CAREER OF SUPERINTENDENT CHARLES H. KETCHAM.

He is Now in Charge of the Morris and Essex Division of the Lackawanna Road—An Improved Engine That Has Been Put Into Service by the Central Railroad of New Jersey—Makeup of the D., L. & W. Board for Today.

Charles H. Ketcham, the new superintendent of the Morris and Essex division of the Lackawanna is one of the most thoroughly competent men in the railroad service. Born in Rock Island, Ill., in 1855, Mr. Ketcham entered the railroad service in 1872 as a telegraph operator and worked on several roads in the west and south, including the Louisville and Nashville, Chicago and Northwestern, Chicago and Alton, and the Wabash, acquiring a wide and varied railroad experience, which was not overlooked by railroad managers, for in 1885 he was made superintendent of the Dunkirk, Allegheny Valley and Pittsburgh road, and shortly thereafter he was called to a similar position on the Buffalo division of the West Shore, occupying both positions until 1896. He remained on the Buffalo division until it was absorbed by the New York Central, when he was made agent at the Franklin street station for the West Shore in New York city. On January last he left the employ of the West Shore to accept the position of terminal agent for the Lackawanna, and upon the retirement of Mr. Du Fay on May 1, Mr. Ketcham was appointed as the executive head of the Morris and Essex division.

As superintendent of the Buffalo division of the West Shore he demonstrated his marked ability as a manager and when he left the division he carried with him the respect and good will of every man in the service of that company.

Mr. Ketcham is a strict disciplinarian, as any successful railroad manager must be, but he is at the same time just.

got them every day from small manufacturers desirous of locating here, but I am obliged to turn a deaf ear to them, owing to the lack of proper buildings for their accommodation. The fitting up of this building, in my opinion, brings a larger number of industries to this city than we have had in many years.

This and That. Former Assistant Superintendent Frank J. Griffith, of the Morris and Essex division, has accepted a position with the Compressed Air Motor company of New York city and will travel for that concern. Mrs. Griffith has leased the American house at Asbury Park and will conduct it this season.

The Lackawanna company proposes to erect in the near future twelve steel engine houses at South Orange and Morris Plains, N. J., and at Binghamton, N. Y. A new station is to be erected at Succasunna, N. J., on the Chester branch, similar in architecture to the one recently completed at Port Oram. A new 24-lever tower has just been completed at Port Morris and a reservoir for engine supply with a capacity of 200,000 gallons has been installed at this point, which would seem to indicate that the company does not propose to abandon Port Morris as a coal and freight terminal for some time to come. Two 25-lever towers have recently been erected at Mt. Morris on the Buffalo division.

DAIRYMEN MEET GOVERNOR STONE

Over 11,200,000 pounds of oleo are sold annually in Pennsylvania and 2,000,000 in New York. There is no exception in the law should not be enforced in this state, but it will not be enforced by those now in control of the department of agriculture. E. L. Kimball, of Philadelphia, representing the Pure Butter Protective association of Pennsylvania, said the department has placed no restriction on the sale of oleo. The pure butter people are not satisfied with the administration of the agricultural department and trust to the governor to enforce the law. He said oleo is sold in Philadelphia openly, without any regard to the law. Five others in that city have been sent to jail the last month by the United States court for violation of the law, while not a single dealer has been convicted by the state authorities. The attorneys for the dairy and food commissioners have not brought a single case in court against violators of the law. Mr. Kimball said Secretary Hamilton is making no effort to collect evidence against violators of the oleo laws. J. T. Allman, secretary of the State grange, spoke in behalf of the consumer. He said the dairymen of Pennsylvania are robbed by the sale of butter which is not butter because he is not getting the article which he pays for. The best oleo that is made contains ingredients that are deleterious to the human health. The consumers want the law enforced and it can be if the proper persons are appointed to enforce it.

Governor Stone's Opinion.

Governor Stone said the secretary of agriculture has nothing more than a supervisory connection with the enforcement of the oleo law. The dairy and food commissioner, under the law, has entire supervision of its enforcement. The governor said he wanted the law enforced and is anxious to see a dairy and food commissioner who will enforce it. He received a letter from pure butter protective associations signed by Mr. Faucett, written a year ago, asking for the appointment of ex-commissioner Wells. He explained that he retained Wells because he believed his retention would meet with the approval of the parties interested in the enforcement of the law. Since Secretary Hamilton has taken charge of the work of the pure food commission he has brought suit against one hundred and twenty-four violators of the oleo law, nine against violators of the pure food laws, ten against violators of the vinegar law.

The governor said he believed Major Wells was honest when he appointed him and he is still of this belief. He said he had no sympathy with oleo; he never has had and does not expect to have. He promised to appoint a commissioner who will enforce the law; if he does not, he will be removed. The governor said he would instruct the appointees to vigorously enforce the law and to require his subordinates to do the same.

Haney Outlines His Defense.

Attorney W. W. Baylor, representing the defendant, yesterday filed a demurrer to the plaintiff's bill in the equity suit of E. L. Fuller, assigned to the Scranton Dairy company, against H. E. Haney.

The suit was brought to enforce the terms of an agreement under which the defendant and his partner sold out their milk business to Mr. Fuller. The plaintiff claims that the defendant agreed not to re-engage in the milk business in this state for a period of five years, but, in violation of this contract, is supplying a route on the South Side.

The demurrer recites that the dairy company is not entitled to enforce a contract made between Haney and Fuller; that the contract was with Gardner and Haney and that no allegation is made that they have re-engaged in the milk business, and that "an agreement not to engage in the milk business, generally, in a way that will not interfere with the milk business in the county of Lackawanna is not an agreement affecting E. L. Fuller or the Scranton Dairy company and gives them no standing in this court."

Mt. Pleasant Shaft Calamity.

She married him when she was 15 years of age, which was eleven years ago last June. He was a resident of Oliphant and she of Binghamton. They spent most of their married life in Green Ridge, where he was employed as a mill hand.

She alleges that of late he has been abusing her and that she was compelled to withdraw from his home. In the case of Clara E. Green against P. H. Green, the hearing was fixed for June 11, at 4.30 p. m., in Judge Archibald's chambers.

Publication was directed of the subpoena in the case of Louis Harker against Clifford Harker.

On petition of James Fife, a rule was granted yesterday to open the final confirmation of the report of viewers of the new road in Carbonada township. He avers that when he signed the petition for the new road he was misinformed as to its route and its cost.
