NOTABLE RESULTS.

What the Conservatory Offers for Next Year.

The results in the use of the Faelen system of teaching piano at the Conservatory of Music this year have exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Witness the many successful public recitals which have been given. While being the most inspiring and musically educational system ever devised, the Faelen method is, at the same time, the least expensive. Where ten pupils can attend a first class recital under the old system, one hundred can afford instruction under the Faelen system and be better taught in the bargain. Your address on a postal will secure the Conservatory booklet, "Piano Lessons," which tells about the conservatory and of recitals (most of them) ranging from thirty dollars per year, with two hour lessons per week, to one hundred and twenty dollars per year, with six hour lessons per week.

TWO LICENSES ONLY SUFFER ASSAULT

REVOCATION RULE CONTINUED IN ALL OTHER CASES.

Men's Union Would Not Consent to a Continuance in the Cases of P. F. Moran and T. F. Clark—Seeing That Revocation Was Inevitable, the Attorneys for These Two Parties Sought to Have the Licenses Transferred, but in Vain—Deputy Constable Eilman Reminded.

As foreshadowed in The Tribune, the rules for the revocation of liquor licenses were yesterday continued, with two exceptions, those in the cases of P. F. Moran, of the Opera Cafe, Spruce street, and Thomas F. Clark, of the Lyceum Cafe, Wyoming avenue, commonly called the "Sour Pickle."

The representatives of the Men's union would give no quarter in these two cases. Moran, it was alleged, was selling liquor on Sunday right along, refused to desist when warned, and attempted to assault Agent Robert Wilson. Attorney Clarence Balentine wanted court to transfer the license to Thomas F. Roche. Court took the petition under consideration, but intimated strongly that if Mr. Roche got the license it would be as a new applicant.

The testimony against Moran was given by the same regular agents, Robert Wilson, George West and James Reid. Sunday, May 20, was the date they made their visit.

In the Clark case, an effort was made by Attorney George S. Horn to have the rule continued to give the landlord, Mrs. McHugh-Hand, an opportunity to have the license transferred to her. Court said no, and said it was emphatic.

Lattimer Reese and Frank Astringer gave testimony against Clark. They said they were there on a Sunday, bought drink, saw a large crowd there drinking and carousing, and that the place was a common resort for lewd women. Evidence was also offered to show that liquor was sold there only last Sunday.

The rule in the Francis Haffer case was continued only after some special agreement was reached.

In the other sixteen cases the continuances were granted with the understanding, as explained at length in yesterday's Tribune, that the proprietors will not only obey the law themselves, but use their honest and best endeavors to compel others to do likewise. A close watch will be kept on these places, and the slightest offense will result in the rule being called up for a hearing.

DOCTORS AND EDGE TOOLS

President of the Homeopaths Declares for Less Carving and More Curing—Appendicitis a Fad.

At the annual meeting of the Homeopathic Medical Society of North-eastern Pennsylvania, held last evening at the Speedway hotel on the boulevard, the retiring president, Dr. A. Bullard, of Philadelphia, delivered an address, in which he said some very cutting things about the allopaths.

After explaining that with the aid of a little list containing the names of a few choice remedies and the different diseases for which they are prescribed by allopathic physicians, a frock coat, a silk hat and a pair of spectacles, the ordinary layman could become the peer of an allopathist, the doctor made a few remarks on the prevailing fad of operating for appendicitis.

"The fashion of opening the abdomen, for instance," said he, "and cutting off the poor little appendix, for the cure of stomachache, is an example of what I mean. While this fad exists no one but those under homeopathic treatment, or those who are poor and industrious, can have a reasonable hope to escape the knife."

"From the cradle to the grave its victims are counted by hundreds. Do not be tempted, I beg of you, either by the glitter of the fee or by the advertisement. I claim that it is both dishonest and unprofessional to expose your patient to needless danger and expense, no matter how brilliant the cutting, or how considerable the 'wad.' The best obtainable statistics show conclusively that of all reported cases of operations for appendicitis, ninety per cent. were clearly unnecessary, and the other ten per cent. doubtful only."

"Then, why, I am asked, is the operation so prevalent, especially of late? My reply is, fashion, fear and greed. A pertinent question asked a local surgeon not long ago, was: 'Doctor, what do you usually find in the appendectomy you so frequently perform?' To which, after a moment's silence, he slowly replied, 'Oh, most anything from $50 up.'"

