WOELKERS MUST ANSWER AT COURT

WAS HELD IN BAIL BY ALDERMAN KASSON.

The Up-to-Date Paul Revere Has Three Charges Lodged Against Him by Agent Robert Wilson, of Men's Union—Several Alleged Speakeasy Keepers Given a Hearing—Jordan & Connolly Were Discharged by the Alderman—Misunderstanding in Their Case.

Constable Joseph F. Woelkers, the new Paul Revere, was held in $1,000 bail by Alderman Kasson, yesterday afternoon, to answer for aiding and abetting violators of the liquor laws, using profane language on the public highway and assault, the charges preferred by Agent Robert Wilson, of the Men's union, and which were detailed in Tuesday's Tribune.

Chief Agent Wilson and his assistant, F. W. Dodge, testified at the hearing on Friday, June 23, about 5 o'clock p. m., while they were on Prospect avenue, bent on serving warrants and securing new evidence against speakeasy keepers. Woelkers with his wagon and its long attachment, and driving furiously through the neighboring streets, changed his gong, shouting a warning of the coming of "Whit, the spy," and made vile references to Mr. Wilson and his companions. It was also alleged that he tried to run down Agent Wilson as the latter was crossing the street, driving directly at him at a breakneck speed and turning his horse way out of his course in the attempt at knocking out one of the main props of the crusade.

WOELKERS HIS HORSE. Woelkers is alleged to have halted his horse after the unsuccessful attempt to run down Agent Wilson, and then, leaning out of the carriage, is alleged to have said, addressing Wilson: "You are over here to do my friends an injustice. We'll fix you, you see."

The defense, of course, was not heard. Mr. Scragg, Woelkers' attorney, however, made a vigorous plea to have the alderman dismiss all except the profanity and assault charges, but the alderman would not hear it.

Mr. Scragg was visibly affected, as he deprecated the act of Mr. Wilson in bringing such "absurd" cases. "It's a farce and a burlesque," he said. "The crusade by the Men's union is too sacred a thing to be thus burlesqued."

Jordan & Connolly, the South Scranton liverymen, were arraigned before Alderman Kasson yesterday afternoon, charged with selling liquor without a license at 1331 Pittston avenue. They demanded a hearing, and at its conclusion were discharged, and J. F. Roche, who it was proved had sold liquors at the specified place, was held in $500 bail. Michael Connolly qualified as his bondsman.

Messrs. Jordan and Connolly were present at the Woelkers hearing as spectators, and were much surprised at the conclusion of the hearing to have a warrant served on them.

Jordan & Connolly, the South Scranton liverymen, were arraigned before Alderman Kasson yesterday afternoon, charged with selling liquor without a license at 1331 Pittston avenue. They demanded a hearing, and at its conclusion were discharged, and J. F. Roche, who it was proved had sold liquors at the specified place, was held in $500 bail. Michael Connolly qualified as his bondsman.

Messrs. Jordan and Connolly were present at the Woelkers hearing as spectators, and were much surprised at the conclusion of the hearing to have a warrant served on them.

THE WITNESSES.

Attorney F. C. Beers appeared for the prosecution, and Attorney M. J. Donahoe represented the defendants. Fred Dodge, Arthur Keene and James Reid all testified that on various occasions they had visited the place and bought intoxicating liquor from Roche, Jordan and Connolly's names appear under the window. Roche went on the stand and swore that he was not in the employ of Jordan and Connolly, but was hired to serve at the bar by a man by the name of Collins.

Attorney Beers was then sworn and testified that he had found by looking over the records in the internal revenue collector's office that in June, 1899, a retail liquor permit was issued to Jordan and Connolly. Attorney Donahoe then asked that the case be discharged, and turning to Attorney Beers, he said:

"You people don't want to follow innocent men, do you?"

"No, sir, never," promptly answered Attorney Beers.

"Well, then," replied Mr. Donahoe, "if you are the morally upright men you say you are, you'll open up that you're wrong in this case; that you've been berking up the wrong tree, and give it up."

Mr. Connolly was then put on the stand and testified that neither he nor his partner were in any way connected with the place known as 1331 Pittston avenue, with the exception that they left an order book there. They had occupied the place two years ago, which accounts for their name being on the window. He never employed Roche, and did not take out any revenue license.

JORDAN'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. Jordan, his partner, gave evidence to the same effect. He also mentioned the fact that some time ago the firm was arrested on the same charge, with practically the same evidence against them, but the case never went to the jury.

Attorney Beers then asked the alderman to hold the defendants, rehearsing the strongest points of his case. Alderman Kasson, however, decided that the evidence was not sufficiently strong, and discharged both the defendants and their partner.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lundy were each held in $500 bail on the charge of selling liquor without a license at 1702 Cedar avenue. C. G. Boland became their bondsman.

