STUMP SPEAKERS' PRICES. Pay a Dishonor in 1872, Now a Regular Campaign Expense. Campaign orators in the service of the National committees are well paid for their work. This is not generally understood, and it was not the case until comparatively recent years. In the earlier days they usually rendered volunteer service. So universal was the custom that discredit attached in the public mind to a political speaker who received compensation. The words of Mrs. Nellie Cameron, of Lockport, N.Y., convey a broad meaning to every thoughtful woman. Mrs. Cameron says: "Up to the fall of 1891 I was in a deplorable condition. I had stomach trouble in the very worst form. Nothing at all would stay on my stomach, and I had to almost starve myself. My side ached constantly. The lack of nourishment caused me to lose flesh rapidly. I dropped from 125 to 97 pounds, growing weaker all the time. My hair fell out, my complexion was sallow, and I was simply a shadow of my former self. Able physicians treated me, but failed absolutely. I was a complete wreck when a friend told me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I bought a bottle and improved my condition; it was astonishing how quickly they built me up. I believe."