"There is no guess work about a homeopathically prescribed remedy. It is as positive in its curative action as were the cranks of Dowsy's guns in the harbor of Manila in their proem of destruction."

"I simply wish to be recorded as taking a stand for greater conservatism in the professional use of edge tools. In plain words, for more curing and less carving, for more construction and less destruction, for less maiming of men and less mutilation of women, for more serious thought concerning the welfare of coming generations. I stand as a humble representative of a school of medicine that gives the public a more satisfactory return for its money—for the three 'H's,' Hahnemann, homoeopathy and health."

The meeting was attended by a number of physicians from Scranton, Pittston and Wilkes-Barre, and was mainly of a social nature, the only business transacted being the election of officers for the coming year. Those chosen were: President, Dr. T. M. Johnson, of Pittston; vice president, Dr. A. Lindbury, of Scranton, and secretary and treasurer, Dr. Anna C. Clark, of Scranton.

At the conclusion of the meeting a delightful banquet was served in the spacious dining room of the hotel and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Dr. Theodor Smith, Dr. L. J. Peck, Dr. E. H. Hill and Dr. J. A. Brown.

The physicians present were as follows:—Dr. J. A. Bullard, Dr. Kistler, Dr. J. A. Brooke, Dr. Dunn and Dr. Higgins, of Wilkes-Barre; Dr. E. H. Hill and Dr. T. M. Johnson, of Pittston; Dr. A. Lindbury, Dr. John W. Goodrich, Dr. C. D. Fawcett, Dr. George J. Berlinghoff, Dr. Anna C. Clark and Dr. H. B. Ware, of Scranton.

Division of Mosaic Borough.

Court yesterday granted a peremptory mandamus directing Street Commissioner Roland D. Thomas to grant a permit to Mrs. H. C. Mott to connect her property on Main avenue with the city sewer.

This is the end of a dispute that has been hanging fire for eleven years. Under the ordinance the street commissioner is directed to refuse a permit to any party not having the assessment paid. Mrs. Mott had seven years ago paid $1,300 in assessments. Five years ago she connected her property with the sewer, and last year she proceeded to connect another, but was forbidden by the commissioner, on the ground that her assessment had not been all paid.

The case was arbitrated and it was decided that Mrs. Mott still owed $20. She settled this and renewed her application for a permit. It was refused and she went into court to secure a mandamus.

Attorney W. J. Hand, who represented the mayor, attacked the clause of ordinance providing for the withholding of the permit until the assessment was paid, on the ground that it attempted to create a new and drastic method of collecting taxes.

The hearing of the case of B. M. Winton, administrator et al., against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company, was begun, but did not continue, owing to the fact that it was seen it could not be finished at noon, when Judge Archibald would retire from the bench to go to Buffalo to attend a funeral.

Court adjourned at 3:30 o'clock to meet again Monday, August 13.

JOHN HANDLEY'S WILL.

Circuit Court Sustains the Lower Court in Putting Aside Claims of the Irish Cousins.

The following was received by Associated Press last night:

Philadelphia, June 21.—Judge Gray, in the United States circuit court of appeals, today affirmed the decision of the lower court, sustaining the will of the late John S. Handley of the Scranton, Pa. millinery. He was the owner of considerable real estate in Scranton and coal timber lands in the north. He was particularly attached to the city of Winchester, Va., near which place he bought many bottles in the civil war. He left $200,000 in the civil war.

The residue of his estate he left to the city of Winchester for twenty years, the income to be paid out and expended in that city for the erection of school houses for the education of the poor. This residuary involved about $300,000. Judge Handley left no relative nearer than first cousins, who lived in various parts of the United States and Ireland. By them the will was contested.

It was urged for them that the residuary clause in the will of the city of Winchester, a municipal corporation, has no capacity to take the estate because the beneficiary and the objects and purposes of the trust are nonexistent because of the subject of the residuary bequest is also uncertain.

This means that the directions of the will are to be observed and the Irish cousins are not to come in for the residuary estate.

FIRED INTO A CROWD.

Bloodless Encounter Between Messrs. Priestler and Ringgold's Band.

George and Martin Priestler were prisoners in police court yesterday morning and arraigned before Mayor Molt, accused of drunkenness and discharging firearms.