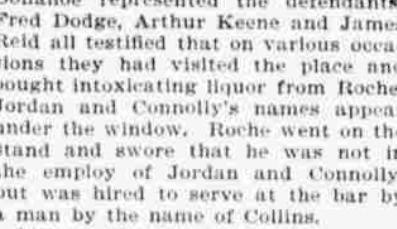

Agents Wilson, Reid and Keene testified to having visited the place at various times and found every indication of a general saloon business being conducted there.

Agents Reid and Keene swore they bought lager beer there on the morning of June 27, last, and that both defendants served them.

Attorney M. J. Donahoe tried to have the defendants discharged on the WORKS WONDERS.

There are few who realize the extent of the improvements now being made at Nay Aug park and those which are in contemplation. Several members of the park committee, of select counties, the park commissioners and several city officials went through the park yesterday afternoon in company with Architect Edgerton, of Philadelphia, who is supervising the work, and thoroughly inspected everything.

Those who comprised the party were Select Councilmen John E. Roche, Thomas C. Melvin, D. W. Vaughan and John J. Schneider; Park Commissioners J. P. Bedford, J. A. Scranton and P. J. McCann; City Solicitor Joseph A. Phillips; Architect Edgerton and Contractor Peter Stipp.

The plan of the commissioners in expanding the $30,000 voted them a year ago has been to permanently improve a certain portion of the park first, instead of doing a little work here and there. The plans prepared by Architect Edgerton for the improvement of the entire park provide for an outlay of something like $75,000, which sum is not, of course, available as yet.

THE IMPROVEMENTS.

The part of the park now being improved comprises about ten acres, south of the Elmhurst boulevard, as it enters the park from Arthur avenue. It is circular in shape, and is encircled by a road running entirely around it. This ten acres is nicely wooded, and the work on it is being done by Contractor Peter Stipp.

Around the southerly end of this plot there has been erected a retaining wall, about 100 feet long and varying in height from three to six feet. This was necessary on account of the abrupt drop of the land down to the road. The wall is constructed of dressed white stone and the coping on the top is of dressed brownstone. The main road is reached from the road by a sweeping flight of stone steps.

At both ends of this wall there have been erected substantial stone pleasure pavilions about sixty by thirty feet in size and so constructed that they are always in the shade. In the centre of this wall, of course, as it is called a beautiful stone hand stand has been built.

Running from this, as the spokes of a wheel from the hub, eight and ten feet wide, promenades are being laid out, running to the outer edge which will be entirely surrounded by a wide promenade. These walks are of a similar construction to the ones now being laid down in the principal parks of the country.

A layer of broken up rock about the size of egg coal is first laid down and when this has been rolled with a steam roller, a layer of the gravel mixed with a peculiar kind of clay is put down and this, when also rolled, makes a most solid and firm walk.

These promenades will be lined with trees, which are to be transplanted from the woods of the park. Benches will be placed along on both sides. The spaces between these walks are now being graded and when this is completed will be sown with grass seed. Mr. Edgerton stated yesterday that when the mall is completed it will be able to accommodate between 8,000 and 10,000 persons when band concerts are being given.

COST OF THE WORK.

The contract price for building the retaining wall and doing the grading was $7,400, while the rest of the work done and being done on this part of the park will total up to about $16,000. The finishing of this part of the park will entail the removal of the masonry on the other side of the park beyond the bridge.

An excellent location has been found for it about 100 feet to the left of the bridge where a natural bear pit is right at hand. The commissioners have had a note book offered to them and they will accept of it when the mangle is moved. The two lion cubs are growing rapidly, one of them now being as big as a Newfoundland dog and between them and the monkeys, bears, deer, etc., and the animals of a really excellent little zoological collection will soon be on view.

It is more than probable that work of the long-talked-of and much-needed swimming pool will be commenced in the very near future. Mr. McCann has found a most desirable location and Mr. Edgerton has prepared plans. The spot selected is about 200 feet below the band stand, which is now used, and is on a sort of plateau overlooking the falls.

Here for several acres is a bed of excellent sand, which will render the pool absolutely free from danger. It can be sold or taken out, to defray a large portion of the expense. Mr. Edgerton's plans provide for a pool 75x30 feet in size, with a capacity of 80,000 gallons. It will range in depth from three and a half to six feet and will be constructed of masonry and timber, with dressing rooms for 200. The estimated cost is $2,000.

An artificial lake is to be constructed in the near future above this point and it is planned to use the overflow from this for the swimming pool, with provision for direct piping to it for the present. The commissioners are at work on W. W. Scranton endeavoring to have him donate city water for both the pool and lake in perpetuity. A meeting of the commissioners will be held next week to act upon the question.

MINE AT THE PARK.

The visitors were also shown through the surface vein of the Brooks' mine, which has been fitted up by R. J. Brooks & Co., at an expense of $1,800, and donated to the city. It is to be lighted by electricity and by going through it the visitor to the city may inspect the workings of a mine absolutely free from danger.

