinction by the ingenious method whereby he outwitted some of the generals in command. An order had been issued which practically prohibited the sending home of any news excepting what met the approval of some roung officers who had been appointed censors.

Every paper suffered immediately with the exception of the Tribune. Day after day it pubhed the news in full to the surprise and wrath of the generals. They made an investigation, but without results. Shanks' letters were studied and examined to see if he used invisible ink or verbal cryptograms. All were alike in con-taining few facts and many remarks about remittances, accounts, eashier's mistakes and other private monetary matters. Yet every letter contained the news, and it was conveyed in the sentences which spoke about the correspondent's finances. He had foreseen he emergency and made a code which covered early every possible military movement. "Last week's pay received" meant "the army will move forward"; "send me fifty dbliars," "the enemy are being re-enforced," and so forth,

How He Got Even. S OME people are philosophical enough to accept detest gracefully; others muse their wrath and waste much time in a mistaken effort to "get even." Of one of these latter a Chicago paper tells an amusing story.

A man came to a Chicago hetel one day, and took his dinner outside with a friend. When he came to pay his bill he found himself charged with a day's beard, dinner and all. He pro-he came to pay his bit he found intest characteristics. The clerk tried to explain that the American plan was based strictly upon time, and that if he chose to cat elsewhere it was his own lookout, but the man would not be pacified.

He paid his bill under protest. Then he asked if disner was still on, and was informed that it f dinner was still on, and was informed that it lasted until 0 in the evening.
"Then I'll go and tackle it!" he exclaimed.
"I've eaten one dinner, but I'm going to get my money's worth out of this house, or perish in the attempt!"

He rushed into one of the dining-rooms, seized bill of fare, and ordered everything he could think of. When he finally got to the end of his tether the waiter handed him a check for $4.10.

"What's that for?" he asked in surprise "But I have already paid for my dinner in my ill," he protested. "I'm staying here on the American plan."

"Then you should have gone to the other din-ing-room," said the waiter. "This is the Eu-ropean plan cafe." The man paid the bill and walked out. His elings must have been heavy, both in body and
