A BASE BALL FARCE.

Reading Team Was the Under Dog in Yesterday's Exhibition at the Ball Park.

Yesterday's game between Reading and Scranton at Athletic park resolved itself into a farce before many innings had been played. The team of players gathered by Manager Miller and Captain McLaughlin had never before played together, and as anresult their team work was ragged and their entire exhibition poor. The entire team was not on hand, either, as some of the best players had not yet arrived. They will all report today, however, three new men coming in late last night, and will present a much stronger line-up. Two games will be played, the first being called at 2 o'clock. On account of Captain Me-Laughlin being short handed, H. Davis, a local enthusiast, who claims to have once played in the New England league, was given a trial in center

Of the members of the team, Bratton and Doherty played magnificent games. Doherty, who is a young Moosic amateur, was signed on the recommendation of Manager Burnham, and played a splendld game at short stop and also batted fairly well. Bratton covered second in great shape, accepting twelve chances, and hit the ball harder than any player

Scranton played a beautiful game, and two of the locals smashed all base ball records of the present sea-Milligan fanned out eleven Reading batsmen, and Hub Knoll, in six times at bat, secured three triples, one double, a base on balls, and in the other time up made his base on Wagner's excusable muff of his short drive to left. Knoll's four hits for eleven bases constitute the heaviest hitting of the season up to date. The drives were all long, hard ones, although one of them might have been fielded faster by the redoubtable Mr. H. Davis. Milligan was invincible, playing with the Reading batters, and retiring them almost at will. From the very first the visitors were telassed first inning by hitting the ball up against the right field fence and from then on the visitors were never in the bunt. The score follows:

Towards the end of the game yesterday the crowd began to grow sympathetic and root for Reading, and in the last inning did the best to rattle Milligan into allowing the visitors a run or two. The course of study which has just been elaborately set forth in a pamphlet issued by the board is almost certain to be changed. as Professor Hockenberry says it is an outrage on the public and that he can prove it. He conscientiously believes it his duty to change it and he will bend every effort in that direction.