Architect Edgerton expects that the work of improving the southerly end of the park will be finished in two months. He stated yesterday that when all improvements are completed the park will prove to be one of the handsomest in the United States.

TWO BUILDINGS BURNED.

Mysterious Early Morning Fire in Dunmore—Neither Structure Occupied—Cause Unknown.

Two buildings on the north side of Delaware street, between Monroe and Quincey avenues, Dunmore, were totally destroyed by fire between midnight and 1 o'clock this morning. One was a vacant two-story frame, and the other a dwelling, owned by John L. Hull, and the other a barn, owned by George Carpenter, of Wilkes-Barre, and rented by H. N. Patrick. The barn was in the rear of Mr. Patrick's residence, corner of Monroe avenue and Delaware street, and the Hull building closely adjoined it. There was nothing in the barn except a couple of tons of hay, the live stock and other contents having been recently moved to Mr. Patrick's country home.

The fire started in the vacant store and dwelling. J. P. Mills, whose house is on Monroe avenue, adjacent to Mr. Patrick's, awoke about midnight to find his bedroom brightly illuminated and looking from the window saw the Hull building enveloped in flames. He hastily sent an alarm from the fire box at the corner of Monroe avenue and Delaware street, and the Independent, Neptune and O. S. Johnson hose companies responded. The flames had gained such a hold on both buildings that they could only succeed in preventing them from getting up some adjoining chicken coops and woodsheds.

The origin of the fire is unknown and unexplainable except on the theory of incendiarism. The Hull building was erected three years ago by Edward Palmer, but a year ago he moved to Scranton and the building went into possession of Mr. Hull. For a few months a tenant occupied the dwelling part, but lately the whole building had been vacant.

Mischievous boys had battered in the windows and doors, and it is not improbable that they fired the building. Three weeks ago, so the neighbors say, an attempt was made to burn the building by lighting kerosene, soaked shavings piled against the outside of the building and pressed against the woodwork by a large flat stone leaning from the ground.

Nothing could be learned last night of the insurance as neither owner could be reached.

FUNERAL OF MRS. J. J. GRIER.

Services Were Conducted at the Holy Rosary Church.

The funeral of the late Mrs. James J. Grier, wife of Common Councilman James J. Grier, of the Third ward, was held at 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning from the home on West Market street, North Scranton. A solemn high mass of requiem was read at the Holy Rosary church, of which Rev. J. V. Moylean was celebrant. Rev. James Malone, deacon, and Rev. J. J. O'Toole, sub-deacon. Several selections were rendered by the church choir and "O Salutaris" and "Nearer My God to Thee" were rendered by William A. Lynn.

The funeral was largely attended. Mayor Moir, Presidents of Select and Common Council Charles F. Wagner and William V. Griffiths, ex-City Solicitor M. A. McGinley, ex-Chief of the Fire Department P. J. Hickey and nearly all the members of both branches of council were among those present.

There were floral tributes in profusion and masses of beautiful flowers bore silent testimony to the esteem in which the departed was held. The pall-bearers were Peter Kearney, Michael Kane, William Cusick, John Cusick, John Neary and James Kelly. The flower bearers were Patrick Tighe and John Padden, of Carbonade.

A CHARMING WEDDING.

Marrriage of Pietro Cardello and Miss Ermelia Carlucci.

In the simple little church of St. Lucy, on Chestnut street, Miss Ermelia Carlucci, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Carlucci, of 435 Sixth street, last night plighted her troth to Pietro Cardello, of Detroit, Mich., in the presence of a multitude of friends.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the aisles were roped off with white ribbons, when the couple came up the aisle to the strains of Meyerbeer's wedding march, played on the organ. They were preceded by the bride's father and mother and three little flower girls, Angelina De Martino, Grace Callabresi and Jennie Cassese.

The bride was gowned in a superb outfit of cream silk tulle, trimmed with white chiffon and lace. She wore a dainty white ornament in her hair, and presented a most charming appearance, being a handsome girl of a pronounced brunette type of beauty.

There were no bridesmaids, there being two groomsmen, E. Tiscar, the Italian consul, and Chevalier Rudolph Buti. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dominick Landro, pastor of the church, and at its conclusion a few words of advice were spoken to the couple by Rev. A. Cerrutti, the assistant.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, on Sixth street, where they received the congratulations of their many friends in the spacious parlor. They were also serenaded by the Lawrence band, who rendered several selections. The couple left at midnight on an extended wedding tour to New York and other eastern points, and after a brief return visit to this city, they will leave for Detroit, where they will make their home.

Mrs. Cardello is a young woman of many accomplishments and charming graces, and is greatly admired by a host of friends. Mr. Cardello is the Italian consul at Detroit, and is a young man of great ability.