The two men were arrested yesterday morning by Patrolmen Ross and Haggerty on Adams avenue. They met a number of the members of Ringgold's band, of South Scranton. A quarrel ensued, and George Priestler suddenly drew a revolver and fired four shots, none of which, luckily, took effect.

The angry musicians then closed on the pair, with cries of "Lynch 'em!" and had it not been for the arrival of the two patrolmen it would have fared ill with them. The police drove the crowd back by a liberal application of their batons, and removed the two men to the Center street police station. Mayor Molt fined George Priestler $10 and discharged Martin.

SECESSIONISTS ARE DEFEATED.

The project to annex to Taylor borough the villages of Pyne, Archibald and the other small settlements of Lackawanna township adjacent to Taylor, was yesterday rejected by the action of court in quashing the proceedings by reason of insufficiency of notice. By a clerical error the date for the presentation of the application for annexation was advertised for May 5.

SIX GRADUATES OF SCHOOL FOR NURSES

INTERESTING EVENT AT ST. LUKE'S PARISH HOUSE.

Annual Exercises Attendant Upon the Commencement of the Training School for Nurses of the Lackawanna Hospital Conducted Last Night—Addresses Were Made by Judge H. M. Edwards and Dr. J. L. Rea—Diplomas Were Presented by President J. F. Dickson, of the Board of Directors.

For the sixth time in its history the training school connected with the Lackawanna hospital last night sent out a class of bright, earnest and thoroughly trained young women, who have chosen as their life work one of the noblest of all professions, the nursing of the sick. The class graduated last night consists of six young women, Miss Mary Agnes Doherty, Miss Emily Katherine Gamewell, Miss Elizabeth Ely, Miss Carrie Ovi Crisman, Miss Julia Agnes Twarowski and Miss Rose Katherine Steinmetz.

The exercises were conducted in the beautiful auditorium of St. Luke's Parish house. The bright and cheery-looking stage was earnestly decorated with flowers and potted palms, and presented a delightful appearance. Directly in front of the stage was seated the entire nursing force of the hospital, the members of the graduating class occupying the front row.

OPENING PRAYER.

The exercises were opened by prayer by Rev. Rogers Israel, D. D., rector of St. Luke's, J. P. Dickson, president of the hospital, who presided during the evening, then introduced Judge H. M. Edwards, who made one of his usual witty and clever addresses. He dwelt in particular upon the place and advantages of the hospital in a community and emphasized the fact that the people of Scranton do not do their duty towards the Lackawanna hospital.

DR. REA'S ADVICE.

"You'll not find it a bit crowded up there," said he. "Be practical, for practical talent is the only substantial basis for any profession. Be optimistic. Look at things brightly, and if there's no light side, polish up the dark side. Don't depend upon the influence and pull of your friends to get along, for no nurse ever succeeded by these means. Keep your moral tone high, the higher the better, and, above all else, cultivate close mouths."

THE BOMA BALLOT MACHINE.

Voting Apparatus on Exhibition in Attorney Edgar's Office.

John Boma, inventor of the Boma ballot machine, arrived in the city yesterday with his invention, and had it on exhibition in the office of Attorney S. W. Edgar, in the Mears building. The machine weighs 150 pounds, and is four feet three inches high and three feet three inches broad, supported on legs, the top being six feet from the floor. It is surrounded by curtains, which, when the door of the machine is closed, form a permanent booth. The machine is made of brass and is in a cabinet of quarter oak.

When a voter enters the booth he opens the door of the machine and is confronted by a key-plate, which is the complete "Australian ballot." In the upper part of the machine over each lever is the name of the candidate. Following down is a number of single candidate levers, the name of each candidate being printed on a ticket at the lever.

It is first necessary to pull down the party lever, and if it is desired to vote the straight ticket at this will register the complete vote. If it is desired to split the ticket, however, the individual levers in addition are pulled down. The entire left vertical column is a row of irregulars, and the man wishing to cast his vote for some person not nominated receives a ticket, upon which he writes the name. He then pulls a lever, which opens a slot on the left, and inserts the ticket. When the door is closed the ticket drops into a drawer.

After a voter has completed his vote, on leaving the booth he closes the machine door, which returns the mechanism to its first position and makes it ready for the next voter.

On the outside of the machine is a counter, which records the number of
