Frank was captured Monday afternoon by Mr. Harvey himself, who caught the boy driving his

ENTERTAINING A MARQUIS.

First Time Scranton Has Been Thu Honored.

Scranton has a real, live marquis for visitor. We have had counts, mostly Swedish and German, who have been interested in steel working and kindred amusements, but this is the first time we have been honored with the presence of a marquis. He is French, and is by name the Marquis De Goliere, alhough he is not thus registered at the terroyn, and is averse to notoriety and attention from a curious public. He is young and good-looking, and in not lependent upon his lineage for a reputation, being by profession a cartoon ist, whose work is well-known in Le Figaro and other famous journals.

The marquis is traveling with his mother, Madame Le Gollere-Davenport, the leader of the physical training cult which has attracted such a following in New York and Boston on this side and in the principal cities of Europe She is by birth a Russian, although belonging to the colony of exiles who fled to Geneva, Switzerland, for refuge, her father, a famous general, being condemned to Siberia, where he died. She is probably the greatest authority on fencing and physical training in general in the world. She was for nearly a quarter of a century the friend and teacher of the Empress of Austria, the story of whose tragic life and death has touched so many American hearts, and she has been welcomed and honored in not only places of high degree abroad, but in many of the most exclusive homes in this country. Madame Davenport bears letters from distinguished Americans, from professors of the greatest colleges in the land, to leaders in social and club life and the wives of prominent statesmen. She is an apostle of health and beauty, and light of her long experience and careful study with the most celebrated specialists, objects to drugs and costhe building of a perfect body. That the methods she employs are proved to be what they appear to evident by the classes she has during the winter, which, as every one knows who reads the metropolitan papers, were the fad in New York society last season, as well as among the members of athletic clubs and kindred rganizations. In personality, Madame De Goliere-Davenport is most fascinating. She is probably the only woman under one hundred who is pleased to tell her age. It is sixty-nine, and she looks not more than forty. The most paralyzing fact which she confides to her friends is that she is the mother of eleven grownup sons. It was in the rearing of these boys, and the anxiety to have them perfect specimens of manhood, that she began the study of health and physical and mental training. They are all professional men, several being university bred, and all occupying im-portant places in the world. She is a voman of high accomplishments, being finished musician and speaking many languages. Her English is charming to a degree, and her sincerity and frankness are exceedingly attractive. This afternoon Madame Davenport will give a talk on her methods to a number of guests in the parlors of the

LOOKING FOR ADULTERATIONS. Food Inspector Examines Milk and

Jermyn.

Cream for Preservatives. Food Inspector Widmayer, prompted by the announcement that the food inspector in one of the citles in the southern part of the state had caused large number of milk dealers to b arrested for putting preservatives in milk, has been quietly conducting an investigation of his own along this line during the past few days, and has discovered that local dealers are not free from this offense. The preservative used is formaldehyde, which is similar in its action to the formaldehyde gas used for disinfecting purposes. Scientists say that milk sours on account of the presence of bacillus. Formaldehyde kills this bacillus and therefore preserves the milk from souring. The quantity of the liquid required to keep the milk for two or three days is very small, being o'clock on the special train for Atlantic about a tablespoonful to a ten-gallon

The food inspector now carries chemicals around with him, by the aid of which he is enabled to almost instantly | ciety, the Gwent Choral society of Eddetect the presence of formaldehyde in milk or cream. He has discovered it ciety, of Olyphant, and the North in cream in several instances, but has Scanton Glee club, composed of the not yet found it in milk. However, he has only been making this test for a short time.

One of the dealers, in whose cream Mr. Widmayer found the stuff, admitted that he had put it in, but said he had done so only because it was absolutely necessary if he wanted to keep his cream any length of time, Another dealer positively denied having put formaldehyde in his cream until confronted with the positive Hugh Jones. proofs, when he admitted having done

The food inspector has interviewed several of the leading chemists of the city for the purpose of finding out whether formaldehyde is injurious to the human system. They all agreed as injurious as the acids found in vinegar, which is so largely used.

The milk ordinance provides that any dealer who shall "put any oreign substance in his milk shall be arrested and fined not less than $10, nor more than $100," Formaldehyde is a foreign substance, but it is not injurious, so that the old question of the letter and the spirit of the law enters largely into the case. The food inspector is making further investigations, but has not yet decided

MAYOR MOIR AND THE CURFEW LAW

CRITICIZES HIS CRITICS IN STRONG LANGUAGE.

Executive and Police Do Their Duty, He Says, and Suggests That It Would Be More Beneficial If Fault Finders Offered Remedies Rather Than Roasts-Curfew Law Is a Good Thing in Theory, the Mayor Believes, but He Doubts Its Practicability in This City.

Mayor Moir was very much wrought up yesterday over the criticism upon the city's police force, and incidentally, apon himself, made by A. B. Dunning at the Christian 'Endeavor meeting held on Monday night to discuss the question of introducing a curfew law n this city.

