Annual Tour of Inspection of the Teachers' Committee of the Board of Control.

The teachers' committee of the board of control, accompanied by Superintendent of Schools Howell and President Jayne, began the annual inspection of the city schools yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, leaving the city hall in carriages.

The first school visited was No. 5 and its two annexes. Each room was visited and the teachers were encouraged with pleasant words. The committee next visited No. 35, and after inspecting the two attic rooms, which were almost unbearably hot on account of the nearness to the roof, a meeting was at once held and the committee decided to instruct the principal to have only a single session in these rooms from now till school closes, No. 33 was the next school visited, and here enjoyable singing exercises were conducted by Mrs. Annie Barnes. While inspecting No. 36 on Franklin avenue, a little later, the committee also looked over the dwelling on the northerly side of that building, which is owned by the school district.

The committee seemed to consider it especially adapted for the purpose of a training school for next year, and decided to recommend to the board that the matter of using it for such a purpose be thoroughly investigated by the high and training committee.

STRONG ACCUSATIONS.

Alleges That the Recent $14,000 Issue of Bonds by the Lackawanna Township School District Was Irregular and That a Fraud Is to Be Practiced on the Taxpayers-Family Quarrel Over Benton Prop-

In an amended bill in the equity suit Western company against the school board of Lackawanna township, filed yesterday by Willard, Warren & Knapp, an attack is made on the regubers by Gounod, Wagner, Grieg and larity of the recent issue of $14,000 worth of improvement bonds, and petrtion made to have them declared in-

> The action of the board in authorizing the issue was first attacked, because it would increase the district's debt to $21,000, which is far in excess of the constitutional limit of two per cent. of the assessed valuation. The amendment complains of the bonds themselves, and the complaint is couched in no uncertain terms. The meat of it is contained in these three paragraphs:

Cases in Common Pleas.

When common pleas court resumed yesterday morning, after the Memorial day adjournment, Judge John P. Kelly, in No. 1, took up the case of Lettle E. Fisk against Charles and Ira Natus, an ejectment suit for a four-acre plot of ground in Benton.

The defendants are brothers and the daintiff is a sister-in-law of Ira. She ad a judgment against the latter and to secure satisfaction sold out the plot in question as the property of Ira. A part interest in the plot is claimed by Charles and he is also in possession. The present proceedings were brought by Miss Fisk to establish her title and oust Charles. The latter has no deed to the property and relies upon parol testimony to establish his claim. He alleges that his father conveyed the land to Ira, that Ira sold back a part of it to the father and that the latter transferred this part to him. S. B. Price and Partridge & Vaughan represent the plaintiff. The defendant's attorney is E. C. Newcomb, The case was for a time in danger of an abrupt determination. One of the rincipal witnesses for the defense is the mother of the defendant. Her testimony was taken by depositions, because of her being unable by reason of physical infirmities to come into court. Because the depositions, after being transcribed, were not signed by her, the plaintiff's counsel objected to their admittance.

Mr. Newcomb argued that while the prescribed practice calls for this, it is not insisted upon now, and has not been since the use of stenography in taking depositions has become so general. Judge Kelly ruled that if the plaintiff persisted in the objection the depositions would have to be ruled out, but if

and the trial was proceeded with.

The case of Daniel Kislusky against Thomas Gilboy, Bridget Gilboy and the Borough of Olyphant was given to a jury in No. 2, by Judge Archbald, just before adjournment. The plaintiff sued to recover for damages alleged to have been done his property by the water flowing thereon. Four years ago he bought a lot on Moosic street, Olyphant, from the Delaware and Hudson company. It was erty Damage Suit from Olyphant perfectly dry, but located alongside a water course which ran through the Will of R. T. Black-Court Notes. Gilboy lot just across the street. In the fall of 1898, Gilboy filled in his lot and incidentally the water course. This of the Delaware, Lackawanna and was followed by the flooding of Kislusky's lot.

Six months later the borough blocked up the culvert which carried the water across the street and along the course which formerly crossed the Gilboy lot. This did not change the conditions any as far as they affected the Kislusky lot, but simply moved the offending in terference farther up the course, and as Judge Archbald ruled, relieved Giloy of liability from that time on. After the testimony of the plaintiff was in, Judge Archbald directed a nonsuit against Mrs. Gilboy and caused the plaintiff to elect between the two remaining defendants as to which to proceed against. Gilboy was chosen. Accordingly, a non-sult was also entered as against the borough. The plaintiffs were represented by Bright and early this morning 50,000 census enumerators in 300 different districts throughout the broad and ong United States will start out with their portfolios under their arms, their badges on their breasts, their commis sions in their pockets and a determination in their breasts to find out withou loss of time and to an exact certainty all that Uncle Sam's great inquisitor, Mr. Merriam, wants to know.

This census is to be completed in two years. Congress says it must be. Any enumerator falling to complete his work in the given time is subject to a penalty not exceeding $500, and a heavy punishment is prescribed if he resigns. He is also subject to a penalty of $500 if he divulges any information he receives as an enumerator.

The enumerator is instructed to go to the head of the house for his information. If the head is not accessible an adult member of the family is to be queried. Every household should be prepared to give the enumerator what information he wants without compelling him to wait to see this one or that one, or till the family Bible is appealed to for data of births, deaths and marriages.
