

EVENTS OF DAY IN WEST SCRANTON

WAY THE PRIMARIES WERE CONDUCTED.

People Manifested Great Interest in the Battle Between the Candidates. Hugh O'Hara Was Instantly Killed by a Fall of Top Coal in Briggs' Shaft—Deposits of the School Children—Funeral of the Late Mrs. John Brown from Her Late Residence.

Yesterday was the liveliest primary election in many years in West Scranton, owing to the number of candidates from over the river seeking the different offices within the gifts of the people. Their friends were very much in evidence at every election booth, and the friendly rivalry which existed was a source of general comment.

From an unbiased point of view, the going was heavy, but in the Sixth, Eighth and Twenty-first wards there was a light poll, owing to the small percentage of Republican voters in the several districts.

Measrs. Fellows, Housar, Ferber, Finn and Becker had an army of lieutenants at work in every voting district, and each was confident of carrying many West Scranton districts, but the real fight for votes was between Fellows, Housar and Finn, and if a comparison of the votes is made it will be found that each of them were very strong in all of the different wards.

For national delegates, T. H. Dale and Everett Warren were the favorites, while Mine Superintendent Evan Evans received a complimentary vote from among the employes of the various Delaware, Lackawanna and Western collieries. In the Fourth, Fifth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth wards the voting was heavy, but in the Sixth, Eighth and Twenty-first wards there was a light poll, owing to the small percentage of Republican voters in the several districts.

Services over the remains of Margaret, the young child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lynn, of 2043 Jackson street, were conducted at the family residence yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Dufour's French Tar Has Won Success, It Cures Your Cold And Gives You Rest. FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS.

WEEKLY SCHOOL DEPOSITS.

One more week remains before the final collections will be made in the school deposit fund of No. 19 school for the present term, the teachers and pupils of Nos. 13 and 22 having ceased making their collections a week ago. The school term will close on Friday, June 22.

KILLED IN THE MINES.

Hugh O'Hara, aged 26 years, residing with his brother, M. J. O'Hara, at 223 North Van Buren avenue, was instantly killed yesterday morning by a fall of top coal in Briggs' shaft.

Only a short time ago O'Hara returned from Cuba and the Philippines, having been a member of the Eleventh United States infantry. The remains were taken to the home of his brother, where the funeral will be held. The arrangements will be announced later.

NARROW ESCAPE OF JOHN WYLLIE AND COMPANION.

Horse Attached to a Carriage in Which They Were Riding Ran Away—Enjoyable Reception Given by Gus Report at His Home on Beech Street—John Schahill and Timothy McIntyre Arrested on a Charge of Maliciously Cutting a Companion's Hair.

While returning from Minooka yesterday afternoon, John Wyllie, a brother of Leonard Brothers, and a companion, escaped from a narrow escape from injury, caused by the horse which they were driving running away.

The young men were returning from Minooka, where they had given a phonograph concert and had a new phonograph and about fifty records with them. Coming up Cedar avenue the shaft of the carriage gave way and struck the horse's hoof, frightening him. He dashed up Cedar avenue and at the gutter on Maple street Mr. Wyllie and his companion were thrown out. The horse continued up Cedar avenue, but was caught at the Neptune Engine house by Fred Boyer and William Rosar. The gentlemen sustained no serious injuries, and escaped with a general shaking up. The carriage was totally destroyed, the sides and the wheels being completely smashed. The team belonged to Leonard Brothers, of Prospect avenue. The phonograph was a total wreck, and the records all broken.

Letter from Price Lloyd, Who Is Fighting for Uncle Sam in the Philippines.

The following letter has been received from Price Lloyd, of Rockwell street, who is now on duty in the Philippines, being attached to a company with a number of other Scranton boys, to company A, Forty-seventh volunteer infantry:

Dansel, P. L., April 11, 1900.

Dear Friend: When we first landed at Dansel we drove the Philippines out of the town and they were returned but once since then. We had a big battle with them on Jan. 28, which lasted five hours. Our loss was eight wounded, while theirs was 40 killed and 21 wounded. We made a charge on camp, chasing them out of their trenches and captured four cannon and six pieces.