At this meeting Mr. Dunning stated that if the executive officers of the city enforced the present laws seventy per cent of the evil which the curfew is intended to do away with-would be eradicated. The mayor said to a Tribune man:

"I want Mr. Duaning and others who like to criticize things to know that the executive officers and the members of the police force of this city are doing their duty. Let these people offer some practical suggestions as to how present conditions may be bettered instead of indulging in remarks that are blathering nonsense, as did Mr. Dunning

A SAMPLE CASE. "The police are under orders at pressent to arrest all young girls found upon the streets after a certain hour of night. I had a sample case this morning in police court. A young girl who said she was nineteen years old, but who wasn't over sixteen, was taken into custody on Penn avenue at 3 o'clock this morning, while in company with a married woman and "I could see when she was arraigned before me that she had not yet crossed the brink, so I sent word to her parents instead of fining her, and they will, I'm sure, look after her in the future. We have similar cases every week and to say that we are not doing our duty in this respect is manifestly absurd. "I believe that this curfew law is good in theory, but the question as can it be put into practice. I think it had crept up to 95 degrees, at 2 that all measures tending towards a o'clock it was 97, and at 3 o'clock it restriction of children being abroad at night are worthy of a great deal of attention. There are, to my mind, however, a great number of objections to a curfew regulation from the practical side.

GOING TO BE REPUGNANT.

"The idea of arresting children and placing them in cells the same as ordinary criminals just because they stay out a little late is going to be repugnant to a great many. There would also be a great many instances in which it would be a matter of necessity for children to be out later than a given hour and those who were not compelled to be out by necessity could easily maintain that they were.

city of any zize that has adopted the law is Indianapolis, I understand, so that is the only place where we will be enabled to study its practical application, as the conditions and environments in the smaller cities where it has been adopted are entirely differ ent from those existing in this city."

HOTTEST OF THE YEAR.

In the Matter of Torridity Yesterday Broke the Record-Registered 102 in the Shade.

There are certain persons who have a very pernicious habit of saying to their friends upon very warm days, "Well, this is the hottest day of the year,' 'with a very pronounced accept on "the." These certain persons had their innings yesterday, for it certainly was, beyond the shadow of a doubt, a red-hot scorcher of the very reddest, hottest and scorchiest kind, and the record breaker of this year and of many years past. The sun started to get in his work in the early morning at 9 o'clock, the thermometer in front of Phelp's drug store, which is generally considered to be about the most reliable one in town, and which is always in the shade, registering 91 degrees. At noon was up to 98 degrees, which was the highest registered during the day and which was certainly high enough. From 3 o'clock on it began to cool off, comparatively speaking, of course, ter be handled through Washington, for there wasn't a moment when it preferably through the Chinese legawas cool in the true sense of the word. | tion. At 6 o'clock this same thermometer registered 93 degrees and after the came down to 89 degrees, at which figure it was stationary nearly all midnight, when there was a little wee bit of a shower, accompanied by a vivid electrical display. There was one gentleman, who is generally pretty veracious, who said he could beat Phelp's figures all hollow, "The whole question, however, is he could beat Phelp's figures all hollow, worthy of a great deal of careful and who amounced that the thermomthought and consideration. The only eter at Clarke Brothers, in West Scranton, registered 102 degrees in the jutant of the regiment should be shade about 2 o'clock, and there were Chinamen. The American officers several others who told of registrations unning from 98 degrees to 102.

The day itself was one of those still quiet, heavy and soul-depressing hot days, with not a breath of wind blowing to ease off things for a moment. The humidity was, as a consequence, rather intense, as every man, woman and child in this big city realized.

Men could be seen on the street by the dozens carrying their coats on their arms and walking along with all the glory of their negligee shirts revealed to the naked eye.

"Somebody ought to invent a man's shirt waist," said one overheated man vesterday as he reached up and mopped a pint or so of perspiration from his manly brow. "The women can go around as cool as cucumbers. while we poor fellows have to wear our coats or throw all established rules to the winds and appear in our suspenders, just as I'm doing now. But ome savior will arrive in the near future, I'm sure."

It is a most remarkable fact that in this, the hottest day Scranton has seen in many years, there were no heat prostrations. Taking the intensity of the heat into consideration this was truly remarkable.

The thermometer at the Delaware and Hudson station registered 98 degrees in the shade at 4 o'clock yesteriny afternoon.

MINSTRELS TUESDAY NIGHT.

Primrose and Dockstader's Company Will Be in This City.

That eminent success, the Primrose & Dockstader Minstrel company, which scored such a triumph last season, will be seen at the Lyceum on Tuesday, July 24, and will add to its record as heretofore. It is one of the most reliable, amusing and up-to-date entertainments now before our theatre-going public and, with its host of A1 comedians, vocalists and specialists, may be justly considered one of the best talented, well equipped and most expensive.

Everything that is possible and probable to be incorporated in the program has been provided in the one offered by this company, until it would seem that nothing novel and amusing is to be further found with which to create surprise, merriment and laughter.

a few men at work early in the morning, but upon seeing that Mr. Paine was determined to keep his crowd at work, and realizing that he couldn't be interfered with, he withdrew the city's men from the scene about two hours after they commenced work. THIRTEENTH'S MEN IN CHINESE ARMY

SUCH WAS AVERTED BY THE MEREST ACCIDENT.

