CHALLENGE FROM SCRANTON.

Court House Clerks from Lackawanna Willing to Face Luzerneites.

The court house clerks and the county officials who have recently organized themselves into a base ball club yesterday received a challenge from the court house clerks of Lackawanna county. The challenge of the Lackawanna people was written on a sheet of paper which was dated "Scranton, Pa., June 5, 1900," and after a search over the maps and through the postal guides it was discovered that there really was a place called Scranton.

The challenge was accompanied by a lengthy newspaper clipping, which entered into details as to the make-up of the Lackawanna team and also dilated upon its ability to play base ball.

It was also arranged that the massacre should be enacted at Wilkes-Barre on Saturday, June 23, and that after the visitors had been reduced to a proper state of coma they should be taken to the Hotel Sterling, properly revived and fed. It was also decided that if any place called Scranton could be definitely located a return game should be arranged for Saturday, June 30, or later.

The gentlemen who comprise the Luzerne County Court House Base Ball club form one of the grandest combinations of muscle and brain that has ever upheld the athletic reputation of the county. Each man is a polished ball player and all are in the pink of condition. The team is batting now at over .600 and the team fielding average is .995.

HAS ASKED FOR AN APPEAL.

City Solicitor Takes Koehler Case to Supreme Court.

City Solicitor Vosburg has petitioned the Supreme court for a special order for an appeal from the Superior court's recent decision sustaining the lower court in the case of Koehler against the city, in which it was decided that the plaintiff was not obliged to pay for pavement on Mulberry street laid by the street railway company between its tracks. Judge J. B. McCollum granted a rule to show cause why an appeal should not be granted, returnable June 11.

The city solicitor in his petition presented several reasons why the appeal should be granted. He contends that if this ruling of the Superior court is allowed to stand, it will entirely destroy the foot front rule in its practical application, and would accordingly be in direct conflict with past decisions of the Supreme court, which has often sustained the foot-front rule.

He further argued that if this decision is allowed to stand it will create great confusion in the collection of municipal claims. He also stated that if it is allowed to stand, the city, in this particular case, will be compelled to pay several thousand dollars which it should not be called upon to expend, as the assessments were made by the city engineer in strict accordance with the decisions of the Supreme court.

Mr. Vosburg is very hopeful of ultimately winning the case for the city, in case an appeal is allowed.

A large number of men will be placed on work by Contractor Gibbons and it is thought that the work of construction may be completed in two or three months. The sewer will be over ten thousand feet long.