We had it very hard on guard duty at first. We had to stay in the trenches day and night, and the cooks had to bring our food around to us. It is a little better now, as we have a fence of concert trees around the entire town. There are openings every hundred feet, in which the sentries are placed. I don't think they can come in on us now to do any damage of any account.

The night after the battle I referred to above we had more trouble with them. Several of them sneaked into the town and started a fire and before we could stop it, the entire town was in flames. The population of Dansel is 8,000, so you can readily see that we have to keep our eyes wide open, numbering only 200 as we are. We had several little battles with the insurgents until Feb. 21, when about thirty soldiers, of which party I was one, took a trip up the river in a boat.

Going aboard was a pleasant time, but coming back the fun commenced. Without warning we were fired upon from both sides of the river, the bullets coming like a hail storm. We could see the smoke, but the thick brush on the river banks successfully concealed the enemy. The major commanding us ordered us to fire at the points from whence the smoke came. This we did and when the smoke cleared we found we had cleared away. It was discovered that our loss was only one man killed and one wounded.

We did not learn the extent of the enemy's loss until the next day, when we went up on foot and captured one of their sentries, who told us that the Filipino loss was 10 killed and 40 wounded, which I think is a pretty good record. We are about to take a trip up the river to Polar, so I must close this letter.

"Ice in the Pulpit, and Who Put It There," was the subject of the lecture given by the Rev. Dr. O. P. Filippo, at the Providence Presbyterian church. The lecture was a rare and rich entertainment and was given under the auspices of the members of the North Main Avenue Baptist church. Dr. Filippo is a very distinct speaker and kept the large audience in a continual rapture during the discourse, discussing about neck twisting in church, sleepy hearers, negligent sextons, late comers, the widow of the church, the lover of the church, pastor's wives, the Rev. Shallow Spurge, etc. The lecture was full of amusing anecdotes. The proceeds of the lecture will go towards increasing the new church fund.

Between the South Side club and Minooka Indians and was decidedly interesting from the fact that a great rivalry exists between those two clubs. Both clubs put up an elegant game from start to finish. The Minooka battery did splendid work, only four hits being secured off Duffy's delivery, and the work of Flannigan, Minooka's star catcher, was superb. The result was 3 to 2 in Minooka's favor.

Interment in Forest Hill cemetery.

WANTED MORE PAY.

What would in all probability have resulted in a serious riot between a number of the workmen engaged in laying the North Main avenue pavement was only prevented yesterday afternoon by the timely arrival of several general policemen and the coyness of General Foreman James Anderson.

The largest gang of men employed by the Girard Construction company, which is laying the pave, are engaged in grading the street, preparatory to the laying of the concrete base. There were about forty of these at work yesterday morning just beyond the intersection of North Main avenue and Providence road.

During the dinner hour they discussed among themselves the wages they have been receiving, $1.25 a day, and after much persuasion on the part of A. G. Broadbent, who seemed to be the leading spirit, some thirty of them decided to ask for an increase to $1.50. Failure to receive favorable acceptance of which demand was to be the signal for the stopping of work.

This other ten men would not agree to the plan and when the signal was given to return to work they promptly did so, while the others approached Foreman Anderson and demanded an increase in their wages. They were met with a prompt and emphatic refusal, which seemed to greatly anger and excite several of them, especially Broadbent, who is a powerfully built man.

The strikers accordingly withdrew to one side of the road, retaining their picks and shovels and began to taunt and jeer the men still at work. This angered the latter and hot words passed between the two factions. Foreman Anderson, realizing that one single avert act would lead to a general and perhaps bloody riot, secretly dispatched a messenger to the North Scranton police station after an officer.

In a few minutes Patrolman Saitry appeared on the scene with Mounted Officer Burke, who lives nearby. Just as they arrived a happening occurred which had it not been for their appearance would have led to a general fight.

Broadbent lifted his shovel and without any warning brought it down on the head of Charlie Blitzer, an Italian who had refused to quit work. The latter turned and returned the blow, whereupon Broadbent again raised his shovel and was about to deal Blitzer a terrific blow on the head with its edge when the policeman grabbed him and placed him under arrest. There were ominous threats from the strikers while they were being done, but they soon quieted down.

Broadbent was lodged in the station house, but it is not known whether the company will press the case or not. Over one-half of the men who closed later in the afternoon that they would return to work, but the other half drew their pay and will not go back.