They Had Completed All Negotiations to Go to Pekin and School a Chinese Regiment, but During a Quibble Over a Detail, a Drunken Private Lost a Letter That Would Have Straightened Out the Difficulty, and the Delay Resulted in the Matter Being Dropped.

That three well-known officers of the Thirteenth regiment are not now in China, probable sharers of the fate of other Caucasians, is due to the meres

In December, 1898, while at Augusta when it was evident that their long tour of duty was about to end, a number of the younger officers of the Thirteenth and adjoining regiments, who had come to like military life, and who realized that there were small hopes of securing commissions in the United States service, conceived the idea of offering to the Chinese government a proposition to form a Chinese regiment and drill it in American army methods. Major W. A. Wood, Captain T. A. Gilman, Captain James Smith, Captain Harry P. Decker, First Lieutenant William Freeman, First Lieutenant John Huff, and Assistant Surgeon George C. Merriman were those of the Thirteenth's officers who were in on the proposition. The Fifteenth Minnesota and First Maryland contributed the others. Major Wood was delegated to look after the negotiations. He laid the matter before Minister Wu Ting Fang in a letter and later in a personal interview at the Chinese legation in Washington. The result was a letter from the famous Chinese diplomat advising Major Wood to place the matter in the hands of Minister Conger with the request that he take it up with the Chinese government. Mr. Wu gave as an excuse for not wishing to handle the matter himself, that he had no instructions to govern him in a case of this kind, and further that much red-tape delay would be avoided if the matter was looked after by the American legation at Pekin.

CONGER APPROVED IDEA. Minister Conger was communicated with but like the Chinese eninister he was at a loss how to proceed in the been broached before, and he replied reconsidered the matter in the interim, sun had sunk in the golden west it for early in January Major Wood received an invitation to correspond with the generalissimo of the Chinese army night, cooling off a litle just before at Pekin. He did so, and after various exchanges a definite agreement was reached whereby three of the American officers, Major Wood, Captain Gilman and Captain Decker were engaged to go to Pekin, form a regiment of 1,200 picked men, and school them for five years. The Chinese general insisted that the colonel and adcould have command of the three batalions, one of them to be lieutenant colonel and the other two majors. They would be required to swear illegiance to China for the five years they would be in the service, with the proviso that they should be released and granted safe convoy to neutral teritory in case of a war with the United States. If the Chinese government wished to dispense with their services, it would pay them a bonus of six months' salary in addition to what they had earned and stand the expenses of their journey home. If they wished to terminate the contract they would have to pay their own expenses home. Their salary was to be about twice what corresponding positions in the United States army bring, and besides they were to receive a bonus if they completed the five years' term of service satisfactorily, and all their pay was to be in gold.

WOULD HAVE CARRIED POINT. The idea of having a Chinaman as an immediate senior officer was not relished by Major Wood, Captain Decker and Captain Gilman, and when the Chinese generalissimo would not consent to have the first officer of the regiment an American they decided to terminate the contract then and there They have since understood that the Chinese legation at Washington was instructed to qualify the agreement to meet the ideas of the United States officers, and that if they pressed the point, they would have won. One of the trio had a letter written to Mr. Wu that would have undoubtedly brought an answer acceding to their terms, but a private who was entrusted with the mailing of it got boiling drunk in Augusta and when he was released from the guard house he confessed that he did not mail the lette and could not tell what had become of it. He had it in his hat he thought and supposed he lost it while lying down in the brush outside the camp before coming into the lines. Before the officer found it convenient to write another letter, one of the trio said

ANOTHER PLANT SECURED.

Syndicate Secures Control of the One at Taylor.

Another electric light, heat and power plant has been secured by the electric light syndicate which is oper ating in nearly all the towns in the Wyoming and Lackawanna valleys. On Friday evening last at a meeting of the stockholders of the Lackawanna Electric Light, Heat and Power company, of Taylor, Lackawanna county, it was decided to dispose of the stock to the Standard Electric Light, Heat and Power company, of Avoca, J. B. Russell & company, of Wilkes-Barre, being the prime movers for the electric light syndicate.

It is said that the consolidation of the Taylor and Avoca plants will occur in the near future and a big item of expense will be saved by this move It is not known yet which plant will furnish the power to light both boroughs. Slowly but surely the syndicate is getting control of electric light plants in towns between Carbondale and Nanticoke.-Wilkes-Barre Record.

KERVIN WINS ANOTHER GAME

South-Paw Is Pitching Great Ball.

Danny Kervin, the ex-Scranton pitcher, who is now twirling for the Buffalo American league team, continues his great work in the box. Monday he pitched against the strong Indianapolis team, his opponent on the rubber being "Red" Ehret, the ex-Cincinnati pitcher.

For eleven innings there was a battle royal, and in the end Buffalo won out by one run. The "Man from the Mines," as the Buffalo papers call Burnham's south-paw find, only gave aine hits in the full eleven innings.

Members of the Home department of he Elm Park Sunday school can get tickets for the excursion on Friday at the E. & W. station, or of Mr. R. Ernest Comegys.
