The Latest Vice Presidential Candidate Appears.

THE OTHER POSSIBILITIES

Managers of the Various Booms Present Their Claims-Dolliver, Allison, Bliss, Long and Woodruff Oregon and Washington arrive. Mr. Among the Possibilities-Senator Hanna Fails to Indicate His the nomination of Tripp would mean Choice, Except in the Case of Mr. Woodruff.

Philadelphia, June 15 .- While there have been no startling developments today in the vice-presidential situation. a slightly new turn has been given the discussion by an interview in New York with Senator Platt, circulated here today, in which Platt suggests B. B. Odell, chairman of the New York state Republican committee, as a cardidate. If the New York delegation should present Odell, he would make quite a formidable candidate, but it also suggests to a number of leaders here that in such an event the convention might be stampeded to Representative Dolliver, of Iowa, as there is an apparently growing domand for western candidate. It is understood that Senator Allison is urging Mr. Dolliver with considerable persistency, and says that if they need an Iowa man Dolliver should be selected. On the other hand, there are those who declare that the lowa senator is urging Dolliver, knowing that it takes the talk away from himself.

While there is still talk of Bliss, his friends here say that he has made it perfectly clear to the president and to the president's friends that personal reasons prevent him from being considered.

Joseph H. Manley, of Maine, is pressing the claims of Secretary Long. "He is the only available man," he said today, "who comes up to Mr. Hanna's requirement for a vice-president who would certainly make a good presi-dent. Mind," he added, "I cast no reflections upon Mr. Allison or Mr. Bliss, but they are not candidates. With these men out of the way, Mr. Long is the only man left willing to accept who will fill the bill. Of course, I do not forget the Sampson-Schley controversy but that will cut no figure.

friends and the administration understand the situation and he does not think it necessary to announce a positive declination of the place. More-over, there are a number of Republican leaders who think it possible that a contingency may arise where it will be necessary to nominate Senator Fairbanks. In such an event it is believed by those who know the senator's party loyalty, that he would accept. It has been suggested that he will make the speech placing McKinley in nomina-tion, but so far no such arrangement has been made.

The fact that the name of Bartlett Tripp will be presented to the convention for vice president is not al-lowed to be hidden by the energetic men of the Pacific coast who are in charge of his interests. Philadelphia, June 15 .- The national ommittee held three sessions today to onsider contests in the various state delegations, The entire first session was devoted to the contest over the delegation at large from Tennessee, in which the guarrel was between the factions represented respectively by W. P. Brownlow and Pension Commissioner Evans.

The contest between the two factions was reviewed throughout by the speakers who addressed the committee. In the state convention the credentials committee had seated every Brownlow ontestant and had denied Mr. Evans a seat in the convention hall. After this the Evans men retired and held a convention of their own. Each convention selected a full delegation to the national convention. After hearing the arguments of each side, the committee decided without a dissenting vote to seat the Brownlow delegation at large.

There were also contests in the Fifth, Sixth and Ninth districts of Tennessee. In the Fifth and Sixth the Evans men were seated, and in the Ninth the Brownlow delegates were admitted, The most interesting event of the day was reserved until the afternoon session. It wast a speech by Senator will be seated in the convention hall Hanna on the Delaware case, in which was made public tonight. The task of

"Meanwhile, the ministers are altogether unable to communicate with the officers commanding the relief column, which is making an enforced and isolated halt between Tien-Tsin and Pekin. "Sir Claude MacDonald's latest message says that the legations are capable of sustaining an effective defense, unless attacked in force."

Russia, this correspondent asserts, notwithstanding assurances to the contrary, sides with China. Some foreign troops are already reported to be in the environs of Pekin, and the attitude of the Chinese troops is increasingly menacing. Even were the tsung li yamen disposed to restrain the violence of the reactionaries, it is considered highly improbable that they would be able to hold them in check, For the foreign ministers the crisis will arise when the relief column comes in sight of Pekin.

Arkansas will on this vice presidential matter it would simplify the situation greatly asked, he said, to unite, each side acand give us an opportunity to do what the president would like," said a prominent Republican to Senator Hanna today, and the reply he made was: "You know all that I know about it."

Senator Hanna's only observation on the situation today was that until the different delegations arrived and there was an opportunity for them to consult, no conclusion could be reached. Senator Platt's talk in New York with a suggestion to recommit the of Odell caused a little flutter here, and Dolliver stock took an upward turn about the same time, the cause being the impression that in case Odell should be pressed by New York there would be a concentration on the pied about five minutes time, but he lowa congressman by those who do not favor the New Yorker.

Woodruff in Evidence.

The candidacy of Lieutenant Goverdence by his friends, but apparently without any backing from the Republican managers and with the distinct where, disapproval of Senator Hanna. When questioned tonight regarding the statement made Ly Senator Hanna to the effect that Mr. Woodrun was not a satisfactory candidate for the vice presidency, the latter said: any intimation from the administration that my candidacy was not desirable I would not have allowed my friends to support me to the extent they have.'

Mr. Woodroff was asked if he would continue as a candidate in the event of the New York delegation failing to support him. To this replied: "There will be no such event."

It is generally believed that Senator Allison has made it plain that he will not be a candidate under any circumstances.

The position of Secretary Long causes considerable comment, and it is being freely asked why the Long candidacy should proceed so far unless it has the tacit consent of the president.

The fact that Long is a member of McKinley's cabinet gives rise to an undeniably widespread belief that the secretary of the navy will finally receive the support of the administration. If such is the case, however, it is being carefully kept from view. As the matter stand tonight it would seem that Long, Dolliver and Fairbanks are the leading possibilities for vice-president.

Senator Fairbanks, of Indiana, was among the arrivals today and he was besieged by those who are anxious to know if he was a candidate for vicepresident. While he would not be interviewed, he did not deny any aspirations for the office. The position of Senator Fairbanks, however, is well known. He does not want the viceprer lency. The Addicks people had assured him that this arrangement would be satisfactory to them, but the opposing delegation had held out for absolute recognition, agreeing to make proper effort to secure harmony in state and national contests. There was a proposition to seat the Addicks delegation, but this was met matter to the sub-committee with instructions to make further effort to bring the contesting factions together. Mr. Hanna took the floor in support of this latter opposition. He only occuspoke with great earnestness. His speech was an appeal for unity of action, and he said That no effort should be spared to accomplish this end. He referred to the objection of the Du nor Woodruff, of New York, who ar- Pont-Higgins people to Mr. Addicks, rived today, is still being kept in evi- and said that opposition to no one man could be allowed to stand in the way of party success in Delaware or else-

The committee cannot afford to take up the ginia, Washington, West Virginia, personal cause of any set of men; much less can it afford to espouse the cause of any individual." Continuing, he said that contingencles might possibly arise in which Delaware would settle a national contest and it was especially important that the possible effect upon the United States senate should be borne in mind. True, there was a safe Republican majority in the senate at present, but no one could tell what emergency might arise or what changes might occur.

Senator Hanna said: "I feel an intense interest in this case because of its possible bearing upon national politics, and I appeal you, indeed, I supplicate the Delaware Republicans of both parties to forget that there has ever been a factional fight in the party in your state and to unite in the interest of the common cause and it will not do to forget that the responsibility for any mistake that is made will be fastened upon those who make it." The senator's utterances were liberally applauded by members of the committee and when he concluded there was no opposition to the recommittal of the question.
