THE Scranton Golf club showed up well in the W. C. Fuller tournament. Mr. P. C. Fuller won the cup; Mr. T. H. Watkins won the runner-up prize; Mr. J. H. Brooks won the approach and putting match. Mr. Pollock, of Wilkes-Barre, won the consolation prize. The tournament was greatly successful, and was much enjoyed by the Scranton visitors. Today at the Country club the event will be a mixed handicap, when it is expected that a large number of entries will be made. The prize is a handsome cup.

The Country club is much visited these days. The condition of the greens, the beauty of the scenery and the cool, pine-laden breezes are great attractions.

On the Fourth there will be fireworks and a band concert, and the Country club members expect to have a delightful day and evening.

People are fast completing their summer fitting arrangements. The homes on many of the residence streets began to put on the sleepy and deserted look which characterizes houses closed for the season, while the shops are crowded with buyers anxious to make final purchases in order to hasten away as soon as possible, and dress-makers declare they are "driven to death." June has been such a smiling, lovely month that the few hot days this week gave an extra impetus to the proposed exodus.

The marriage of Mr. Wilmer E. Whitman, of Dunmore, to Miss Gussie Strauss, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Strauss, 901 West Elm street, on Thursday evening, was a brilliant affair. The bride and groom are both members of the Penn Avenue Baptist church, and the ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, D. D. The home was beautifully decorated with roses and palms, and the bridal party occupied a corner of the spacious parlors amid garlands of flowers. The bride was handsomely attired and was attended by her sister, Miss Ida Strauss as maid of honor. Dr. William L. Van Buskirk was best man.

A select orchestra played the wedding march and furnished choice music throughout the evening. Many rich and beautiful wedding gifts were received with the love of friends. The newly married couple will occupy their own home, 110 Webster avenue, Dun-more, and will enter upon their new residence with the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

HER POINT OF VIEW

THE PLEASURES of summer while many and varied are sometimes elusive. The man with a luxurious summer villa secretly wishes it were located somewhere else. His wife complains because there is no one to dandle with her fine new trape. The girl with the rarest type of beauty in face and figure is so content herself with the small world revolving about the front piazza of her home in the city, and cannot have the felicity of seeing her name attached to marvelous notices in the Sunday papers regarding the beautiful Miss ——— of Scranton.

The daughter of a wealthy house must perform so every season to a posh seashore spot because the family has a cottage there, and she is discontented because her horizon never widens and she meets no new people and sees no new scenes. The cliffs and stretches of sand are not dear because familiar and her love for nature is not deep enough to enable her to value communing with the waves as much as with an agreeable man.

The summer visitor at the lake side wonders if after all her friend in the mountains is having such a good time as her letters indicate and accordingly she redoubles her own efforts to make the letters dating from the lake excel in descriptions of galeaty mountain epistles.

In the meantime the lady abounds in the land who prefers "the comforts of her city home to the resorts with their stuffy rooms and tiresome people." So she sits around in her dressing sacque these sweltering days and laudably enough tries to make herself believe she is enjoying it, but sometimes the memory of the blessed salt air sweeps over her and a quick gasp of longing almost makes her faint.

Then there is the other one who all summer made such elaborate preparations to deceive her friends. She went to a Jersey coast resort and spent Sunday at a handsome hotel, from which place she invited letters to all her acquaintances expatiating on the elegance of her apartments and the beautiful time she was having. On Monday she quietly stole away to the farm of a relative five miles from everywhere and much nearer her home than the coast resort. There she spent weeks.

That Makes Our Ready-to-Wear Clothes Famous

The cutter, 'tis he who gives the proper style and "snap" to a garment. The best cutters are not employed on cheap clothing, the master tailor can't afford to pay the salary; neither does the ordinary custom tailor have their services. They are employed by the makers of High-Class Ready-to-Wear Clothes, and that's one reason why our kind has become so popular in this city. Our styles and qualities are seldom equaled here. We pay more attention to detail than most custom tailors. See the Cloth, Qualities, Style and Finish in Our Large Show Windows.

other large body of fresh water within 350 miles of New York.

It is remarkable, outside of the unsurpassed and picturesque scenery, as the location of the famous Hopatcong club, which had for its members many of the noted statesmen and politicians of national repute living in the vicinity of the metropolis. Here that most popular and genial of men, the late Vice President Hobart, landed many of the finest specimens of pickerel and black bass, for which Hopatcong is famous; Attorney General Griggs and ex-Mayor Wooster, of Brooklyn, were recognized as ardent devotees of the sport, while the Frelinghuysens, Flaglers and Young joined United States Senator John Keon and ex-Senator James Smith in friendly, but spirited, contests as to the size of their respective hauls. This was all in the days when the Hotel Breslin, situated midway up the lake, was the home of the Hopatcong club. This famous hospitality is still the summer home of many of its members, who cannot separate themselves from the charming scenery and unsurpassed fishing, but the exclusiveness of the club has been supplanted by the hospitality and all the conveniences of the modern hotel. This new-world Luzern, which has been described as "A diamond in the sunlight, an emerald in the shades of the shores, a turquoise mirroring the skies," where the statesmen and connoisseurs took his summer outing, as many of them do now, is this year, by the opening of the Breslin to the general public, the summer home of many of New York's most prominent families.

The funny treasures, for which the lake has always been noted, are more abundant than ever, owing to the exertions of Fish Commissioner Frothingham, who regards Hopatcong as the finest body of water in the eastern states in which to bring black bass and pickerel to the highest state, both as to flavor and to size. The lake has been stocked yearly, for the last five years, with some 60,000 bass and 30,000 pickerel, besides numerous perch and every variety of fresh water fish.

This most beautiful inland sea in this wild and highland country is less than three hours' ride from Scranton, and it would be strange if the famous hotelery located on its shores, and which has housed so many of the noted men of our day, did not become the objective point of many of our pleasure and rest seekers.

The location of the Breslin, the home of the famous Hopatcong club, is the finest on the lake, and in its park are the cottages of Miss Lotta, the actress; R. L. Edwards, J. Knox Phillips, Robert Dunlap, and a dozen more prominent New Yorkers. This remarkable lake must be seen to be appreciated, and a line and hook dropped into it to be enjoyed. It is safe to say that no more interesting scenery, so wider picturesque beauty, no finer fishing, and no more substantial and better equipped hotel can be found within three hundred miles of Scranton than at Lake Hopatcong and the Hotel Breslin.

What's In a Name?

We would answer a great deal, if that name happened to be STIEFF, on a piano. It means that within the case of the instrument is over a lifetime of experimental art. It means that upon that instrument is concentrated the skill of several generations of piano makers. It means an even scale, full, rich tone, and wearing qualities that guarantee that your grandchildren will be able to play on it with pleasure.

THE HIGH SCHOOL ANNUAL.

A New Book Which Will Fill a Long Felt Want.

The various printers and publishers of the city are tumbling over themselves in an effort to obtain the publication of the High School Annual for next year. The Annual which the school intends to put out will include about one hundred and thirty pages and will be an up-to-date one in every respect. It will contain pictures of the faculty, classes and special organizations of the school, besides many humorous and artistic illustrations by the students themselves.

The literary work of the book will be of the very best, as everything will pass through the hands of the faculty for examination and correction. It will be such a book as the school should have had long ago.
